PREFACE

SINCE the publication of the "Genealogy of the Eliot Family," compiled by William H. Eliot, Jr., before 1854, one or more unsuccessful attempts have been made to issue another edition. It was not, however, until the second gathering of the descendants of John Eliot at Natick in July, 1901, that a definite step was taken in the appointment of a committee, who have since pursued their labor of love for nearly four years. The result is in your hands to-day, and we respectfully commit it to your interest and to your leniency. Although great pains have been taken to secure all the Eliot lines, we regret to say that a few have either not been reached or have not responded. Likewise we have sought to ensure accuracy of dates, though this is not always possible, as authorities differ.

For this reason contemporaneous records, as far as possible, have been used rather than those made and copied years afterwards. Those who have the first book will note that with the exception of the Genealogy proper we have not incorporated much of the old material, thus leaving that book still valuable for many purposes. The addition of the family of Bennett Eliot, now known as the Apostle's father, will prove of interest to many. The interest on the part of the descendants of many female lines has been so great that we have ventured to extend some of these lines far beyond the usual limits, and we hope that they will be lenient towards the errors which must of necessity creep in through the effort to disentangle so large a mass of material.

As the editor-in-chief is responsible for the preface, I take great pleasure in informing you of those who have given freely of their time and strength and of placing the credit where credit is due.

To Dr. Ellsworth Eliot of New York must be awarded the chief praise and glory, if glory there shall be. He, more than any other, has had the constant enthusiasm to pursue the task and the material to use in its preparation. He was the first to begin and the last to leave off, material having been received from him after the manuscript was ready for the printer. He, more than any other, except the author of the first Genealogy, has kept the family together—through his interest in and his social relations with them; through the inception and completion of the Memorial window to John Eliot in the church at Widford, Hertfordshire, England; through the raising of the funds for the Joseph Eliot Memorial Scholarship at Yale College, and of the Eliot Prize Funds at Jesus College (Eliot's College) Cambridge, England. Nor is this all. But these are the things which will stand out in bold relief, and we are all proud to recognize him as the "Chief of our Tribe." May I add that his extreme modesty caused him to decline having his portrait inserted until the last moment, when he yielded to the importunities of many members of the family, and to them we must be duly grateful for this pleasure.

As George Eliot, Jr., has been able to do comparatively little of the work of compilation, though always most ready and helpful as an adviser, his place was partly taken by his sister, Mary C. Eliot of Clinton, who has been a tower of strength in every way. Annie Griffing (Fowler) Davis of Guilford was one of the first to begin and collected the entire line of John (34). Others who have furnished a large amount of material are Henry Hill Elliott of New York, Mrs. Frances Elliott Clark of Milwaukee, Wis., Florence V. Elliott of Bloomington, Ill., William Sidney Elliott of Chicago, Mrs. B. S. Johnson of Little Rock, Ark., Robert Eliot of Milwaukee. To all these our especial gratitude is due, but we are beholden to many others for timely assistance and encouragement.

As the more extended genealogical researches of the past twenty-five years have shown that there are many distinct families of Eliot in America, we have chosen the title "The Descendants of John Eliot, Apostle to the Indians," as this name will differentiate it from all other Eliot books.

In conclusion, we venture to express the hope that this work will serve to draw the family more closely together, that the examples of exalted faith and noble endeavor crowned by success herein chronicled may spur us to renewed enthusiasm and better achievement, for as E. A. Freeman has justly said, "The inheritance of a really great name is an inheritance which should be matter not of pride, but of responsibility."

“There is a great deal more in genealogies than is generally believed at present. I never heard tell of any clever man that came out of entirely stupid people. If you look around the families of your acquaintance you will see such cases in all directions. I know it has been the case in mine. I can trace the father and the son and the grandson, and the family stamp is quite distinctly legible upon each of them.”

DATES, OLD STYLE AND NEW

Prior to Sept. 1752, the dates in this genealogy are in the Old Style. In those days, the year began March 25th, called Lady Day, or Annunciation Day, in commemoration of the event recorded in St. Luke's Gospel, chap. 1. 5, 26-28. The first month of the year was, then, March: and the twelfth was February. September, October, November and December, were the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth months, as their derivation indicates.

From the year 1582 to 1752 ten days should be added to dates in the Old Style in order to have them agree with our present reckoning. For example, our ancestors landed at Boston Nov. 4. O.S., but Nov. 14 should be the day observed as our "Forefathers' Day."

PART I

THE FAMILY OF

BENNETT ELIOT AND LETTEYE AGGAR, THEIR CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN, INCLUDING THE WILL OF BENNETT ELIOT

“Were I sure to go to Heaven tomorrow, I would do what I do today.”

(C. M. 21)

THE FAMILY OF
BENNETT ELIOT AND LETTEYE AGGAR, HIS WIFE: THEIR CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN

(Prepared by Dr. Ellsworth Eliot.—This part is not indexed.)

1. The family of John Eliot, "Apostle to the Indians," has been traced back to Oct. 30, 1598, when his father, Bennett¹, and his mother Letteye (Aggar) were married, as it is recorded in the Parish Register of the Church of St. John the Baptist, Widford, County of Hertford, England. The births or baptisms of their children indicate that they removed from Widford to Nazeing, County of Essex, between 1606 and 1610. Bennett was buried at Nazeing, Nov. 21, 1621; she, March 16, 1620. Both in graves now unmarked and unknown.

CHILDREN.

2. i. SARAH², bapt. Jan. 13, 1599, at Widford; d. March 27, 1673.
3. ii. PHILLIP², bapt. Apr. 25, 1602, at Widford; d. Oct. 22, 1657.
4. iii. JOHN², bapt. Aug. 5, 1604, at Widford; d. May 21, 1690.
5. iv. JACOB², bapt. Sept. 21, 1606, at Widford; d. before Nov. 2, 1651.
6. v. LYDIA², bapt. July 1, 1610, at Nazeing; d. about 1676.
7. vi. FRANCIS², bapt. Apr. 10, 1615, at Nazeing; d. in 1677.
8. vii. MARY², bapt. March 11, 1620, at Nazeing; d. about 1697.

So far as is known, the brothers of John Eliot, Phillip and Jacob, have not descendants in the male line. All of Bennett Eliot's children left "The Old Home" for the new world.

As the first years of their son, John, "were seasoned with the fear of God, the word and prayer"; and as the will of Bennett Eliot shows evidently a large landed estate, besides other possessions, the family doubtless enjoyed an excellent position.

2. SARAH² (*Bennett*¹), married to Wm. Curtis, Aug. 6, 1618.

He was bapt. Nov. 12, 1592; d. Dec. 9, 1672.

They came to Boston, in ship Lyon, and landed Sept. 16, 1632. They built a house on Stony river in 1639, which became famous on account of its antiquity and historical associations, and was torn down in 1886; having been occupied by seven generations of the Curtis family. In 1893 there was a farm at Nazeing, called the Curtis farm.

In John Eliot's Record of Church Members, Roxbury, Mass., it is written: "William Curtis he came to this Land in the yeare. 1632. & soone after joyned to the church, he brought 4 children wth him. Thomas. Mary. John. Phillip. & his eldest soñ Williã, came the yeare before. he was a hopefull scholler, but God tooke him in the end of the yeare. 1634."

CHILDREN.

9. i. William³, bapt. at Nazeing, June 21, 1618; d. 1634.
10. ii. Thomas³, bapt. at Nazeing, March 12, 1619; may have died an infant.
11. iii. Thomas³, bapt. at Nazeing, Jan. 19, 1622; d. June 26, 1650, "of a long and lingering consumption."
12. iv. Mary³, bapt. at Nazeing, March 11, 1620.
13. v. Elizabeth³, bapt. at Nazeing, Feb. 13, 1624; m. to Isaac Newhall, Dec. 14, 1659.
14. vi. Sarah³, bapt. at Nazeing, Aug. 5, 1627.
15. vii. John³, bapt. at Nazeing, July 17, 1629; m. Rebecca Wheeler Dec. 20, 1661. Her death is thus recorded in the Roxbury Church Records: "Month 3 day 16 (1675). Rebecca, wife to John Curtis, dyed of hydropycall humors w^h occasioned the more speedy burial of her, on the Sabath Evening".
16. viii. Philip³, bapt. at Nazeing, March 28, 1632; d. 1675; m. Obedience Holland, Oct. 20, 1658. He was a lieutenant in the war with King Philip, and was slain by the Indians.
17. ix. Hannah³, b. in Roxbury; m. Wm. Cary (or Geary), 1651.
18. x. Isaac³, b. in Roxbury, July 22, 1641 (1642); d. May 31, 1695; m. Hannah Poly, 1670.

3. PHILIP² (*Bennett*¹).

Probably came to this country in the Hopewell, Apr. 3, 1635, with his wife and children. He was freeman, March 25, 1636; member of the Artillery Co., 1638; Deputy to the General Court, 1654-1657; Deacon in the Roxbury Church; one of the five men to order the prudential affairs of the town. Feoffee of the Public School in Roxbury.

His marriage is thus quaintly recorded: "Oct. 20, 1624. Philip Eliot of Nasing, Essex, husbandman, a bachelor aged about 22, and Elizabeth Sybthorpe of Little Hallingbury in Co. Essex, maiden, about 23, daughter of Robert Sybthorpe, deceased: there appeared William Curtis of Nasing aforesaid, husbandman, and testified the consent of Anne Sybthorpe, widow, mother to the said Elizabeth; at Nasing, or Little Hallingbury."

Extracts from marriage licenses granted by the Bishop of London, 1598-1639. "Historical Collections of the Essex Institute," vol. xxviii, Nos. 2 and 3, 1891. Elizabeth died Jan. 8, 1659.

Philip's virtues are thus recorded by his brother John in the Roxbury Church Records: "Philip Eliot he dyed about the 22^d of the 8^t month: 57. he was a man of peace, & very faithful, he was many years in the office of a Deacon w^h he discharged faithfully. in his latter years he was very lively usefull & active for God, & his Cause. The Lord gave him so much acceptanc in the hearts of the people y^t he dyed under many of the offices of trust y^t are usually put upon men of his rank, for besides his office of a Deakon, he was a Deputy to the Gen. Court, he was a Comissioner for the govⁿm^t of the towne, he was one of the 5 men to order the prudential affairs of the towne; & he was chosen to be Feoffe of the Publike Schoole in Roxbury."

See N. E. Hist. & Genealog. Reg., vol. viii, p. 281, for an abstract of his will.

CHILDREN.

19. i. Elizabeth^s, bapt. at Nazeing, Apr. 8, 1627; d. Apr. 18, 1714; m. about 1649, Richard Withington and had several children.
20. ii. Sarah^s, bapt. at Nazeing, Jan. 25, 1628; d. Nov. 12, 1686; m. to John Aldis, Sept. 27, 1650, and had several children.
21. iii. Lydia^s, bapt. at Nazeing, June 12, 1631; m. John Smith of Dedham after the death of her father in 1657.

It has been supposed that Philip (No. 3) had a son Philip, because a child of this name, aged 2 years, came in the Hopewell in 1635 with his wife and daughters. As there is no record in any passenger-list of Philip (No. 3), and as Philip, aged 2 years, does not appear in any previous or subsequent record, the distinguished genealogist, Mr. Wm. H. Whitmore, supposes that Philip, aged 2 years, should be Philip, aged 32; and that Philip² (No. 3) is therefore the person whose name appears in the passenger-list of the Hopewell.

5. JACOB² (*Bennett*¹).

Probably came to Boston, with his brother John (No. 4), in 1631. They were made freemen simultaneously, March 6, 1631. He was chosen "Deakon" in the Boston Church, May 17, 1640; and was ordained, as one of its "Ruling Elders," Sept. 13, 1649.

Being a follower of the celebrated Mrs. Hutchinson, he, with 57 others, was compelled to give up army and ammunition.

For an abstract of his will, see N. E. Hist. & Gen. Reg., vol. iv, p. 53. Inventory £579. 2s. 8d.

Married Margery ——— soon after her arrival in Boston in 1632. She d. Oct. 30, 1661.

CHILDREN.

- 28. i. Jacob³, b. Dec. 16, 1632; d. 1693. Captain in Boston; m. Mary Wilcock, wid., Jan. 9, 1654.
- 29. ii. John³, b. Dec. 28, 1634; d. young.
- 30. iii. Hannah³, b. Jan. 29, 1636; m. to Dea. Theophilus Frary, June 4, 1657.
- 31. iv. Abigail³, b. Apr. 7, 1639; m. to Thomas Wyborne, Dec. 16, 1657.
- 32. v. Susannah³, b. July 22, 1641; d. March 14, 1688; m. to Peter Hobart of Hingham, Mass., Dec. 1662, and 2d to Thomas Downes.
- 33. vi. Mehetabell³, b. Apr. 25; bapt. May 4, 1645; m. to Seth Perry.
- 34. vii. Sarah³, bapt. Dec. 5, 1647.
- 35. viii. Asaph³, b. Oct. 25; bapt. Nov. 2, 1651.

6. LYDIA² (*Bennett*¹)

Came to Boston in 1631, with her husband, James Penniman, who d. Dec. 26, 1664. She was m. 2d to Thomas Wight of Dedham, Mass. (his 2d w.) Sept. 15, 1665. Her will was proved Sept. 27, 1676.

CHILDREN, ALL BY HER FIRST HUSBAND.

36. i. James^s, bapt. March 26, 1633.
37. ii. Lydia^s, bapt. Apr. 22, 1635.
38. iii. John^s, bapt. March 15, 1637.

The family removed to Braintree, Mass., and had

39. iv. Joseph^s, b. Oct. 1, 1637; bapt. Nov. 29, 1639.
40. v. Sarah^s, b. July 6, 1641.

43. viii. "Abigaiill"^s, b. Dec. 27, 1651.
44. ix. Mary^s, b. Sept. 29, 1653.

7. FRANCIS² (*Bennett*¹), Braintree, Mass.

Was in this country before 1641, as, in this year, he was made freeman. Deacon, Oct. 12, 1652. Married Mary, dau. of Martin Saunders of London. She d. Jan. 17, 1697. Assisted his brother John (No. 4) in his Indian work, for which he was paid. His will dated Oct. 30, 1677.

CHILDREN.

45. i. Mary^s, b. Jan. 27, 1640; said to have died young.
46. ii. Rachel^s, b. Oct. 26, 1643; was married to John Poulter of Cambridge, Dec. 29, 1662; and 2d to Dea. John Whitmore of Medford, Mass.
47. iii. John^s, b. Apr. 27, 1650; d. young.
48. iv. Hannah^s, b. Jan. 8, 1651; was m. to Stephen Willis, Aug. 3, 1670.
49. v. Mary^s, b. Dec. 25, 1653; said to have been married to Caleb Hobart. There is some uncertainty whether Mary, No. 45, or Mary, No. 49, was the w. of Hobart.
50. vi. Abigail^s, b. Jan. 12, 1658.

8. MARY² (*Bennett*¹).

Was married to Edward Payson (his second wife) Jan. 1, 1642.

NOTES. The marriage of Bennett Eliot and Letty Aggar is thus recorded in the Widford Parish Register:

"An^o Dom^o 1598.

Bennett Eliot and Lettye Aggar were married the xxxth of October An^o Sup Dicto."

The will of Bennett Eliot is signed Benedict Eliot. In the body of the will, it is spelled Bennet.

The record of his and his wife's burial at Nazeing is

"Ben'dt Eliot buried y^e 21 of November" (1621.)

"Lettes Ellyot 16 March. (1620).

Mary's baptism, in the Nazeing Register, is

"1620-1. Marrey Eleot, xi March."

It is sometimes difficult to distinguish between dates of births and dates of baptism, the letter b being used somewhat indiscriminately.

Benedict Eliot.

Proved March 28, 1628.

NOTES. "Yeoman" is defined as "a man of small estate in land, formerly ranking immediately below a gentleman or squire; a farmer."

Blackstone has it: "A yeoman is he that hath free land of forty shillings by the year; who was anciently thereby qualified to serve on juries, vote for knight of the shire, and do any other act where the law requires one that is probus et legalis homo."

The word is also defined as belonging to a class of those small land-holders, once so important a section of the English Commons, coming next to the gentry, but now hardly known as a class.

The word is occasionally found in the early records of New England.

"Crazy," an unusual word in wills, means weak; broken.

"Coppie and customary lands." "Copy-hold," "a tenure of land or houses by copy of court-roll." "A tenure of estate by copy of court-roll; or a tenure for which the tenant has nothing to show, except the rolls made by the steward of the lord's court."

"Customary," according to a law or a right established by some custom or long-established usage."

Mr. Winters, author of "Memorials of the Pilgrims," informed the writer that it was "customary" to hold up a rod horizontally, under which a tenant passed, in order to acquire from the lord of the manor a certain title (not fee-simple) to real estate. In his opinion, "the inheritance of my sayde lands and Tenements," was about the same as a recommendation to the lord of the manor.

"Croft," a small farm or field. Some of the parcells of land mentioned as "crottwell croft," "Coles Croft," "Dameter in great Hyfeild," "Souters Comon," it would be very difficult, perhaps impossible, to locate.

"Scholler." Stormath defines this word, "An undergraduate partly supported by the revenues of the college."

"Message," "a dwelling-house and offices, with the land attached." "A dwelling-house, including certain outhouses and grounds, as parcel of the house.

"My goddaughter Mary Curtis." Bennett Eliot had a granddaughter, Mary Curtis, baptized at Nazeing, March 11, 1620. This word is defined, "A female child for whom one becomes sponsor at baptism."

"My daughter Mary Curtis." "Mary" should be Sarah, probably a clerical error.

PART II

THE FAMILY OF

JOHN ELIOT AND HANNAH MOUNTFORD AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

“We cannot say that we ever saw him walking any whither but that he was therein walking with God; wherever he satt he had God by him, and it was in the Everlasting Arms of God that he slept at night.”

“I think that we can never love and honor this man of God enough.”

Shepard.

THE FAMILY OF
JOHN ELIOT AND HANNAH MOUNTFORD
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

1. JOHN¹, Minister and Missionary to the Indians in America and our great ancestor; baptized at Widford, Hertfordshire, England, August 5, 1604; died May 21, 1690.

He was educated at Jesus College, Cambridge, England, 1618-22; taught in the school of Thomas Hooker at Little Baddow, Essex, England, for part of the time before he came to America, which was in 1631, in the ship Lion. He landed in Boston November 4, took Mr. Wilson's place in the Boston church during Mr. Wilson's absence in England, was settled at Roxbury over the church in 1632. He married Sept. 4, 1632, Hanna Mountford, who came from England that year. [Hanna variously spelled Ann, Anna, Hanna, Hannah; Mountford is found as Mountforth, Mountfort, Mumforth, Mumfort, Mumford.]

In the records of the Roxbury church he wrote the name of his wife "Mrs. Ann Eliot." In another part he wrote "he left his intended wife in England to come the next year." Again: "He left behind him in England a vertuous young gentlewoman whom he had persued and purposed a Marriage unto and she coming here the year following, that marriage was consummated in the month of October A.D. 1632." (C. M.)

Nothing is yet known of the family of Hanna, but it is to be hoped that an enthusiastic descendant will some day make researches in England which will give us the true ancestry of this great and good woman. For the estimate of her character and abilities, her skill in the healing art, and her husband's high tribute to her, see Part III.

For Events in the Life of John Eliot, his Bibliography, and other material, see Part III.

CHILDREN.

2. i. HANNAH², b. Sept. 17, 1633; d. Feb. 9, 1708.

In the life of her father, published in 1691, Cotton Mather writes: "This Gentlewoman is yet alive, and one well-approved for her Piety and Gravity" (C. M. 7.).

Jan. 18, 1705. In Sewall's Diary is: "I visited the widow Hannah Glover, who is blind" (p. 135, vol. 2).

Feb. 9, 170^s/₉. "Mrs. Hannah Glover dies in the 76th year of her Age; was widow of Mr. Habakkuk Glover, daughter of Mr. John Eliot, who married here and this daughter was born at Roxbury in the Fall 1633, just about the time Mrs. Rock was born. So that this Gentlewoman, though born in N. E. passed not only 60 but 70 years, and became a Great-Grandmother in our Israel."—(S. D. vol. ii. p. 250.)

"Feria Sexta, Feb. 11th, 170^s/₉. Mrs. Hannah Glover is buried in a Tomb in the new burying place, Beavers, Winthrop, Sewall, Addington Sargent, Foyerwather, Checkley. Very Cold day."—(S. D. vol. ii. p. 250.)

"Pakemit," "here my dear Son (John) Taught, who is deceased & these have (without the least motion of mine) called my son-in-law Mr. Habbakuk Glover to teach and order y^m, who hath this Summer discharged the work to their good acceptance & satisfaction."—(John¹ Eliot, in "Some Correspondence" &c.)

She was married May 4, 1653 by Thomas Dudley, Deputy Governor of Massachusetts, to Habbakuk Glover of Dorchester, Mass. He was the son of John Glover, one of the early settlers of that town. He was born in England, May 13, 1628; d. in 1693, aged 65. Their descendants may be traced in the Glover Genealogy.

CHILDREN.

1. Hannah, b. July 3, 1654; d. Sept. 3, 1654.

2. Rebecca, b. July 24, 1655. She was married first to Thomas Smith of Boston, second to Capt. Thomas Clark of Boston.

Both recorded to have been baptized by the Apostle. Two more children are mentioned in some histories, but we find no authority.

+ 3. ii. JOHN², b. Aug. 31, 1636; d. Oct. 13, 1668.

+ 4. iii. JOSEPH², b. Dec. 20, 1638; d. May 24, 1694.

+ 5. iv. SAMUEL², b. June 22, 1641; d. Nov. 1, 1664.

6. v. AARON², b. Feb. 19, 1643; d. Nov. 19, 1655.

+ 7. vi. BENJAMIN², b. Jan. 29, 1646; d. Oct. 15, 1687.

3. JOHN² (*John*¹), A.B. Harvard Coll. 1656. Minister at Newton, Mass., and assisted his father in preaching to the Indians. In the class of 1656, H. C., numbering eight, his name is the sixth in the list. In the early days of the college, the place of the name of a student in his class is supposed to have been determined by the social position of his family.

When he received his second degree, his subject was: "Utrum anima sit subjectum capax cognitionis infinitas." Affirmat Respondens Johannes Eliotess.

For not less than seven years subsequent to his graduation he received compensation from the Commissioners of the United Colonies for his services to the Indians. July 20, 1684, he was ordained minister to the First Church (then just organized) at New Cambridge, now Newton, Mass.

Gookin says he "was not only pastor of an English church . . . and a very excellent preacher in the English tongue, but also, for sundry years, he preached the gospel to the Indians, once a fortnight constantly at Pakemit (Stoughton) and sometimes at Natick and other places: and the most judicious Christian Indians esteemed very highly of him, as a most excellent preacher in their language, as I have often heard them say."

Morton says: "He was a person excellently endowed, and accomplished with Gifts of Nature, Learning and Grace; of comely Proportion, ruddy Complexion, cheerful Countenance; of quick Apprehension, solid Judgement, excellent Prudence; Learned both in Tongues and Arts for one of his time, and studiously intense in acquiring more knowledge. His Abilities and Acceptation in the Ministry did excell; His Piety, Faith, Love, Humility, Self-deniall, and Zeal, did eminently shine upon all occasions. . . In a word there was so much of God in him, that all the wise and godly who knew him, loved and honored him in the Lord, and bewailed his death."

Hubbard says: "For his years he was "nulli secundus" as to all literature and other gifts, both of nature and grace, which made him so generally acceptable to all that had opportunity of partaking of his labors, or the least acquaintance with him."

Homer says: "A tender affection subsisted between him and the people of his charge. . . . He fell sick with an eruption of blood, and died 13, October, 1668."

Cotton Mather says: "He bore his father's name and had his father's grace. He was a person of notable accomplishments; and a lively, zealous and acute preacher, not only to the English at New Cambridge, but also to the Indians thereabout. He grew so fast that he was found ripe for heaven many years ago; and upon his death-bed uttered such penetrating things as could proceed from none but one upon the borders and confines of eternal glory."

One of these "penetrating things" was found in a "fragment of some students' note book," of which the following is a copy. (See the "Congregational Quarterly," vol. vii, pp. 193-4.)

"A speech of Mr. John Eliot upon his Death Bed. It being said to him, S^r yo^r crown is even ready for you: to which he answered "my crown is ready: Christ has been a great while preparing a mansion for me, to which I am now going. Oh w^t a solemn thing it is to appear before Jesus Christ, who shall be the judge of all the world! who appeared to John in ye Revelation with eyes as a flame of fire, and his feet of fine brass, yet as he took John by his right hand, and not by his left, so will he take me by my right hand and not by my left, and present me before the Father, and the Father will receive me, and the Son, the mediator of ye covenant will receive me, even me, a worm, that lie here spitting in such a condition, even Christ will kiss me, with ye kisses of his mouth, and I shall kiss him and not be despised. Oh! wonder of mercy! that Christ should love such a worm as I am, y^t can love him but a little, yet do love him with all my soul. Oh, what a wonder of mercy y^t this little soul of mine should enjoy such blessedness that am so unworthy of it. I could put myself under a dunghill I am so vile in myself, yet in the robes of my Saviour, those glorious robes of Christ's righteousness, how beautiful! how comely! how glorious! Glory! Glory! Glory! and if I had strength, I could even do as Abraham did, fall upon my face and laugh in sense of Christ's love to me, and blessed be God, I have done it many a time in my study; many a time have I fallen upon my face in sense of Christ's love to me, many a time have I supped with Christ in my study, and many a time hath Christ supped with me there, and as Paul said, thanks be to God, who always gives us cause to triumph in Christ, in him I do triumph and will triumph though vile in myself; yet as Christ saith, I have loved you with an everlasting love, therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee, therefore as Christ saith, look to me and be saved all ye of y^e earth; and I do look to him and shall be saved. And these things have I preached according to y^e narrowness that words could express and some have received them, and I have heard it from them, and others have done as they have done."

His mother said to him, "You have enjoyed too much of heaven here to live long here; you are now going to your Brother Sam^l and to your dear wife," and he answered, "Oh to my dear Saviour! and I shall go to y^e old patriarchs, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and I shall go to the spirits of just men made perfect, and have communion with them, tho' I know not in what way and manner."

After some more words he said he did believe God would reduce New England into an heap, and leave it a poor and afflicted people, y^t should say, blessed is he y^t cometh in y^e name of y^e Lord. "Boston and Massachusetts Collony is coming down! down! down! apace." Transcrib^d January 20, 1712-13.

Sept. 3, 1668. The Commissioners of the United Colonies write to the Hon. Rob^t. Boyle: "Wee do not understand that there lyeth any discouragement upon the labourers in the worke, yet we cannot but be sensible that the Lord in his wise providence is drawing a black line over it by his afflicting hand upon young Mr. Eliot who lyeth under a consumption distemper so that his continuance is much feared." (S. C. p. 20.)

John Eliot and his first wife were among the first to be buried in the graveyard at Newton, she in 1665, he in 1668. His grave is within a few feet of the pulpit where he preached. The monumental inscription as given in Barber's Historical Collections of Massachusetts is:

"Rev. John Eliot A. M. son of the Apostolic Eliot, assistant Indian missionary. First pastor of the First Church, ordained on the day of its gathering, July 20 (Aug. 1 N. S.) 1664, eight years after the forming of a Society distinct from Cambridge, died Oct. 11. 1668, Ae. xxxiii. Learned, Pious and Beloved by English and Indians, "My dying counsel is, secure an interest in the Lord Jesus Christ and this will carry you safely to the world's end." As a preacher, lively, accomplished, zealous, and Heaven received his ascending Spirit, 155 years since." Erected by the town, 1823.

In King's "Handbook of Newton, Massachusetts, by M. F. Sweetzer," is a picture of a monument to the first settlers of that place. John Eliot's name is in the list.

4. JOSEPH² (*John*¹), A.B. Harv. Coll. 1658. Minister at Northampton, Mass., and at Guilford, Conn. All the descendants of John¹ Eliot, having his surname, have Joseph² for their ancestor.

In Sept. 1658, the year of his graduation, "Mr. Joseph Eliot being tendered by his father to bee Employed in the Indian worke and himselfe manifesting his Reddiness to attend the same, was promised due Incurragement according as hee shall Improve himselfe in learning the Language." Compensation to the amount of about £10 was annually given him for three years for this worke.

July 4, 1661. His name appears in the list of those who signed the Church Covenant at Northampton, Mass. Later he was associated with the Rev. Eleazer Mather in the ministry of the Northampton Church, with whom he must have had very friendly relations, as the latter preached the sermon when he was settled over the church in Guilford. It is natural to suppose this duty would have fallen to the lot of his father, "The Apostle to the Indians," but, although he lived twenty-six years after his son's settlement, it is not known that he ever visited him.

Jan. 1, 1663, the town of Northampton voted to build a house for him, and offered other inducements if he would permanently settle with them, but he was prevailed upon to go to Guilford.

After the departure of the Rev. Mr. Whitfield, the father of the plantation, at Menuncatuck (now Guilford and Madison, Conn.), in 1650, and of his son-in-law, the Rev. John Higginson, in 1659, the church there was apparently like a ship without a rudder in a storm at sea. Several ministers tried in vain to fill the vacancy. The Rev. Thomas Ruggles, pastor of the town, 1729-1770, tells of their deliverance as follows:

"After they, i. e. the inhabitants of Guilford, had Waded thro' these Troublesome times, Providence provided for them a pastor after God's own hart, to feed them with Knowledge and Understanding. For, about the year '64 or '65, The Renowned Mr. Joseph Eliot, Son of the famous and Pious Mr. John Eliot of Roxbury, The Indian New England Apostle, was Called and Introduced, and by the Laying on of the Hands of the Presbytery was Ordained to the pastoral office in the Church. Mr. Mather of North Hampton with whom Mr. Eliot had lived for some time before he came to Guilford being the Chief in the ordination."

Just when he left Northampton for Guilford is unknown, but his letter to his brother Benjamin from there is dated May 18, 1664, from which it may be inferred that Guilford was then his home. Even the scanty records of those early days show that his life must have been a busy one, and that he was called upon many times to assist in the decision of important questions.

The Rev. Thomas Ruggles refers to him in these words: "Mr. Joseph Eliot was for many years the conspicuous minister of Guilford, whose great abilities as a divine, a politician, and a physician, were justly admired, not only among his own people, but throughout the colony, where his praises are in the churches."

And again he adds: "The Church and Town Greatly flourished under his successful Ministry, and Rose to Great Fame in the Colony."

May 16, 1668. At a Court of Election held at Hartford, Conn., he was appointed one of a Committee to find some expedient for the peace of the churches.

Oct. 8, 1668, the same committee was appointed to settle some religious differences at Windsor, Conn.

Dec. 17, 1675. Appointed on a committee "to make diligent search for those evils amongst us, which have stirred up the Lord's anger against us, that they being discovered may, by repentance and reformation, be thrown out of o^r camp and hearts; and they were also desired to send up their conclusions to the Council, the following weeke, by Mr. Wakeman and Mr. Eliott."

Nov. 8, 1676. "The County" (New Haven, Conn.) Court, being sensible of a hopeful advantage to the furtherance of religion and reformation, by setting an able Lecture where it might be aptest and the greatest concourse to attend the same, doe recommend it, and desire the Rev. Mr. Eliot to begin a monthly lecture at New Haven the first Wednesday in March next and soe continue until this court shall appoint some other to succeed."

Although he must have been chiefly occupied with his ministerial duties, yet great reliance was placed upon him, as a man of science and a physician. The Guilford records relate that in 1683-4 "poyson was to be gotten of the Rev. Mr. Eliot with his directions for the improving it for the poysoning of wolves."

He sent some obscure cases to John Winthrop, Jr., at New London, as in this instance, with a note: "Much honored, Y^e man John Megs his wife hath a gentle beginning of fits of flatus hypochondriacus y^t stir upon grieffe, yet without violence for the present, in fears they may increase help is desired in the use of means if you shal please to take notice of the case.

S^t I am humbly yours to serve
Joseph Eliot.

(Guil. 20. 1. 1673)

It may not be out of the way to say that "fits of flatus hypochondriacus" is a disorder known nowadays as "hysterics."

In 1681 the General Court at Hartford, Conn., made a grant of land of 200 acres to Mr. Eliot. Most, if not all, of this tract is owned by one of his descendants, Mr. Franklin Henry Hart, of New Haven, Conn.

Dec. 6, 1681. The people at Branford, Conn., "conclude to seek God's help in regard to obtaining a minister. They invite the Rev. Mr. Elliott of Guilford to come and carry on a day of humiliation and prayer with them."

Oct. 16, 1687. Many attended the funeral of Mr. Benjamin Eliot at Roxbury Mass. Some kame at noon to hear Mr. Joseph Eliot preach.

Oct. 18, 1687. Mr. Joseph Eliot preached at Roxbury lecture. "Mr. Eliot said the King was turned a Puritan and he was ravished at it."

Oct. 27, 1687. Mr. Joseph Eliot preached at Roxbury. the Lecture from 1 Cor. 2. 2. parallels the diseases of New England with Corinth; among others mentions, itching ears, hearkening after false Teachers and consequently Drinking in false Principles and despising, sitting loose from the true Teachers. He advised them to fly into the arms of a crucified Christ, because probably might have no whither else to go.

May 29, 1688. Judge Sewall in his Diary writes: "Mr. Joseph Eliot preaches at Roxbury when I goe." On the next day, May 30, is this astonishing record by the Judge: "Mr. Joseph Eliot here says the two days wherein he buried his Wife and Son, were the best he ever had in the world." The editors of the diary add this foot-note: "The kindest construction should be put on this remark of the bereaved husband and father."

In Sewall's diary, there are a number of recorded visits to Roxbury and Boston. One under date of Nov. 21, 1692, is: Mr. Joseph Eliot of Guilford, visited supped and prayed with us, went not away till half an hour after nine at night."

From the town of Guilford he received valuable grants of land and other favors. Much of the land has remained the property of his descendants and is now owned and occupied by Edward Eliot.

His will, dated Dec. 1, 1693, is printed in the previous edition of the Eliot Genealogy, pp. 145-7. He left "ten pounds towards the buying of a bell." One was bought June 6, 1725, which having been recast and increased not less than four times, still calls the people to religious worship.

A fruit-bearing pear tree was standing in his home lot until 1865, when it was blown down.

His autograph and some other of his handwriting is owned by Dr. Ellsworth Eliot of New York City.

The Rev. Thomas Ruggles says: "After this Burning and Shining Light had ministered to this Good people About 30 years, he deceased May 24. 1694. to the inexpressible Grief of his beloved flock, whose memory is not forgotten to this Day."

His grave, unmarked, is upon the east side of Guilford Green, but the following circular tells of his perpetual Memorial:

That his good name and the knowledge of his valuable services may not perish from the earth, and that his memory may be lastingly associated with useful deeds, Dr. Ellsworth Eliot and many other of his descendants have decided to establish as his memorial a scholarship in Yale College, to be known as "The Joseph Eliot Memorial Scholarship," under the following rules:

- I. The scholarship is intended for Academical students only.
- II. The fund for this scholarship shall be managed by the "President and Fellows of Yale College in New Haven."
- III. The usual percentage for managing trust-funds may be charged by the College, if the President so direct.
- IV. The names of the subscribers shall be kept in a book which shall be deposited in the archives of the College, when this fund shall amount to $10000.
- V. The President shall decide all disputes respecting this fund, and his interpretation of these rules shall be decisive.
- VI. One per cent. upon the principal shall be annually added thereto, until it shall amount to $10000. The remainder of the interest shall be appropriated to a descendant of Joseph Eliot, bearing the name of Eliot, under the rules hereinafter mentioned.
- VII. When the principal shall amount to $5000, one per cent. having been deducted, and added to the principal as directed in Rule VI, should there be no descendant of Joseph Eliot bearing the name of Eliot entitled to receive the interest, it shall then be given to any other descendant of Joseph Eliot who has another family name.
- VIII. When the principal shall amount to $10000, should there be no descendant of Joseph Eliot entitled to receive the interest, it shall then be given to a student who is a legal resident of the town of Guilford, Conn.; or secondly, to a descendant of any legal resident of that town. Should there be no descendant of Joseph Eliot, nor any student from Guilford, nor a descendant of a legal resident of that town, entitled to receive the interest on this Fund, then the interest shall be used for buying books for the College Library.
- IX. All students receiving the interest must maintain a grade of scholarship in their classes, which shall give them rank in the first half of the members thereof.
- X. A student who incurs the serious discipline of the college authorities shall not have the benefit of the scholarship while he is the subject of discipline.
- XI. Should there be more than one applicant for the benefit of the scholarship, it shall be given to the one who has the first rank in scholarship.

11. ii. ANN², b. Dec. 12, 1677; d. Nov. 16, 1703.

She married Dec. 20, 1698, Hon. Jonathan Law of Milford, deputy governor of Connecticut from 1725 to 1742; governor 1742-1751. Governor Law was descended from Richard Law and Margaret Kilbourne—settlers of Wethersfield in 1635-6. Governor Law was married five times, Ann Eliot being his first wife. He married second, Feb. 14, 1705, Abigail Arnold of Rhode Island (issue, one son). He married third, Aug. 1, 1706.

Abigail Andrew, daughter of Rev. Samuel Andrew, for fifty years pastor of the church at Milford—one of the founders of Yale College and for several years the second rector (or President) of the College. [Abigail Andrew's mother was the daughter of Hon. Robert Treat, Governor of Connecticut for thirty years, founder of Newark, N. J., leader of the Connecticut forces in King Philip's War, and one of the noblest figures in colonial history.] There were four children of this marriage, of whom the eldest son, Jahleel, b. Feb. 5, 1707, was the grandfather of Mary Law, who married Wm. H. Eliot (see No. 211). Fourth, Governor Law married in 1730 Widow Sarah Burr of Fairfield. His fifth wife, married in 1730, was Eunice Hale, sister of his son-in-law, Rev. Samuel Hale. By her he left a distinguished posterity.

Sylvester Larned of Detroit, whose daughter is Beatrice Larned, who married Bertram Cecil Whitney.

13. iv. BARSHEBA³, b. 1683.

She married Augustus Lucas of Fairfield, a French refugee.

The following deposition was produced in the case of "Augustus Lucas of Newport, merchant, vs. Jahleel Brenton of Newport, deceased," in an action of trespass and ejection, Supreme Court, Newport Co., 1735: "Elizabeth and Mehitable Fowler declare what we know relating to the parentage of Mrs. Barsheba Lucas, dec. late wife of Mr. Augustus Lucas of Newport, merchant. We were neighbors to and well acquainted with Rev. Mr. Joseph Elliot, formerly pastor of the Church of Christ in the town of Guilford, colony of Conn. and his first wife who was called Sarah and was reputed to be the daughter of one Mr. Brenton of Taunton, near Rhode Island, and sister of Jahleel Brenton, Esq., late of said Rhode Island, deceased. We did not witness the marriage of said Mr. Elliot with said Sarah, but knew they lived together in said Guilford as husband and wife, for many years, till said Elliot had four daughters, born of said Sarah, the youngest of whom was the above-named Barsheba, who was born 14 days before the death of her said mother. She was brought up by her father, the said Elliott and was somewhat lame. We were not witnesses to the marriage of said Lucas and said Barsheba, but were conversant with said Barsheba in Guilford, where she visited 24 or 25 years ago, with her two children, viz, a son called Augustus Lucas, and a daughter called Barsheba Lucas. She professed herself the wife of said Augustus Lucas, of Newport, and mother of the children. Further we heard our honored mother Mary Fowler, deceased, say, she was at the wedding of the above said Mr.

Joseph Elliot, with the above Sarah Brenton, at her father's house in Taunton. The above named Elizabeth and Mehitable were both aged persons, but of sound mind and memory. Sworn to before me, Dec. 11, 1735.

1. Augustus.
2. Barsheba.

Joseph Eliot married his second wife, Mary Wyllys, about 1684-5. She was the daughter of Samuel Wyllys and Ruth Haynes. Samuel Wyllys was born about 1632 in England, and coming to this country in 1638, graduated at Harvard in 1653. He was an influential man, occupying many public offices, and was one of the signers of the Royal Charter granted by Charles II to Connecticut in 1662. He died in 1709. Samuel Wyllys was the son of Governor George Wyllys, who was the son of Richard (or Timothy) Wyllys, gentleman, from Fenny Compton, Warwick, England. George was the third governor of the Connecticut Colony, being elected in 1641-2.

Ruth Haynes, the wife of Samuel Wyllys, was the daughter of Gov. John Haynes. John Haynes was a gentleman from Copford Hall (Essex?), and a graduate of Cambridge, England.

He was born about 1590 and came to New England in 1633 with Rev. Thomas Hooker. He settled first in Massachusetts Bay Colony, of which he was governor in 1636. He then removed to Connecticut, settled at Hartford, and was the first governor of the Connecticut Colony in 1639 and every alternate year till 1653, alternating with Edward Hopkins, except in 1642, when George Wyllys served. He died in 1654. He was twice married, and by his second wife, Mabel Harlakenden, had three children, Joseph, Ruth and Mabel. Through Mabel Harlakenden, whose pedigree will be found in another part of this book, all the descendants of Mary Wyllys inherit "Royal Descent."

Signed Sealed & Delivered in Presence of Jared Eliot
 Abraham Pierson

She survived her husband 21 years. His gravestone in North Guilford reads:

In memory of Deacn. William Dudley who died Feb. 28th, 1781, in his 78th year.

+ 17. viii. ABIAL³, b. 1692. (?)

As to date of birth of Abial Eliot. In 1691 it was voted in Guilford that there should be the fourth division of land. Joseph Eliot, his wife, four daughters of the first wife, two daughters of his second wife, and his son Jared were entitled to shares. As Abial is not mentioned, it is fair to suppose that he was not then born. According to Guilford records he died Oct. 28, 1776, aged 84 years. This would make the year of his birth 1692, and he would thus be the youngest child of Joseph and Mary Wyllys Eliot.

5. SAMUEL² (*John*¹), A.B. Harvard Coll. 1660. He was chosen Aug. 24, 1663, a tutor and fellow of that institution. In a class of eight, not alphabetically arranged, his name is the third.

His college expenses were, in part at least, paid by all kinds of farm produce, such as "barley malte," "wheate," "Calves," "goates," "weathers," "Skines," "Suett," "chickens," "a side of beaffe," "Indian corne," &c. &c.

The subject of his Commencement part on taking his second degree in 1663 was: "On Anima rationalis sit Natura immortalis," to which is added, "Affirmat Respondens Samuel Eliotus."

There is reason for thinking he taught school in Roxbury soon after he graduated.

Cotton Mather characterizes him thus: "A most lovely young Man, eminent for Learning and Goodness, a Fellow of the Colledge and Candidate of the Ministry."

Gookin says: "He gave abundant demonstration of his piety, ability, gravity, and excellent temper. He left this world, and ascended to glory, after he had taken his second degree in the college. He hath undoubtedly arrived to his highest degree in the Emphyreal Heaven. He was a person of whom the world was not worthy."—Sibley's Harvard Graduates ii, pp. 60, 61.

7. BENJAMIN² (*John*¹), A.B. Harv. Coll. 1665. In the class there were eight graduates, the name of Benjamin Eliot being the first, and that of Calel Cheehahkaumuk, an Indian, being the last.

The Commencement part on taking his second degree in 1668 has for its subject, "Utrum dexter causa aliqua externa volitionis divinae." Negat Respondens, Benjamin Eliotus.

At a town meeting in Mendon, Mass., Apr. 24, 1668, it was "Ordered to send A Letter to give Mr. Benjamin Aliot a call. with his ffather's leave, and a Letter sent to that effect," but the application does not appear to have been successful. He received invitations from several places to become their pastor, but it had been a cherished object with his father that he should succeed him in his charge.

Mather says, "the Apostle Eliot's Benjamin was made the Son of His Right Hand, for the Invitation of the People at Roxbury, placed him in the same Pulpit with his Father, where he was Assistant for many years; there they had a Proof of him, that as a Son with his Father, he served with him in the Gospel."

Samuel Sewall writes: "May 11th 1685 I accompanied Mr. Moodey (H. C. 1653) to Mr. Eliots to persuade Mr. Benjamin to go to the Ordination of Mr. Cotton Mather, in which I hope we have prevailed; the mentioning of it drew Tears from the good Father, so as to hinder his speech." May 13th 1685, "Mr. Benjamin Eliot was there, who had not been at Town these many years." Aug. 24. 1687. "I visit Mr. Benjamin Eliot who is much touched as to his Understanding and almost all y^e while I was there kept heaving up his shoulders: would many times laugh and would sing with me . . . he read three or more staves of the Seventy-first Psalm 9 verses, his Father and Jno. Eliot singing with us; Mr. Benjamin would in some notes be very extravagant, would have sung again before I came away but's Father prevailed with him to y^e contrary, alledging y^e children would say he was distracted. Came with me to the Gate when took horse."

Mather adds: "But his Fate was like that which the great Gregory Nanzianzen describes in his Discourse upon the Death of his honourable Brother, his aged Father being now alive and present; "My Father having laid up in a better World, a rich Inheritance for his Children, sent a Son of his before to take Possession of it." He d. Oct. 15, 1687.—From Sibley's Harv. Grad., vol. ii, pp. 164-5.

He was probably not ordained as a minister, as his name is not italicized in the College catalogue.

In the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society is a volume in manuscript containing notes of sermons by Benjamin Eliot, his father and others.

Dr. Ellsworth Eliot of New York has an imperfect copy of sermons by Henrie Smith dated 1592, which has the autograph of Benjamin Eliot.

9. JOHN^a (John², John¹), Guilford and Windsor, Conn.; lawyer and statesman; A. B. H. C. 1685. He was a deputy from Guilford to the General Assembly of the State of Connecticut in 1696-7. In 1701 and for many subsequent years he was a deputy from Windsor, the last time in 1718. He was Speaker not less than eight times, for which he was allowed special compensation. During many sessions he was upon important committees. For many years he was appointed Justice of the Peace and Quorum for Hartford Co. In 1708 he was granted a monopoly to manufacture tar and pitch. He also accepted an offer from the town of Windsor to work iron ore.

The County Court Records in New Haven 1666-1698 show that he was appointed Commissioner of the heirs of Major Thompson, Sept. 9, 1667. During his residence in Guilford he was employed as a school teacher. He had the honor of a gift of land and was sent to the General Assembly.

When the institution which finally became Yale University was in its first beginning, his advice was sought and given in regard to legal procedures connected therewith.

In 1714, at a proprietors' meeting in Northampton, Mass., it was voted to refer a matter respecting a land division to a committee, of which John Eliot was one. According to the "Economic and Social History of New England 1620-1789" by William B. Weedon, his library was of an unusually high character. "The most comprehensive list I have seen covers the library of John Elliott Esq. at Hartford in 1719. It contains 243 titles. (See Part III.) The brilliant and permanent literature of Queen Anne had made hardly any impression in our colonies, but this collection had two volumes of 'The Tattler.' It is a most heterogeneous lot, old histories, sermons, a few medical books, and more upon law, miscellaneous literature, almost all now unknown to the ordinary reader."

His maternal grandfather, Major General Daniel Gookin, applied to Harvard College for a scholarship for him Sept. 12, 1682, saying, "His father left him but small matters (except his bookes) of outward things in order to bring him up to learning, which was his last desire at his death." After graduation he studied divinity, and "entered upon the work of the ministry," but must have soon discontinued it. When he took his second degree in 1688, his exercise is worded, "An Diversificatio corporum Oriatur a motu." There is added, "Affirmat Respondens Johannes Eliotes."

According to the inscription on a horizontal slab over his grave in Windsor, he died, "March y^e 25. Anno Christi 1719. Aetatus suae LII."

Quotation from will of Joseph Eliot: "Whereas My father, upon the decease of my last brother, Benjamin, gave me deeds of my brother's land and movable estate in immediate possession, yet with this provision that it should be only for covart, he being left alone in his old age, and not to hinder his making his will, according to his meaning and true intent, which he afterwards did, and therein gave a third part of his lands and goods to his grandson, my nephew John Eliot, who hath accordingly received his full part in the movables, and I have given him an imperfect deed of the lands; I do now confirm and ratify my father's will to him, so far as I am enabled by the deeds afore mentioned; but for several reasons see not light or ground any further as to the enlarging his portion, which reasons may be better concealed than published."

It will be seen from the foregoing that John Eliot, "Apostle," made a will: but neither the original, nor a copy of it, can be discovered. The reasons for not enlarging the portion of John³ (No. 9) have been successfully concealed. Sibley (Harvard Graduates, vol. 3, p. 339) says his uncle Joseph² (No. 4) wished him to pursue the clerical profession. Much to the scandal and regret of his uncle, as appears from his will, he became a "lawyer and politician." In his chosen profession his career was eminently useful and creditable. He married, first, Oct.

31, 1699, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Stoughton, and widow of James Mackman. She was baptized Nov. 18, 1660, d. Nov. 24, 1702. He married, second, Mary, dau. of John Wolcott of Windsor. She died about 1746.

14. JARED³ (Joseph², John¹), A.B. Yale College 1706, A.M. Harvard Socius, S.R. London Soc. A member of the Corporation of Yale College from 1730 to 1762.

Jared Eliot, the grandson of John, judged in relation to the men of his time holds next to its illustrious founder the most distinguished position in the annals of the family. His immediate ancestry naturally bred the excellence which he so strikingly exemplified. Joseph Eliot, his father, the second son of John, had been graduated from Harvard in 1658 and settled over the church at Guilford, Conn. He was a man of great piety and of marked intellectual strength, which made him a power in the councils of the colony. For his second wife Joseph Eliot married Mary Wyllys, the daughter of Governor Wyllys and the granddaughter of Governor Haynes; and it was from this union that Jared, the eldest child, was born in Guilford, Nov. 7, 1685.

His father's will had directed that one son should be trained up to learning and fitted for the ministry. It was in accordance with this request that Jared was enrolled among the earliest pupils of the Collegiate School of Connecticut, later to be known as Yale College, and from this institution he received his bachelor's degree in 1706. Field in his Statistical Account of Middlesex County states that his early progress was slow, but adds: "As he applied himself more and more to study, his mind improved in quickness of apprehension as well as in strength, and he at length acquired a greatness and excellence rarely surpassed, at least in our country." Before his graduation he had won the affection and esteem of Rector Abraham Pierson, for when within the year the venerable man lay upon his death bed, he earnestly advised his parishioners of the church in Killingworth (now Clinton) to call as his successor his favorite pupil, Eliot. They heeded his counsel, and the church records show that Eliot "entered and engaged in the ministerial office in the church of Killingworth June the 1st, 1707," though he was not formally ordained until Oct. 26, 1709.

To accept the call of the Killingworth church he withdrew from the position of schoolmaster in his native town; but he maintained throughout his life a strong interest in educational matters. In 1730 he was elected a Trustee of Yale College, the first graduate of the institution to be so honored, and he filled the position till his death with interest and energy, and in his will left the first bequest for the development of the library of that institution. Nor was his interest in education only objective. He was an indefatigable student and acquired a broad culture in science and letters, attainments which Harvard recognized with an honorary A.M., the second on her list, and which brought him into interesting correspondence and association with President Stiles, Bishop Berkeley, and Benjamin Franklin.

Eliot's ministry in Killingworth covered a period of fifty-six years. These years were full of service. Ruggles, in the discourse preached at his funeral, remarks: "For more than forty years of the latter part of his life he never missed preaching some part of every Sabbath either at home or abroad." The same authority thus defines his theological position: "As he was sound in the faith, according to the true character of orthodoxy, so he was of a truly catholic and Christian spirit in the exercise of it. Difference in opinion as to religious principles was no obstruction to a hearty practice of the great law of love, benevolence, and true goodness to man, to every man; nor of Christian charity to the whole household of faith. Them he received whom he hoped the Lord had received; abhorring narrowness, and the mean contractedness of a party spirit, but heartily loved and freely practiced, in word and behaviour, the great law of true liberty." This broad catholicity and spirit of liberty at one time nearly led him into Episcopacy. He had married in 1710 Hannah, daughter of Samuel Smithson of Guilford, recently from England and firm in the faith of the Established Church. Whether this association influenced his thought, or whether it was a development of his own nature, we find him in 1722 with Rector Cutler, Tutor Browne and four others stating to the Trustees of the College that, "Some of them doubted the validity, and the rest were more fully persuaded of the invalidity, of the Presbyterian ordination." The arguments that followed the declaration satisfied his reason and established his orthodoxy; and in the theological controversies of later years he took his stand as an Old Light. As a preacher he sought to impart moral truths rather than theological dogmas, and his style is one of laconic simplicity without rhetorical adornment except for the illustrative allusions drawn from his wealth of learning and experience.

But he was not only a divine, he was a physician as well. Dr. William H. Welch, Professor of Pathology in the Johns Hopkins University, stated in his address on Yale and Medicine at the Bicentennial of Yale in 1901: "Of all those who combined the offices of clergyman and physician, not one, from the foundation of the American colonies, attained so high distinction as a physician as Jared Eliot." Thacher, in his American Medical Biography, remarks: "Eliot was unquestionably the first physician of his day in Connecticut," and in chronic complaints "he appears to have been more extensively consulted than any other physician in New England, frequently visiting every county of Connecticut, and being often called in Boston and Newport." He was particularly quick in diagnosis and ingeniously effective in the application of remedies. In addition he trained so many students in medicine who subsequently attained distinction that he is commonly called "The father of regular medical practice in Connecticut."

Distinguished as a divine, eminent as a physician, Eliot was scarcely less famous in scientific investigation. He discovered the existence of iron in the dark red sea-sand, and as a result of successful experiments made America's first contribution to the science of metallurgy in a tract entitled, "The Art of Making very good if not the best Iron from black sea Sand." These investigations won for him by unanimous vote the gold medal of the London Society of Arts, in 1762. This was not, however, his first European recognition, for some half dozen years before he had attained the then unique distinction of unanimous election as a member of the Royal Society. Another department of investigation which he assiduously pursued was that of scientific agriculture. In this he was quite a century ahead of his time, as is evidenced in the half-dozen tracts which he published and subsequently collected in a volume with the title, "Field Husbandry in New England."

Unlike many a scientific investigator, Eliot was distinctly practical. He was preëminently a man of affairs. He utilized his knowledge. His interest in metallurgy led to large and profitable investments in the ore-fields of northwestern Connecticut. His agricultural experiments he applied to extensive farming tracts which he had acquired in Killingworth and in other parts of the colony, with the result, according to Thacher, that "these (his farms) were generally better cultivated, and furnished more profits than those of his neighbors." The attainment of such gratifying results was due primarily to his indomitable energy. Ruggles tells us: "Idleness was his abhorrence; but every portion of time was filled with action by him. Perhaps no man, in his day, has slept so little, and done so much, in so great variety." Thacher adds: "He was very industrious and methodical, and was peculiarly careful that whatever he undertook should be well executed."

To strenuous activity and successful accomplishment he added a rare charm of person and of manner. Well proportioned and of commanding presence, with a countenance from which a grave dignity did not altogether banish a gentle kindness, he merits Ruggles' characterization: "He had a turn of mind peculiarly adapted for conversation, and happily accommodated to the pleasures of a social life. . . . No less agreeably charming and engaging was his company, accommodated to every person under every circumstance. Nothing affected, nothing assuming; it is all nature, and shined with wisdom, so that perhaps no person ever left his company dissatisfied, or without being pleased with it." It is no wonder that with a mind so well trained and actively exercised, with a person so attractive and a personality so charming he should have elicited from his friend Benjamin Franklin this affectionate reminiscence in one of his letters: "I remember with pleasure the cheerful hours I enjoyed last winter in your company, and I would with all my heart give any ten of the thick old folios that stand on the shelves before me, for a little book of the stories you then told with so much propriety and humor."

His effectiveness in accomplishment, as well as his charm of manner, remained with him to the end of his long life. He died in Killingworth (now Clinton) April 22, 1763, in the seventy-eighth year of his age. He was buried in the village churchyard. His pastorate was the longest in the history of the church; and, to quote from Dexter's Yale Biographies and Annals: "He had outlived every pastor in the Colony who had been earlier ordained and all who had been graduated at the college before him." Here was a life richly lived. Ceaseless activity and marvelous versatility accomplished fame for himself, but what was to him of vastly greater importance, wrought service for his fellows. [This sketch was prepared by his descendant, George E. Eliot, Jr.]

Benjamin Gale, son of John Gale, Jr., of Goshen, N. Y., and great-grandson of Abel Gale of Jamaica, L. I., graduated from Yale Coll. in 1733, studied medicine with the Rev. Jared Eliot, and practiced his profession for fifty years until his death. He wrote, and wrote well, on a great variety of topics, the Saybrook platform, inoculation, finance, the interpretation of prophecy, the reduction of town representation, and the millenium, and he received a medal from the Society of Arts for the invention of an improved drill plough. Like his father-in-law, Dr. Jared, he disliked confessions of faith, and advocated the largest religious liberty.

The children of Hannah and Dr. Benjamin Gale were: Elizabeth, Catharine, Mary, Juliana, Hannah, Mehitabel, Samuel and Benjamin. Elizabeth Gale was b. Dec. 3, 1740, and d. Nov. 18, 1818; she married her cousin, Samuel Gale, and had seven children. Samuel Gale was b. Mar. 8, 1743, and d. in 1799.

17. ABIAL³ (Joseph², John¹). Farmer in Guilford. He married in 1726 Mary, dau. of John Leete of Guilford, and great-granddaughter of Wm. Leete, Governor of Connecticut. She was b. Feb. 28, 1701; d. Jan. 12, 1780.

A short account of the Leete ancestry follows:

John Leete of Dodington, Huntingdonshire, England, married Anna Shute, daughter of Robert Shute, one of the justices of the King's Bench.

Their son, William Leete, born in Dodington in 1612-13, was bred to the law and served for a considerable time as clerk in the Bishop's Court at Cambridge. He came to America with the Rev. Mr. Whitfield's company, and was one of the signers of the Plantation Covenant on shipboard June 1, 1639, arriving in New Haven about July 13. The company settled at Guilford, where Mr. Leete was clerk of the plantation from 1639 to 1662. He was one of the four men to whom was entrusted the whole civil power of the plantation until a church was formed July 19, 1643 (O.S.). At this time he was chosen one of the seven pillars. He was deputy from Guilford to the General Court till 1650; magistrate from 1651 to 1658; chosen Deputy Governor of New Haven Colony in 1658, and continued in that office until he was chosen Governor in 1661, which office he held until the union with the Connecticut Colony in 1664-5. After the union he was assistant until 1669, when he was elected Deputy Governor of the Connecticut Colony, holding the office until 1676, when he was chosen Governor, keeping the office until his death, at Hartford, April 16, 1683. He married in England about 1638, Anna Payne, daughter of Rev. John Payne of Southhoe. She died Sept. 1, 1668, and was the mother of all his children. His son John² Leete (1639-1692) married Mary Chittenden (1647-1712), dau. of William Chittenden and his wife Joanna (supposed to have been daughter of Dr. Edmund Sheaffle of Cranbrook, England, but there is a question on that point, because of some records lately found). John² Leete is said to have been the first white child born in Guilford.

Their son John³ Leete, b. Jan. 4, 1674, d. 1730, married Sarah Allen, d. Mar. 8, 1712, aged 36. Their daughter Mary, b. Feb. 28, 1701, married Abial Eliot.

22. JOHN⁴ (John³, John², John¹), A.B. Harvard Coll. 1737. Merchant in New Haven, Conn., where he lived until 1760. From 1760 to 1770 he was a prominent and influential resident of Spencer, Mass., where he owned a mansion house and about 440 acres of land, paid the largest taxes, and was much in public life, filling the most important offices in town. Subsequently he resided at Upper Middletown (now Cromwell, Conn.), where a record of his death is found, and his will, dated Sept. 21, 1790, is recorded in the Probate Records of Middletown. He married Mar. 7, 1739, Lydia, daughter of Jeremiah and Lydia (Rosewell) Atwater, b. Oct. 18, 1715, d. Jan. 28, 1776. She had been divorced from her first husband, Dr. Alexander Wolcott, at his request, by whom she had had three children. A memorial brown stone slab marks her grave in the old burial ground at Cromwell, Conn., with the inscription: "In memory of Mrs. Lydia Eliot, the wife of John Eliot Esq., who departed this life Jan. 28, A. D. 1776, in the 61st year of her age."

After the death of his wife Lydia, it is said that John married Hannah Phelps of Simsbury, Conn. This is not improbable, as "My wife Hannah" is mentioned in his will.

CHILDREN, ALL BY HIS FIRST WIFE.

41. i. MARY^s, b. Jan. 19, 1742; married August 10, 1777, to John Smith.

The tradition is that Mr. Eliot had four tall and stately daughters, and that Capt. John Smith selected one of them for his second wife. One of their daughters was the wife of Jesse Churchill, and the mother of T. G. and Wm. Elliott Churchill of New York City.

+ 42. ii. JOHN^s, b. Apr. 22, 1745; d. Mar. 1808.

43. iii. SARAH^s, b. Nov. 30, 1750; married Dec. 23, 1778, Eli Leavenworth, colonel in the Revolutionary army, b. Dec. 10, 1748.

He was first appointed by the Legislature July 1, 1775, captain of the 10th company of the 2d regiment of New Haven. In 1776 he was captain in Colonel Webb's regiment of Continentals, marched from Boston to New York with Washington, and under him was engaged in fortifying Brooklyn.

In October of the same year he was engaged at White Plains, on Dec. 25, 1776, at Trenton, and on Jan. 3, 1777, at Princeton. At the request of Washington, he remained with his regiment six weeks after its term of enlistment had expired. On May 27, 1777, he was commissioned major in the 6th Continental Line Regiment (Colonel Charles Webb), in camp at Peekskill, and during the summer was with Parsons' Brigade in movements against Fort Montgomery.

On July 15, 1779, he was with Colonel Meigs' regiment at the capture of Stony Point; 1777-8 in winter quarters at West Point, and engaged in construction of Meigs redoubt. Summer of 1778, encamped at White Plains under command of Washington; 1778-9, wintered at Camp Redding; summer, engaged on Hudson; 1779-80, wintered at Morristown.

On the discovery of the treachery of Arnold, Major Leavenworth was ordered to West Point. Owing to the consolidation of his regiment with others, he retired from the army in the spring of 1781.

He was brevetted Colonel on retiring and became a member of the Connecticut Society of the Order of Cincinnati.

Child: Sarah Leavenworth, b. Sept. 24, 1857; d. Sept. 6, 1900; m. June, 1887, Rev. John A. Todd.

As Hannah's posterity was not mentioned and Lydia's name was not included in the O. E. G., the following document, furnished by Mrs. Gilman C. Hill of Waterbury, will be interesting, as proving the connection of these two lines with the family.

Middletown Land Records, vol. 28, p. 99, records a deed dated Aug. 30, 1785, from John⁴ Eliot to his son-in-law, Abel Porter.

Middletown Probate Records, vol. 5, p. 466, gives will of John⁴ Eliot of Middletown, dated Sept. 21, 1790, and probated Dec. 6 following. In it he states that he had made a jointure with his wife Hannah before marriage, and mentions his eldest son John⁵ and five other children, Richard, Rosewell Eliot, Mary Smith, Sarah Leavenworth, Hannah Porter and Lydia Ann Lee.

Extract from Connecticut Journal, New Haven:

Wednesday Aug. 13, 1794 speaks of appointing commissioners to receive and examine the estate of Lydia Eliot, formerly wife to John⁴ Eliot Esq. which was represented insolvent, and giving notice to all creditors to present their claims within six months or they would be debarred a recovery, (a regular probate notice).

46. vi. WILLIAM, b. July 29, 1757.

Probably died before Sept. 21, 1790, as his name does not appear in his father's will of that date. It has been said that he was a physician.

47. vii. LYDIA ANN, b. June 22, 1760; d. Sept. 17, 1836; married at Westerly, R. I., Feb. 4, 1784, Dr. Daniel Lee.

He is said to have been the first Washington County (R. I.) physician. Previous to his time the ministers were the physicians. He died of yellow fever, contracted while visiting a patient on a vessel from a southern port. His tombstone recounts that "He was a physician of eminence, a universal philanthropist, and a friend to the distressed. His death is greatly lamented by all who knew him." Buried at first in Westerly, R. I., his remains were removed in 1856 to Grove street cemetery, New Haven, Conn. The tombstone of his wife

Lydia is inscribed: "The grave of Lydia Ann Lee, Relict of Dr. Daniel Lee of Westerly, R. I., who died 17 Sept. 1836 Ae. 76 years. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.""

Rev. Cotton Mather Smith of Sharon, and mother of John Cotton Smith, Governor of Connecticut; President of the American Bible Society, etc. Mrs. Mary d. June 28, 1785.

CHILDREN.

48. i. HANNAH⁵, b. Aug. 31, 1746.

She was highly educated, and m. Nov. 23, 1773, Gen. Reuben Hopkins, b. in Amenia, N. Y., June 1, 1748, son of Stephen Hopkins, who was born in Hartford. Mr. Hopkins was a lawyer in Goshen, N. Y., and clerk of the court. He d. in 1819 in Edwardsville, Ill. The following notice is taken from the Edwardsville Spectator, Aug. 17, 1822: "Another Revolutionary hero gone"! Died yesterday morning in this town in the 75th year of his age, Gen. Reuben Hopkins, formerly of Orange Co., New York.

General Hopkins was born in Dutchess County, N. Y., in June, 1748. At the commencement of the Revolution he left the practice of the law, in which he was engaged, and joined the army which was contending for freedom, and never ceased to assert with his sword the rights of man until the independence of our country was achieved.

At the battle of Bunker Hill he served as adjutant, as well as at Peeksville and White Plains. Our information is too limited to give in detail his military career, but that he performed his duty as a soldier is well authenticated.

At the close of the war he returned to his professional duties, but not possessing a ready utterance, though distinguished for sound legal knowledge and discriminating judgment, he accepted the clerkship of the Circuit Court of Orange County, which he held for many years.

During the late war (1812) he again appeared in arms at the call of his country. His conduct on that occasion is attested by the newspapers of the day to have been highly meritorious.

Besides the military offices which he has held in regular grade up to that of brigadier-general, he has frequently represented the citizens of Orange County both in the Senate and the lower house. But however praiseworthy his patriotic zeal, we have the satisfaction of recording a fairer trait in his character. He was a pious, humble Christian. As he was free from that wild zeal which is "not according to knowledge," so was he free from fearing to "confess Christ before men." How well his life accorded with his profession we need not say. Those who knew him can bear witness to the constant zeal with which he strove to adhere to the divine precept, "Whatever ye would that men should do unto you," etc.

In the last trying scene his mind was calm, for his faith was bright, his hope was strong. In his own language, "Death had no terrors, his sting was drawn, he knew in whom he believed." "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

CHILDREN, BY SECOND HUSBAND.

1. Elizabeth, d. Apr. 20, 1808. She m. May 6, 1807, Austin Olcott, a physician at Killingworth, Conn. Child:
 - a. Elizabeth Mansfield, b. Mar. 24, 1808, d. Apr. 25, 1871, m. Aug. 8, 1827, William Crane Willcox of New York, now (1904) of Phila. Children, Austin Olcott, William Henry, James Freeland, Charles Edward, Oliver, Elizabeth Mansfield.
2. Nathan, b. Aug. 6, 1784, A.B. Yale Coll. 1803, studied medicine, and d. April 6, 1813 in Killingworth.
3. Susan, b. Jan. 31, 1786, d. Dec. 4, 1823.

Soon after her death a book of "Memoirs" was written by Rev. Benjamin Wisner, pastor of the "Old South Church," Boston, which went through several editions in this country, and several in England and Scotland. James Montgomery, the poet, wrote an "Introductory Essay" for the third edition, and an original poem for the same. Some extracts from the "Memoirs" follow.

"Mrs. Susan Huntington was a daughter of Rev. Achilles Mansfield of Killingworth (now Clinton) Conn. In this place her father was ordained in the year 1779 and continued the pastor of the first church until his death, in 1814. Her mother was Sarah Eliot, daughter of Joseph and Sarah (Walker) Eliot and granddaughter of Rev. Jared Eliot of Killingworth, who stood in great esteem throughout the country for his learning, philosophical researches and acquirements."

"Susan Mansfield was the youngest of three children. Her childhood was marked by sensibility, sobriety and tenderness of conscience, and a taste for reading. Her education was chiefly under the paternal roof, and at the common schools in her native town. The only other instruction she received was at the classical school kept in Killingworth during two seasons. Her parents however devoted much of their time and attention to her instruction, and as her constitution was delicate from infancy, she was suffered to gratify her inclination in devoting most of her time to the cultivation of her mind, by reading and efforts at composition."

"She was married at eighteen years of age to Rev. Joshua Huntington, a young minister of great promise, who had just been settled as pastor of the 'Old South Church' of Boston. One of her first letters written from that place says:

"Our ride was very pleasant, I am delighted with the country around Boston, and think the town is handsomely situated. But, my dear friend, flattering as is the prospect before us, I cannot contemplate the responsibility of the station in which I am placed, its total dissimilarity to that to which I have been accustomed, and the arduous duties resulting from it, together with my own inability to perform them as I ought, without feeling a degree of anxiety lest I should be found wholly unqualified for the situation. Did I not believe that the bounds of our habitations are not accidental, but determined by the Providence of God, I should sink under the weight of responsibility which now rests upon me."

"God placed her when young and inexperienced in a most responsible and difficult station, where her character and conduct would be scrutinized by multitudes, where hundreds of her own sex would be looking to her example for a model to imitate.

"But this was not the only discipline which fitted her for her high destiny. Though not thirty-three years of age, when herself removed from this state of trial, most of her connections and early intimate acquaintances had been taken from her. At the age of twenty-eight she was written widow. An infant son, born two months after his father's death, and most tenderly beloved, was taken from her at the age of twenty months."

She died of consumption in 1823. She married May 18, 1809, Rev. Joshua Huntington of Boston, who d. Sept. 11, 1819. Children:

- a. Susan Mansfield, b. Sept. 10, 1810; m. first, Charles Henry Strong; children, George Augustus, Mary Huntington; m. second, Dr. Wolcott Richards of Cincinnati; children, Harriet De Witt, Susan Huntington.

7. Sabrina Eliot, b. Nov. 2, 1798; d. 1868. Mrs. Sabrina Swift Logan was a woman of preëminent faith and godliness. She united with the church at the age of about sixteen years, in Saybrook, Conn. (now Westbrook). Her prayers, many and fervent, were presented with unwavering confidence in a sure answer. Her attachment for God's earthly house was beautiful, and her place there was never vacant except when she was providentially hindered from attendance. She loved the ministry; her home was open to them always and her hospitality was enlarged greatly. A former pastor says: "I can never forget the kind, encouraging words in the beginning of my ministry and I shall always feel that much of my success in this church was in answer to her effectual, fervent prayers." Her mould of mind was that of her giant brother Elisha. She had a sound, discriminating judgment; she thought deeply before assuming a position. Her laws were principles and the fear of God. Then she was firm as a rock in maintaining what she believed to be right. She married in 1826, Major Joshua Logan, b. 1794 at Dublin, Ireland, d. 1854 at Pittsburgh, Pa. He was a merchant, but served in the War of 1812, and was made lieutenant-colonel of volunteers in the service of the United States at Fort Meigs. Children:

CHILDREN.

1. Elisha, b. Aug. 19, 1793, in Litchfield, Conn. [See his portrait in this volume.]

He graduated at Yale College in 1813, one of the best students in his class. After several years of teaching in New London, and as tutor at Yale, he married, Nov. 19, 1819, at Lyme, Conn., Maria Sybil, dau. of Dr. Elisha North of New London, Conn. Appointed to the chair of mathematics in the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, he entered upon his duties early in 1818.

He had previously been licensed to preach the Gospel, by the Congregational Church in Connecticut, and was ordained to the full work of the ministry, by Orange Presbytery, N. C., in 1821.

But it was as a professor in the University of North Carolina that he displayed the greatest energy and accomplished the best results. Until 1825, he was professor of mathematics and natural science, but was then transferred to the chair of chemistry, mineralogy and geology, which he occupied until his death in 1857.

During all these years, by indefatigable research, by extended and multiplied excursions over every part of North Carolina, by various and patient investigations, aided by a consuming thirst for knowledge, and a singularly retentive memory, he so ably filled his position, and branched out in so many directions that, on any scientific question, it was a common thing to say, "Go, ask Dr. Mitchell."

In the sixty-fourth year of his age, during his fifth visit of exploration in western North Carolina, he attempted, alone, to descend Mt. Mitchell, the highest peak of the Black Mountain in North Carolina. Being overtaken by a sudden thunderstorm, and losing his way the evening of June 27, 1857, he fell forty feet, into a deep pool of a branch of the Cane River.

As he failed to keep an appointment which he had made, his family and friends became uneasy, and searching parties were organized, numbering at length scores of mountaineers and others, to find the missing one. After ten days of exhausting search, his body was found, at midnight, perfectly preserved from decay by the ice-cold waters of the cataract. Carried down the mountain on the shoulders of relays of men, he was borne to Asheville, where he was temporarily buried for one year. Thence, at the earnest request of the citizens of Yancey County and others, his body was conveyed by ox-sled, and lastly by the strong arms of men, up the mountain steeps, and through almost impassable rocky ways, where no road lay, and was reinterred with most impressive ceremonies, on the summit of the highest point of land east of the Rocky Mountains, which now bears his name. Here it rests, awaiting a glorious resurrection.

A monument of "white bronze" twelve feet high was erected over his grave in 1888. (See illustration.) Children:

He went to California in July, 1849, to preach the Gospel, and to help build into this new land Christian life and civilization. He was organist and pastor of the church in Sacramento for thirteen years, editor of "The Pacific," and senior professor of the Pacific Theological Seminary. He was for more than fifteen years a member of the Home Missions Committee, and a writer of missionary hymns. He was devoted to the cause of education, and one of the foremost in founding the College of California, and of the academy that preceded it. He made a trip around the world in 1859, and was pastor of the Plymouth Church in San Francisco for five years from 1863. After this date he devoted himself chiefly to teaching theology, received from Yale the degree of S.T.D. in 1870, and was a member of the International Council of Congregational Churches in London in 1891. He married July 7, 1863, Frances Sargent, who died June 27, 1899. No children.

1. Maria, b. July 19, 1788; d. Apr. 21, 1870, in G.
2. Fitz-Greene, b. July 8, 1790; d. Nov. 19, 1867, in G.

It is difficult to write an estimate of the life and work of Fitz-Greene Halleck or to explain the charm of the man unless we recall the flavor of the times he lived in and the names of his contemporaries. The early part of the nineteenth century following the war of 1812 was marked by strong literary tendencies. There was a demand for poetry and belles letters, and it was at the beginning of this epoch, whose greatest brilliancy was not attained until after the Civil War, that Fitz-Greene Halleck flourished. The period produced such men as Washington Irving, Cooper, Channing, Richard H. Dana, N. P. Willis, James Rodman Drake (author of the "Culprit Fay"), Prescott, Percival, Hawthorne, and Bryant, and was the forerunner of the years when Whittier, Longfellow and Emerson reached the zenith of their fame. In England Byron and Scott, Dickens and Thackeray were making their great reputations and Browning and Tennyson were beginning to astonish the world with their genius. Fitz-Greene's career reads like a romance—the only link lacking to complete the chain was "the one woman," for though loving women with delicacy and sentiment and beloved by them in turn, he lived and died unmarried. He was born in Guilford in 1790, and his earlier as well as his later years were passed in that historic town. As soon as he was taught to write he took to rhyming and to reciting pieces. He was a pupil of that period which produced Gray's Elegy, the Lady of the Lake, and the Pleasures of Hope, and was a voracious reader of the four hundred volumes the Guilford Library then possessed. At the age of fifteen he entered the store of his kinsman, Andrew Eliot, with whom he remained as clerk six years. He was noted during his whole business life, which lasted till 1850, for celerity, correctness and courtesy. The long confinement in a country store did not prevent him from composing many pretty verses, for "it was his nature to blossom into song as it is a tree's to leaf itself in April."

When twenty-one years old he left his native village for the wider life of New York, then a city of ninety thousand people. He entered the counting house of Jacob Barker, one of the leading bankers of the town, and began that career which brought him into contact with all the famous men of his day.

His Life and Letters, edited by James Grant Wilson, are good reading and give a vivid picture of the life of those times. His many talents and his winning ways soon procured for him a host of friends, and later his merit as a poet won ready recognition. He was one of the members of the "Iron Greys," organized in New York in 1814, and including in its ranks one hundred and twelve of the leading young men of New York; also a charter member of the "Ugly Club," a convivial club composed of very handsome young men and of which he was "poet laureate"; he took part in all the best social life of the period. Later in life the poet remarked that in those days his New Year's calls were with a single exception made below Canal street, the exception being Mrs. Stuyvesant, whose residence was so remote (the present Stuyvesant Square) that a carriage was always taken to go there. One of his lodging houses was 29 Wall street. A letter written home in 1816 describes a trip he took to Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Mt. Vernon. In March, 1819, "The Croakers" first appeared, a series of satirical and quaint chronicles on people and things of local interest written in rhyme and anonymously contributed to the New York Evening Post. This was the joint production of Halleck and Drake. Next "Fanny," and in 1827 "Alnwick Castle and other Poems," comprising all of Halleck's published work up to that time, was printed in a single volume. "Marco Bozzaris," of which James Grant Wilson said in 1869, "no finer martial lyric has been produced" and of which the then Greek minister said, "It is the link between America and Greece," was written in 1823, after a visit to Europe, which included travels in Great Britain, France, Switzerland, and Germany. It was tossed off one day and left at the lodgings of a friend to whom he was accustomed to show his poetic work with the simple question, "Will this do?"

It was first published in the New York Review and attained instant popularity, yet so unconscious was the writer of its real merit that his own family did not know of it till several years later. It has been translated into many languages besides the Greek, and is possibly the best known lyric of that period.

In 1837 an Authors Club was formed in New York, of which Washington Irving was president and Fitz-Greene Halleck vice president. He became well acquainted with Dickens during his first visit to America, also with Prince Louis Napoleon and Lafayette, Thackeray, the Keans, Macready, and every man of distinction of the time. He was one of the most popular "diners out" in New York. In 1837 Columbia College conferred on him the title of A.M. After he left the service of Jacob Barker, when the latter retired about 1831, he became confidential secretary to John Jacob Astor, and when John Jacob died in 1848 he left the poet a legacy of forty pounds a year. This with the royalties derived from the sale of his poems gave him a comfortable if not a large income for the rest of his days. Wilson says his literary labors brought him in altogether only seventeen thousand five hundred dollars! He spent the last fifteen years of his life in dear old Guilford with his sister, making frequent visits to New York at first, but becoming more and more fond of privacy and solitude. His work appeared only a few times during the last years when he gave us "Connecticut" and "Young America," but they added little to his fame.

The writer of this sketch has in her possession a copy of "Young America" with his name written on the flyleaf, which he gave her as a child, and she well remembers his white beard, his kindly, twinkling blue eyes, his courtly bow and the great reverence with which she regarded him. The relation between his sister and himself was most tender and pathetic. She gave the intimate feminine touch to his life and followed him to the grave. A beautiful shaft in Alderbrook Cemetery, Guilford, marks his consecrated resting place.

Young King,
Fitzgibbon Hall

An estimate of the poet is difficult to frame. We feel the charm but cannot analyze it. Halleck did not belong to the school of rapid writers nor did he belong to the prolific school who write too much. Twenty years nearly covers the period of his literary productiveness. He excels in playful humor, light satire and tender sentiment. In an article written about him Bryant the poet says: "In the midst of a strain of harmonious diction he surprises by a stroke of ridicule . . ." "He venerates the past and laughs at the present . . ." "His poetry is remarkable for the melody of its numbers, it is constructed to please an ear naturally fine . . ." "In no poet can be found passages which flow with more sweet and liquid smoothness." . . . Poe wrote of him, "There is something, too, in the bonhomie of certain of his compositions altogether distinct from poetic merit, which has aided to establish him, and much also must be admitted on the score of his personal popularity which is deservedly great."

"With all allowances, however, there will still be found a large amount of poetical fame to which he is entitled."

For grace, natural wit, refinement of fancy, and that delicate handling which is called true art, we may among all the poets of the first forty years of the nineteenth century award the palm to Halleck.

Wilson says, "Is it too much to say of Halleck as he said of Burns":

"There have been loftier themes than his
And longer scrolls and louder lyres
And lays lit up with Poesy's
Purer and holier fires.

Yet read the names that know not death,
Few nobler ones than his are there
And few have won a greener wreath
Than that which binds his hair."

- 119. v. HARVEY⁵, b. Nov. 23, 1784, at North Guilford, Conn.; d. Feb. 3, 1824.

He was prepared for Yale College by his kinsman, the Rev. John Eliot of East Guilford, Conn., from which he graduated in 1805. After leaving college he kept private schools in New Rochelle and Mamaroneck, N. Y., at the same time pursuing medical studies. At first he practised his profession by the authority of a license from the State of New Jersey. In 1817 he received the degree of M.D. from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York City. He was the leading physician in Harlem and the adjacent country on Manhattan Island and in Westchester Co., N. Y. He was buried in Harlem, where his gravestone recounted that "he enjoyed the confidence and esteem of a large and respectable community, by whom his loss is deeply regretted." In 1867 his remains were removed to his native parish of North Guilford. By his will he left a valuable library and surgical instruments to the first of his nephews who, having graduated in the art, should become a physician. These were inherited by Dr. Ellsworth Eliot of New York City.

42. JOHN⁵ (John⁴, John³, John², John¹). He is said to have been educated at either Yale or Harvard, to have entered the ministry, and to have taught school in New Haven when young. The Connecticut Journal (New Haven, Conn.) of March 31, 1808, has this, under the heading of deaths: "At the Alms House in this city, John Eliot, aged 63, descended from a respectable and opulent family in this city, and well known in most parts of the country for his perambulating and wandering disposition." From this, and other facts in his life which have come down to us, he would in our time unquestionably be pronounced insane, although then not so considered. His marriage, Jan. 21, 1795, was thus announced in the Connecticut Journal: "Entered into the connubial circle, Mr. John Eliot, late an instructor of youth in New Haven, with Mrs. Sarah Harlow of Branford." In regard to Mrs. Harlow, the Connecticut Journal, April 22, 1802, contains an interesting obituary sketch, "Died in her Mansion house in North Branford, Mrs. Sarah Eliot, by some called Mrs. Harlow, on the 7th inst. She was found dead in her bed about seven o'clock in the morning, the particular cause being unknown, aged sixty-one years. She was a woman whose fortitude and resolution had been thoroughly tried, by a long series of bodily pains and infirmities, and whose philanthropy, generosity, integrity, and honesty, were generally and happily experienced, and always well known, by her numerous acquaintance."

44. RICHARD ROSEWELL⁵ (John⁴, John³, John², John¹) He was a minister at Watertown, Mass. He was graduated at Harvard Coll. in 1774. After leaving college he taught school at Woodstock, Conn., and studied divinity under Rev. Mr. Leonard of that place. In 1779 he was appointed a tutor in Harvard College, and held that office until he received a call to Watertown, March 13, 1780. He was ordained June 21.

165. ii. MARY LEWIS⁶, b. Jan. 18, 1792; d. Nov. 14, 1838.

She married first, Jan. 31, 1813, Henry Eliot (136) of St. Genevieve, Mo., and second, Gen. Joseph D. Grafton of Little Rock, Ark., from Newton, Mass. He was a prominent lawyer and remarkably handsome. He was urged to go to the United States Senate on the Democratic ticket, but declined, being a Whig. (Children by first husband under 136.)

CHILDREN, BY SECOND HUSBAND.

1. Harriet, b. at St. Genevieve, Mo., 1826, a woman of superb mind and character; m. at Little Rock, Ark., to Richard Fatherly. Children:
 - a. William Ashley, b. 1850; d. 1887; m. at Little Rock, Addie Ward. Children: Worthen Eliot; Ward, b. July 29, 1881.
 2. Frances Eliot (or Eliza), b. Feb. 5, 1828; m. Wm. Eliot Ashley (see 140 i 1). She was one of the most beautiful women of her day, with an intellect equal to her beauty, noted for her grace of heart and manner and well-balanced Christian character.
 3. Joseph Dana, b. 1830, at St. Genevieve, Mo. He was in the U. S. Navy (then the Confederate Navy), and was later a surgeon. He was drowned off the coast of Brazil, after heroically saving a sailor. In the July Century 1898, is an account of the Florida and a Mr. Sinclair. The article contains a mention of the death of Dr. Grafton, and states that a peculiar coincidence was the fact that Dr. Grafton and Mr. Sinclair lost their lives in the same way, rescuing the same man. Dr. Grafton was witty and highly cultivated with the Eliot talent for languages, this linguistic talent being very marked.
166. iii. *CAROLINE ELIZABETH*⁶, b. in Killingworth, Mar. 17, 1796; d. Mar. 29, 1866. She married Mar. 29, 1825, John Stanton of Killingworth (Clinton), b. Apr. 5, 1783.

CHILDREN.

1. John Adam, b. June 28, 1826, at Killingworth (Clinton), Conn. Formerly merchant, now retired; is a collector of antiquities. A picture of his rare old house adorns this book.

THE STANTON HOUSE, CLINTON, CONN.

At the venerable homestead of John A. Stanton and Lewis Eliot Stanton, in the center of Clinton, Conn., and completed by their grandfather in 1791, may be found a large collection of antique furniture, pottery, porcelains and other works of art, illustrating early New England life.

The Court Cupboard here shown is entirely of oak, no metals used in construction, everything pinned with wooden pegs, all work hand-made, and carved from riven timber, before the day of saw mills, the workmanship fine, and the cupboard probably made about 1670.

The Corner China Closet was built into the mansion in 1791, and with the variety of wares exposed, presents an attractive feature.

This house stands upon the former home lot of Rev. Abraham Pierson, the second pastor of the church in Killingworth, Conn., now Clinton. He was the first Rector of "ye College in Connecticut." In his house at this place, the earliest senior classes of the college, afterwards named Yale College, were instructed by him from 1701 to 1707. Adam Stanton bought the property in 1791, while the rector's house was still standing, and took it down and placed part of the great oak timbers, a foot square, in the foundation of the chimney of his new house. They are there to-day, with solid mouldings worked upon the corners, odd mortices, bored pinholes and framing marks, the timbers nearly black with age, but still in fairly good condition. In the year 1868 a monument to mark this location was erected near it, by the college authorities, and completed by the late Gen. Wm. S. Pierson of Windsor, Conn.

2. Elizabeth Mary, b. July 23, 1829; d. May 4, 1868.
3. Lewis Eliot, b. July 19, 1833. Fitted for college at Bacon Academy, Colchester, Conn., 1849, 1850 and 1851. Entered Yale Coll. July, 1851, and graduated in 1855. Taught school as Principal of Shaw Academy, East Cleveland, O., and Select School for Boys, Cleveland, O., 1855 and 1856. Admitted to the Bar in New Haven in April, 1859. Practiced law in Norwich, Conn., 1860 to 1865. Removed to Hartford, Conn., Sept. 1865. Formed partnership of Day & Stanton (John C. Day, Yale 1857), which continued six years. While in Norwich, was Assistant Clerk of Superior Court of New London County, and Recorder (Judge City Court) of the City of Norwich. Since 1871 has practiced law alone. In 1870 was appointed assistant to U. S. Attorney for Dist. of Conn. In 1885 was promoted to office of U. S. District Attorney for the District of Connecticut; held office three years, serving under Presidents Arthur and Cleveland, resigned in April, 1888. Representative from town of Hartford in the General Assembly of Connecticut, and House Chairman of Committee on Judiciary, from January to July, 1880. Published an "Account of the Dedication of Morgan School at Clinton, Conn., 1871." His name appears in State and Federal Law Reports for about thirty years.

CHILDREN.

1. Charles Goodwin, b. Apr. 27, 1826, at Guilford, Conn.; d. Mar. 8, 1889, at Allston, Mass.

Having gained an excellent place as school teacher, he ended a most successful career as Master of the Gaston School, South Boston, which position he held for more than a quarter of a century. His school-boy days were spent in preparing for Yale College, and for the life of a lawyer. He was known as a thorough, accurate scholar. Adverse circumstances compelled a change of plan, and without at first giving up hope for a college education, he began his career as a teacher in the central district school in North Guilford. In subsequent years he was at the head of schools, in Elizabethport, and Newark, N. J., and in New Haven, Conn.

As a student and teacher in the Normal School of Connecticut, under John D. Philbrick, LL.D., he increased his equipment for a higher position. He was wanted as a public school teacher in Boston, where at first he was sub-master in the Bigelow School, and soon master, then he was master in the Lincoln School, and when the Gaston School was organized, he became its Principal.

The memorial tributes at his funeral in Allston, Mass., where he resided, before "an audience of teachers and friends, such as has been rarely gathered hereabouts," bore abundant testimony to his superiority as a teacher, and his worth as a man. The Head Master of the Normal School characterized him as "one of God's noblemen." After speaking of his great efforts to magnify the office of a teacher, he adds, "As a result, he grew in wisdom, power, and influence, till the day of his death."

The Master of the Emerson School said: "He was ambitious to make his own school the best possible, but he was not contented to stop there. All over the city, youths and maidens, men and women in the prime of life, fathers and mothers, rise up and call him blessed. They remember with grateful hearts, his kind care, his fatherly counsels, and his faithful teaching."

The Master of Dwight School remarked, that when depressed, Clark's "lambent wit and happy humor would restore him" to his normal condition. And then he adds, "Endowed by nature with personal presentability, gifted with a charming power of statement, and a gracious manner, what wonder that our hearts went out to him."

Other acquaintances were not lacking in words of praise.

He married in 1850, Rosalin Loper, dau. of James and Content (Davis) Loper. Children:

graduates of West Point, class of 1833, and served as lieutenant of engineers a few years. He then resigned, to accept the position of civil engineer in charge of one of the divisions in the survey of the New York and Erie Railway.

He was appointed Adjutant General of the State of New York, Jan. 1, 1839, by Governor Seward, and served until Jan. 1, 1843. At the same time he was editor of the Albany Daily Advertiser, and later, associate editor, with Thurlow Weed, of the Albany Journal until the fall of 1845, when he moved to Milwaukee to take charge of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

In 1861 he was appointed Minister to the Pontifical States at Rome, Italy, but resigned at the outbreak of the Civil War, that he might tender his services to his country. He was appointed May 17, 1861, Brigadier-General of volunteers, and commanded a division of the Army of the Potomac until 1863, when failing health compelled his resignation. He was at once reappointed Minister to Rome, serving there until the summer of 1867, when he returned to America, and resided in or near New York City until his death.

1. Charles, b. Oct. 12, 1844, at Albany, N. Y.

Charles King, the military hero and well known story-teller, is surely a figure of which any family may be proud. Those who know him say that one discerns in him the best traits of character in the bravest heroes which he has pictured.

His great-grandfather on his father's side was Rufus King, signer of the Declaration of Independence, one of the shapers of destiny of New York State at that period, twice United States Minister to England.

His grandfather, Charles King, was one of the early presidents of Columbia College, a scholar of noble attainments. His father's fine career is noted above.

Charles was a lad at school in New York when the war of the Rebellion began. The guns of Fort Sumter fired his soldier's blood—he made his way to Washington and became drummer boy to the Wisconsin Volunteers and busily engaged in teaching the art to others. He was promoted to the post of mounted orderly, and in time, in 1862, when his abilities were recognized, was given a cadetship at West Point by President Lincoln. After his graduation he was removed in succession to posts at New Orleans, Fort Hamilton, and in 1871 to Arizona.

In New Orleans he met the lady who became his wife, Miss Yorke, the daughter of a southern gentleman. In his fights with the Apaches he displayed that coolness and recklessness and indifference to danger which have made of him the ideal leader. He was seriously disabled in the historic fight at "Sunset Pass" in Nov. 1874, but recovered sufficiently to take part in the Big Horn and Yellowstone expeditions and later, in the Nez Perces campaign. By this time, 1878, he was Captain, but the old wound in the right arm giving him serious trouble, he retired from the service and returned to Wisconsin, where he became instructor in military matters in the Madison University and Colonel and Aide-de-Camp in the State military organizations. In 1895 he was appointed Adjutant General of Wisconsin. After this we are not surprised to know that when the war with Spain broke out he was ready to go. Renewed health enabled him to respond to his country's call and he accepted the post of Brigadier General of Volunteers. He left for the Philippines June 1898, where he commanded the men of the First Washington, First California, and First Idaho. But he counted too much on his health, and after a series of exciting adventures, was forced to retire in Aug. 1899; not, however, until he had done such signal service to his country and shown such conspicuous bravery that he was recommended for promotion, in March 1899, to the position of Major General of Volunteers.

Since his last two experiences he has devoted himself to the writing of stories and magazine articles, which he turns off in rapid succession, having accumulated the material during his active and eventful life. "Between the Lines" and the "General's Double" are his favorite stories. His first book "Kitty's Conquest" was written in the seventies. "The Colonel's Daughter" appeared in 1881. The writer of this sketch having asked him for a list of his books, he replied: "I have written forty-five books—forty more than I would have written if—; don't ask me for their names!" He married Nov. 20, 1872, at Avoca Plantation, Carroll Parish, La., Adelaide L. Yorke.

96. JOHN⁵ (George⁴, Jared³, Joseph², John¹). A.B. Yale Coll. 1786; S.T.D. Yale Coll. 1822; pastor of the church in Madison. He married Sarah, dau. of Lot Norton of Salisbury. After his death she married Hon. Elisha Sterling and d. July 9, 1841.

Dr. Elliott is thus described by the Rev. Dr. John Todd:

"He was a tall, very thin and slim man. His legs, always dressed in black stockings and small clothes, seemed too slender to hold him up. How neatly he was always dressed—not a spot or wrinkle on his garments! What a broad-brimmed hat he wore—renewed just once in two years. His manner and bearing were most gentlemanly. He was a fine scholar, a genuine lover of study, a capital preacher, a wise and shrewd man, never trying to be rich or known, but well-known, and all his life long he received the enormous salary of four hundred dollars a year. He was the life and soul of the village library, and ready for every good work. How we boys and girls were wont to look upon him with awe and reverence, unable to believe that the common frailties of human nature hung about him! I never dared to enter his front door till I had been a member of college a year or two. I have never since met the minister who seemed to me so great."

One instance of his wise foresight was the establishment of the Ministerial Fund in Madison, Conn.

Prior to 1818 the institutions of the Gospel were supported by taxing all the inhabitants within the bounds of a society. By a provision of the constitution then adopted, the support of religion was made entirely voluntary. Dr. Elliott was so apprehensive of the failure of this plan that he determined a ministerial fund should be raised for the benefit of the church and society. It should be kept at interest until it amounted to $10,000. It became available in 1855. In 1901 it amounted to about $12,000.

Dr. Elliott's grave is surrounded by the graves of those to whom he ministered. It is marked by an obelisk, upon which is inscribed:

Sacred to the memory of the Rev'd John Elliott D.D.
Fellow of Yale College &
Pastor of the church &
Society in this place.
After having faithfully discha-rged the duties of the ministry
33 years, he died Dec. 17, 1824
Ae 56
Much beloved by the people of his Charge, & respected by all who knew him.

After his death, his widow returned to her native Salisbury, Conn., and married again. The inscription upon her gravestone shows the pride she felt in her first husband.

Sally, Relict of the Hon. Elisha Sterling formerly the Wife of the late John Elliott, D.D. late of Madison Con deceased and daughter of the late Lot Norton Esq. died July 9, A. D. 1841:
 aged 75 years.

My flesh shall rest in hope.

In the Reports of the Treasurer of Yale University, in the List of the Funds of the Theological Department, is the "Elliott Fund." This fund amounted in 1901 to $1,780.80.

The origin of this fund was as follows: "Rev. John Elliott of Madison, Conn. (formerly called East Guilford), bequeathed to the College 'The Neck Lot,' subject to two conditions: i. That the lot should be sold and the proceeds used for the benefit of the Theological Department. ii. That the interest should be spent for books except one per cent which should be added to the permanent fund." One of these days it will amount to "something handsome."

In the Catalogue of Relics exhibited at the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Guilford, Conn., Sept. 8th, 9th and 10th, 1889, is:

The picture was owned and loaned by Miss Lucy Norton of Madison.

104. WILLIAM⁵ (*Nathaniel*⁴, *Abiel*³, *Joseph*², *John*¹). Farmer in Guilford. It is said that he loved to write and to make rhymes. The rhyming faculty is strong in this branch of the family. He kept a diary—part of this is still in existence, and many of its rambling accounts are quaint and full of interest. He married, Nov. 26, 1780, Ruth, daughter of Nathaniel and Deborah (Fowler) Rossiter of Guilford. Ruth was born Apr. 17, 1757; d. July 19, 1814. Nathaniel Rossiter was born in 1716, and Deborah in 1722. He was the son of Ensign Nathaniel Rossiter and Anna Stone (daughter of Lieutenant Nathaniel and Mary (Bartlett) Stone), and this Nathaniel Rossiter was the son of Josiah Rossiter (d. Jan. 31, 1716) and Sarah (Mitchell) Sherman of Woodbury. Josiah was one of eleven children and was himself the father of seventeen! Josiah's father was Dr. Bryan (or Bray) Rossiter, who came to America with his father, Edward Rossiter, in the "Mary & John" in June, 1630. Edward Rossiter came as Governor

Winthrop's assistant, and died the same year. Dr. Bryan was the chief promoter of the Dorchester Colony in 1631, whence he removed to Windsor, Conn., in 1639, where he was first town clerk. He removed to Guilford in 1651 and died Sept. 30, 1672. His wife was Elizabeth Alsop, dau. of John Alsop and Temperance Gilbert of Alsop-in-the-Dale, England. She came over with her brothers Timothy and George, and joined the church in Milford, Conn., in 1642.

Mrs. Emerson of Detroit has a deed signed by both William and Ruth Elliot, also by Nathaniel Rossiter, in regard to property coming from Deborah (Fowler) Rossiter (later, Mrs. Nathaniel Ruggles). It is dated 1812.

1. Charles Elliott, b. Nov. 24, 1840.

Charles Elliott, for twenty years president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, is a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, and on both the paternal and maternal sides is descended from ancestors who were of old Puritan stock, and were prominently identified with the early history of the New England colonies. The first family to settle in America was Edmund Perkins, who emigrated from England in 1650, and was a member of the Salem Colony of Massachusetts, and from him descended a line of ancestors of the Perkins family, who have ever been distinguished, not only in the New England States, but in the western country, in which many of them subsequently made their homes. Our subject takes his middle name from his mother's family, the Eliots, who were no less distinguished in the early annals of New England. Their first ancestor also landed in Massachusetts, but the family afterward removed to Connecticut.

Charles E. Perkins was educated in Cincinnati, Ohio, until sixteen years of age, when he engaged as clerk in a store, where he learned practical bookkeeping and business methods. After some years' service in that line, he came to Burlington, Iowa, in August, 1859, and was given a clerkship in the office of Charles R. Lowell, the assistant treasurer of the Burlington & Missouri Railroad, at the munificent salary of $30 a month. He was soon made paymaster under Mr. Lowell, and filled that position until late in the autumn of 1860, when Mr. Lowell, having accepted the position of manager of the Mt. Savage Iron Works, at Cumberland, Md., left the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad service, and Mr. Perkins, who was only twenty years of age, was promoted to the office of assistant treasurer.

Until January, 1865, Mr. Perkins continued to serve as assistant treasurer, when Hans Thielsen (the superintendent of the road at that time) was called to Nebraska to serve as chief engineer in making a survey of the road to be built from Plattsmouth to Kearney Junction, and Mr. Perkins was made acting superintendent, to fill the vacancy. Some months later, it having been determined to extend the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad to the Missouri River, and that Mr. Thielsen was to devote his attention to that part of the work, Mr. Perkins was promoted to be superintendent of the road, which at that time extended only from Burlington to Ottumwa, a distance of seventy-five miles. During the period of construction of the road through to the Missouri River, he served both as superintendent and vice president. In the meantime he had been active in promoting the organization of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad Company in Nebraska, of which he was one of the incorporators and a member of the first board of directors, being chosen to that position October 28, 1869. On the 26th day of July, 1871, he was elected a director of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad Company in Iowa; the Nebraska road was opened through to Kearney Junction in the summer of 1872, and November 4th of that year Mr. Perkins was chosen vice president of that company. Upon the consolidation of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad Company of Iowa with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad of Illinois, on January 1, 1873, he was deprived of his official connection with the former company through the changed condition of affairs. On the 2d of April, 1875, Mr. Perkins was chosen a member of the board of directors of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, then owning and operating the original road in Illinois and the newly acquired extension in Iowa; and on the 2d day of March, 1876, he was elected vice president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Company, still retaining the vice presidency and general management of the road west of the Missouri River. On the 5th day of May he was elected president of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad in Iowa; and on the first day of January, 1880, the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad in Nebraska became consolidated with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, throwing the whole under one corporate management, Mr. Perkins remaining as vice president until September 29, 1881, when he was chosen president. He has been re-elected at each succeeding election, and is now serving his eighteenth year in that capacity. Mr. Perkins is also officially connected with several other railroad corporations which are connected with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and is director and president of the Hannibal & St. Joseph and the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs Railroads, the two named being maintained as distinct and separate corporations.

When Mr. Perkins first came to Burlington, nearly thirty years ago, in August, 1859, he was not quite nineteen years of age, so that it may be said of him that he began his connection with the important corporation of which he is now chief executive officer, or rather with a constituent part of it, while but a boy, and that he has earned and won, by superior executive ability, energy and fidelity to the trust reposed in him, an honorable promotion through all the grades of service, from that of a clerk in the treasurer's office to his present prominent and responsible position, as chief executive officer of one of the greatest railway systems of the country.

It may be an item of interest to make some mention of the places of abode and the manner of Mr. Perkins' way of living in his early days in Burlington. He first made his home with Mr. Lowell and Leo Carper, both of whom were connected with the railway company. They lived together in what was known as Patterson's hollow, now Agency street, until the fall of 1860, when they removed to Shepard Leffler's farm, now West Burlington. Mr. Lowell had taken a lease of Mr. Leffler's farm and house, which he transferred to Mr. Perkins when he left Burlington for Mt. Savage. The following spring (1861) Mr. Perkins succeeded in getting Mr. Leffler to take the farm off his hands and thus escaped becoming a granger. He then returned to the city, and for a while boarded at the Barrett House, and later with Mrs. Fletcher, on North Hill, in the house owned and occupied by R. M. Raab. Remaining there until the fall of 1862, Mr. Perkins then rented a house on South Hill, of Mr. Nelson Dills, which he afterwards purchased, and in which he now resides. There were originally sixty acres in the place, but he has sold off several tracts until he now has but twenty acres, which, with the commodious residence, beautiful groves and lawns, makes an elegant and pleasant suburban home. At the time of his marriage, in the autumn of 1864, he established his residence on the place now owned by Mrs. Erastus Chamberlain on North Hill, remaining there until the spring of 1867, when he sold to Mr. Chamberlain, and purchased the Dills farm, to which he removed at once. While Mr. Perkins and his family spend some months each year in Boston, Burlington is their home.

Mr. Perkins is a republican in his political sentiments, but is not in any sense a politician. His important business relations, both private and official, leave him no time, even were he so disposed, to win prominence in the political arena. As a rule, large corporations recognize superior ability and integrity of character in their employes, and reward true merit with promotion, and while the motive on the part of the corporation may be purely selfish, the success of the individual officer is none the less creditable. This is well illustrated in the career of Mr. Perkins in Burlington. Beginning before reaching his majority as a clerk at $30 per month, he has steadily risen through all the grades.—(From "Progressive Men of Iowa," published in 1899.)

- 116. WILLIAM ROSE² (Timothy⁴, Abial³, Joseph², John¹). Farmer in North Guilford, and built a "fair house" on his land, which was a part of the grant from the original town of Guilford to Joseph Eliot in 1665, and devised by him to Abial. (See will of Joseph Eliot, O. E. G., page 145.) He married, Nov. 3, 1811, Sarah (Sally), dau. of Jonah and Hannah (Tyler) Clark of North Branford, b. Sept. 25, 1782; d. Feb. 8, 1851. For many graces of person and disposition she was known as "the prettiest lady in Northford," and was teacher in the village school, when few women essayed such a position. That she was well educated and accomplished much in advance of the woman of her time is proven by her letters, still preserved by some of her descendants.

 243. iii. GUSTAVUS ROSE⁶, b. July 5, 1822; d. Nov. 25, 1869.

His youth and early manhood were spent at home, and devoted to the care of his mother, who was for many years an invalid. He managed, however, to secure a thorough education, and developed fine literary taste. He studied law at home, driving many miles to New Haven for recitations and examinations, which he passed with honors. He received the degree of Bachelor of Laws from Yale College in 1858.

He spent some years in England as the American representative of a manufacturing business in which he had become interested. Upon his return to this country he settled in New Haven and pursued the practice of law until his death.

In personal appearance he was to an unusual degree of marked Eliot type. Over six feet in height, but well proportioned, with fine complexion, dark hair, straight nose, and a steady blue gray eye that bespoke great reserve power, he impressed all who met him as a man of distinct character and ability. Upon his decease, resolutions of respect were passed by the members of the New Haven County Bar.

He married, Apr. 9, 1863, Josephine W., daughter of Dr. Sheldon C. and Hannah (Stoddard) Johnson of Seymour, Conn. She was born Oct. 10, 1838; d. Oct. 22, 1900, and is

"Mrs. Wm. H. Beers ("Ethel Lynn"), whose new volume, "All Quiet Along the Potomac, and Other Poems," had just been published, died a few days ago in Orange, N. J. She was for many years a valued contributor to the New York Ledger. She possessed an uncommonly cheerful and sunny nature, but even in her cheerfulness she was subject to strange premonitions, one of which was that as soon as she printed her poems she should die."—New York Ledger, Nov. 15, 1879.

Extract from a sermon delivered at a service in memory of Mrs. Beers:

"On both sides her ancestors were of Puritan stock and remarkable for their strong religious convictions. This fact had a ruling influence over the life of our sister. Who can tell what a power on human destiny is the entail of a moral character embalmed in records of heroic deeds. 'A good man leaveth an inheritance unto his children's children.' There is force in the purpose not to dishonor our shield.

Mrs. Beers was especially fond of tracing her pedigree back to Eliot the Indian Apostle, whose Bible now untranslatable by mortal man (?) lies on the shelves of Cambridge, and whose wonderful success in the conversion of the Natick Indians was celebrated in that famous letter written by the first President of the College to Dr. Leusden of Utrecht—a letter translated into five different languages, and of which it was said,

'It affords great consolation to all souls who thirst after holiness and are inflamed with a zeal for the glory of God.'

In one of her poems Mrs. Beers describes John Eliot as he stood on the quarter deck of the good ship 'Lyon' at the moment when she dropped her anchor in the Boston harbor:

'. He did not know
He saw his kingdom stretched before him;
His crown beneath New England's snow.
Ah! how my pulse leaps to remember
More than two hundred years have gone
And still within this wrist-vein purple,
That blessed Pilgrim blood flows on.'

That his blood did flow on in the veins of that delicate wrist is evident from what Cotton Mather says in his Magnalia: 'He that will write of Eliot must write of charity or else say nothing. His charity was a star of the first magnitude in the bright constellation of his virtues. With marvellous alacrity did he embrace every opportunity of relieving others. He could not persuade himself that he had anything but what he gave away. He had a heart full of good wishes and a mouth full of kind blessings for all.' These words, written 200 years ago, are as applicable to many of his descendants, as they were to the man of God of whom they were penned.

From her girlhood Mrs. Beers drew attention for more than ordinary powers of composition. When in school her teacher felt great pride in her. At one time, when a prize had been offered to the first class, this teacher found herself obliged to say, 'I cannot give the prize to any among you, for that child there upon the lowest form has done far better.'

In later life this talent displayed itself in the increasing value and beauty of her poetic productions, the collections of which—what she herself so modestly calls, 'a handful of white clover and daisies'—fixes her name on the permanent list of American authors.

Mrs. Beers cherished the warmest attachment to all the people of God. Especially was her church relation most sacred. The sweetest spiritual experiences of her life were enjoyed in our assemblies. From the first she was indefatigable and untiring in her efforts to build up this church. Never pastor had more devoted communicant. Her seat was near the pulpit. Always was her pleasant, thoughtful face turned upward toward the speaker. Always was felt that silent sympathy that knits one to an appreciative listener. Always some kind word or tender personal inquiry followed, with a warm handshake, the service.

Nor was she only the churchwoman. She was the private friend as well. Admirably did she merit the epithet of the good neighbor. A dear brother said to me on the ferry-boat but a day or two ago, 'When my dead baby was sick, she came in at dusk, took the child in her arms, and held it till daybreak.' Said another, bursting into tears, 'She has been a mother to me ever since I came to this town.'

From the New Englander, New Haven, Conn., Mar. 1880:

"All quiet along the Potomac." The first line of the little poem which has been given as a title to this whole collection, will recall to the minds of many one of the most affecting of the shorter poems which were inspired by the sad events of the Civil War, near twenty years ago. But these are not the only lines which will be recognized as familiar. In the days when the thoughts of all were daily following the blue coats in the far distant field, there were few who read "Company K." or "On the Shores of Tennessee" without emotion. Few can read them now unmoved. The author, "Ethel Lynn Beers," has not neglected during all these subsequent years the talent of which she gave then such satisfactory proof, and in these pages will be found the evidence of a poetic insight, and a skill of versification on other themes, which make the collection one of far more than ordinary interest.

Her publications were "General Frankie," a story for little folks; 12mo, pp. 149; "The Burnt Overcoat," 12mo, pp. 70; "All Quiet Along the Potomac, and Other Poems," published in 1879; 12mo, pp. 352.

In 1864 a book was published in New York entitled "A Selection of War Lyrics," with illustrations on wood by F. O. C. Darley. Of the seven poems deemed worthy of a place in this publication, two are by Mrs. Beers, "All Quiet Along the Potomac" and "On the Shores of Tennessee."

206. ELY AUGUSTUS⁶ (George⁵, George⁴, Jared³, Joseph², John¹). He was for many years a merchant in Clinton, Conn., but retired from business and devoted himself to more leisurely pursuits. He collected a considerable library, and devoted also much time and attention to the cause of agriculture. He delivered an address before the Agricultural Society of Middlesex County, which was published at the time and is now a rare pamphlet. He was active in originating and carrying on the construction of the New Haven and New London Railroad, and was president of the road for many years.

He filled with distinction the office of Brigadier-General of Artillery, being a popular and efficient officer. He was elected by the Legislature Judge of the County Court of Middlesex County. In 1839 he was elected a member of the State Senate.

Courteous and dignified in manner, refined and scholarly in his tastes, his last years were passed largely in devotion to his invalid wife, to whom he was deeply attached. Their deaths occurred within two days of each other and they were laid in one grave. He married, July 14, 1818, Susan Maria, daughter of Humphrey Pratt of Saybrook. She died Jan. 9, 1870.

- + 363. ii. GEORGE F.⁷, b. Feb. 14, 1842.

211. WILLIAM HORACE⁶ (William⁵, Nathaniel⁴, Abial³, Joseph², John¹) was a native of Guilford. He and his brother George early left the parental roof to seek a wider field for their energies. He became a merchant in New Haven, and during the forty years of an active business career gained a high reputation for tact, shrewdness and general business ability. He constantly gave assistance to others less fortunate than himself, even before his own success was established, and accumulated what in those days was considered a "snug fortune." He retired from his regular business in 1840 and later invested in manufacturing and other enterprises, "taking his chances" and making or losing largely, as the case might be. He remarked late in life that if, on retiring from business, he had invested his capital at a low rate of interest and let it accumulate, he would have been a much richer man. But such a conservative course would have suited neither his inclination nor his instincts. In our day he would have been called a "self-made" and a "public-spirited" man, ever ready to serve his community. He was the first president of the New Haven County Bank, which he piloted through the financial depression of 1836-7, and was one of three gentlemen who, during the same period, backed the construction of the New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

He was a vestryman in Trinity Church in 1836 and was actively identified with the founding of St. Paul's Church.

Mr. Eliot was a handsome man. Also his brothers George and Charles were handsome, well-made men—all three tall, with dark hair and blue eyes. His granddaughter well remembers the fine appearance he created as he rode through the streets in his open carriage, then called a "barouche," behind two high-stepping horses and a liveried coachman,—the pleasant smile and the courtly bow as he greeted his friends. It was a glimpse of a generation of whom, alas! barely a trace now remains.

He married first, May 16, 1809, Mary, daughter of William Law, Esq., of Cheshire, and great-granddaughter of Hon. Jonathan Law, Governor of Connecticut. (See No. 16.) She was b. Sept. 10, 1785; d. Feb. 2, 1828. He married second, Aug. 31, 1829, Hannah, daughter of Daniel Hubbard, Esq., of Guilford, and widow of Timothy Stone, Esq., of Guilford. She was b. Feb. 16, 1797; d. Dec. 24, 1851.

She married July 18, 1838, in New York City, Dr. John Knowlton Bartlett of Portsmouth, N. H., later of Milwaukee, Wis. He was b. Feb. 28, 1816, at Portsmouth, N. H.; d. Nov. 26, 1889, in Berkeley, Cal. He graduated at Yale Coll. in 1838 and in its medical department in 1841. He was president of the Wisconsin State Medical Society at one time, an active member of the American Medical Association, and a successful practitioner in Milwaukee.

In compliance with a direction in his will, his body was cremated at Los Angeles, Cal., and the ashes sent to Milwaukee for interment in the family burying ground.

She married second, at Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14, 1853, Leverett Camp Stone, b. June 4, 1819, at Guilford, Conn.; d. June 12, 1892.

One of the rare women of her times. A blessing to everyone who knew her. Perhaps no fitter tribute can be paid to her memory than is contained in the following lines by Edward Howard Griggs: "In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness let us not underestimate the value of a simple good life. Just to be good: to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet, and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is an ideal as noble as it is difficult."

234. CHARLES WYLLYS⁶ (Andrew⁵, Wyllys⁴, Abial³, Joseph², John¹). After a boyhood spent in Guilford, he went to New York about 1835, where he worked as a clerk until 1838-9, when he took up the study of horticulture and landscape gardening with A. J. Downing at Newburgh, N. Y. After an apprenticeship with Mr. Downing, he went to Cincinnati in 1840. Here were living his sister, Elizabeth, married to Samuel E. Foote, and his youngest sister, Sarah, married to Reverend James H. Perkins; and through their influence he selected Cincinnati as a place in which to practice his profession. He remained there until 1848, when he returned to New York and went into business again.

Commercial life, however, never had much attraction for him, for his great interest was in nature, and in the great questions of the day that were discussed so much a few years before the war.

His principal friends were men outside of commercial life, like Mr. Charles Loring Brace, with whom he was associated in founding the Children's Aid Society in 1853, of which he was one of the first trustees. Among his closest friends were Mr. Frederic Law Olmsted, the famous landscape gardener, and Mr. Calvert Vaux, the architect, and in 1857 he was appointed one of the original commissioners for laying out Central Park in the city of New York.

His association with this type of men brought him in contact with prominent New England people, and at Cambridge, Mass., where Mr. James Russell Lowell and Dr. Estes Howe were living, he met his future wife, the sister of Mrs. Lowell and Mrs. Howe. They were married at Cambridge and lived in New York and New Haven until 1869. Three children were born to them. All, except Howard, died young.

While living in New York he was engaged in commercial business, but was always more interested in literary and artistic pursuits, and wrote much, and was associated with newspaper and literary men.

In 1869 he and Mrs. Elliott and the boy Howard went to England for something over a year. For some time he had been much interested in the general question of improving the type of the American home, and in the movement that was under way in England under Eastlake. On his return from England in 1870, he established in Boston the Household Art Company, which paid particular attention to more sensible and artistic home fitting and furnishing.

In 1873-4 his health failed somewhat, and he went abroad again, partly on business and partly for rest.

He lived in Cambridge, Mass., until about 1879, interested in the Household Art Company, and in literary matters, giving some lectures,—one course before the Lowell Institute.

His health not being good, he spent considerable time, from 1878 until the time of his death, in the west, where he had interests in both Nebraska and Kansas in cattle and sheep, making his headquarters while in the west at Ashland, Neb.

While on a visit to Guilford in the summer of 1883, he passed away suddenly and peacefully on August 23, about ten o'clock in the evening.

As a young man Mr. Elliott was very spirited and handsome, and to the end of his life was a very fine looking man. He was versatile, brilliant in conversation, full of anecdote, with much personal magnetism, and extremely fond of people, especially children. The beauties of nature appealed to him, and for recreation he used to sketch and paint.

He wrote much all through his life, and the following is a statement of his principal works:

"Cottages and Cottage Life, Containing Plans for Country Houses." Cincinnati and New York, 1848. Illustrated. 8vo, cloth, pp. 226.

"Mysteries; or Glimpses of the Supernatural." New York. Harper & Brothers. 1852. pp. 273.

"Saint Domingo, Its Revolution and Its Hero, Toussaint L'Ouverture." 1855. 12mo, pp. 83.

"The New England History, From the Discovery of the Continent, A. D. 986, to the Time When the Colonies Declared Their Independence, A. D. 1776." In two volumes. New York and London. 1857. Vol. I, pp. 497. Vol. II, pp. 492. 8vo.

"Remarkable Characters and Places of the Holy Land." Illustrated. Hartford, Conn., and San Francisco. 1868. pp. 640.

"The Book of American Interiors," prepared from existing houses. Illustrated. Boston. 1876. Quarto, pp. 235.

"Pottery and Porcelain." 1878. 8vo, pp. 358.

In addition to the above, he wrote innumerable articles for magazines and newspapers, the largest and most valuable collection being in "Putnam's" Magazine, and the "Galaxy," both published years ago in New York City.

I., where he is now (Jan. 1905) Medical Inspector of the Insular Board of Health.
434. iv. MARY WYLLYS⁷, b. Nov. 23, 1868.

246. ELLSWORTH⁶ (Wyllys⁵, Timothy⁴, Abial³, Joseph², John¹). A.B. Yale Coll. 1849, and later A.M. M.D. Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons N. Y. 1852. Having served as junior and senior assistant and house surgeon in Bellevue Hospital 1852-3, for which he received a diploma, he began his career as a practicing physician in that city. He has filled the position of attending physician in the Northern and Northeastern Dispensaries, has been Trustee and Registrar in the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons, has been twice president of the Medical Society of the County of New York, twice president of the Society for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Medical Men, and vice president of the Medical Society of the State of New York.

He is a member of the principal medical societies of New York City, is a life member of the New York Historical Society, and of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Societies, having been for several years vice president of the latter.

Such is the mere outline of the successive steps in his career and the well-deserved honors of a long and useful life. He has been called by one of his kinswomen the "Chief of our Tribe," and in another part of this work reference will be made to his untiring services to the Eliot family. He married, May 7, 1856, Anna, dau. of Joshua and Ruth Shaw (Sumner) Stone of Boston, Mass., b. Dec. 13, 1825, died Jan. 23, 1905. Benjamin P. Shillaber, in The New England Magazine, new series, vol.

ix, p. 158, says of her: "Among the soloists of the Handel and Haydn Society (Boston) was one who has hardly been excelled since, and who gave the greatest delight. This was Anna Stone, a Boston girl, who in oratorio would be to-day the peer of any female vocalist.

To have heard her sing 'I Know that my Redeemer Liveth,' and 'Let the Bright Seraphim,' the latter accompanied by a trumpet, by John Bartlett, I feel even now to have been a great privilege. Miss Stone was a tall, pale girl, with brilliant eyes, and as she sang, she seemed transfigured by the spirit of the music she was rendering."

260. WILLIAM SIDNEY⁷ (*William W.*⁶, *Samuel S.*⁵, *Aaron*⁴, *Jared*³, *Joseph*², *John*¹) was born in North Hampton, Montgomery Co., N. Y. In 1819 his parents removed to Ballston Spa, New York, and remained there till 1836. In 1833 he became school teacher in Rochester in a free school supported by General Riley. At this time the slavery agitation was the question of the day. The first anti-slavery convention ever held in New York State met in 1835 at Utica, and Mr. Elliott was a delegate to that meeting. After this he became fully imbued with the idea that the great West was the place for the full fruition of free thoughts and actions and where the death of slavery would be worked out. He soon after removed to Michigan, locating at Niles. Here he became familiar with the fact that the negroes were helping themselves to freedom, and he lent a helping hand on every opportunity, so that two hundred escaped bondsmen via the Indiana, Ohio and Michigan underground railway had to thank Mr. Elliott, whose section of the road covered a distance of twenty miles, for aid rendered them in their flight. About the time the Civil War broke out he removed to Chicago and later to Quincy, Ill. Later he again returned to Chicago, where he continued to reside, an honored and respected citizen, up to the day of his death.

He is buried at Niles, Mich. A beautiful granite monument, erected by his son, A. R. Elliott, adorns the cemetery lot, which was cleared out of the primeval forest by himself in early manhood. There also repose the remains of his father and mother, his wives and several children. He married first, Oct. 1, 1836, Louisa Carrington of Huron, O., b. May 8, 1811; d. Sept. 17, 1837. He married second, Nov. 30, 1844, at Cleveland, O., Caroline Matilda Morse, b. May 5, 1823, at Wells, Me.; d. Dec. 28, 1851; buried at Niles, Mich. He married third, May 17, 1854, at Phelps, N. 371. WILLIAM HORACE^t (William Horace^s, William^s, Nathaniel^t, Abial^s, Joseph^h, John^t). A.B. Yale 1844; A.M. and LL.B. Yale 1847. Lawyer in New Haven.

He took high honors in college; was a Phi Beta Kappa and a Skull and Bones man. After his admission to the Bar he began the practice of law, and married in 1849. He is described by those who remember him as an unusually attractive and promising young man, bound to achieve success and make himself a name. He was an active worker in the church and superintendent of St. Paul's Sunday School. His daughter, the editor of this revision, has many beautiful tributes to his character in her possession. But alas! He died of yellow fever in the West Indies, whither he had gone to recover from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, Dec. 8, 1852. Such is the outline of the short career of one who, though early called, had accomplished much.

Through the compilation of the "Genealogy of the Eliot Family," published after his death by his father (211) and others of the family, he placed himself in the forefront of early American genealogists, and thereby rendered a service to his family which they recognize in this Revised Edition by placing his portrait as the frontispiece.

He married, June 5, 1849, Sarah Frances Sawyer, daughter of Nathaniel and Pamela (Anderson) Sawyer of Cincinnati, O.

Nathaniel Sawyer was one of the leading lawyers of that city in its early days—a descendant of Deacon Moses Sawyer of Salisbury, N. H., and a second cousin of Daniel Webster. Pamela Anderson's ancestors came from Pennington, N. J., and were among the first settlers of Kentucky. She lived to the ripe old age of ninety-six. Mrs. Sallie Elliot later married Lebeus C. Chapin of New Haven (Yale 1852) and had by him four children.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM HORACE AND SARAH SAWYIER ELLIOT, ALL BORN IN NEW HAVEN.

564. i. WILLIAM HORACE^s, b. June 5, 1850; d. Aug. 30, 1850.
565. ii. GEORGE AUGUSTUS^s, b. Sept. 22, 1851; d. Aug. 1, 1852.

She was born in her grandfather's house in New Haven, and lived there until her mother married again in 1859. She was a delicate child, and did not go to school regularly until she was ten years old, but studied Latin and mathematics with her stepfather, who was then tutor at Yale. In 1866 Dr. Chapin's health being broken by the War of the Rebellion, and scholastic pursuits being interdicted, the family moved to Kalamazoo, Mich., whence, in 1868, at the age of fifteen, Wilimena went to Vassar College, which had been opened three years previously. She was poet of her class for the last three years, and had both a Class day and a Commencement appointment, receiving also (in later years, when a Vassar Chapter was inaugurated) the Phi Beta Kappa. After a year's travel in California and a half year's post-graduate course at Vassar, she began the study of medicine in New York City at the Woman's College of the New York Infirmary, and was thus one of the medical pioneers of her sex. She was the assistant of Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi for two years in Materia Medica. She graduated in the spring of 1877, and in Kalamazoo, Dec. 26, 1877, married Justin Edwards Emerson, formerly of the Hawaiian Islands, a graduate of Williams College 1865; H. C. Med. School 1868; and the son of John S. Emerson and Ursula Newell, early missionaries to the Islands. After a year and a half in the old world, Dr.

and Mrs. Emerson chose Detroit as their home and settled there in October, 1880.

Mrs. Emerson is actively identified with the social, philanthropic and religious interests of her adopted city, is a Daughter of the Revolution, a Colonial Dame, and State Chairman of the Order of Descendants of Colonial Governors, of which she has six in her ancestry. She had the honor of delivering a poem at the first Eliot gathering at Guilford in 1875 and again at the Natick reunion in 1901.

472. WILLIAM SIDNEY⁸ (William S.⁷, William W.⁶, Samuel S.⁵, Aaron⁴, Jared³, Joseph², John¹). Lawyer in Chicago.

The mother of William Sidney Elliott, Jr., Caroline (Morse) Elliott, was the daughter of Daniel Morse, a drummer boy of the War of 1812. Daniel Morse was a son of Nathan Morse, captain in Shay's Rebellion, 1812, and a grandson of Nathan Morse, the Revolutionary patriot, a private in Captain Amariah Fuller's command at Cambridge, April 19, 1775. Daniel Morse's wife was Lucretia (Sawyer) Morse, granddaughter of Jacob Sawyer, a patriot of the Revolutionary War, enlisted from Nobleborough, Maine, and wounded at the siege of Boston, under the command of Captain Rounds and Colonel Bond Mitchell. Mr. Elliott's mother was a schoolmate and playfellow of President James A. Garfield, and her father, Daniel Morse, above referred to, is the Morse with whom Garfield spent a portion of his early life, as mentioned in the biographies of the martyred president. In 1857 his parents moved to Quincy, Ill., and before he had passed his sixteenth birthday he had acquired all the educational advantages afforded by the public and academical schools of that city. He then entered the banking establishment of L. and C. H. Bull of Quincy, in whose employ he remained four years, during which time he obtained a thorough knowledge of the banking business, with its infinite attention to details, order and caution, to which fact he attributes in a great measure his subsequent success in life. Leaving them, he came to Chicago in 1869, and entered into an insurance brokerage business, which, during the next ten years became one of the most important in the city.

He had made up his mind, however, to study law, and in 1879, through the assistance of Hon. Luther Laflin Mills, the celebrated criminal lawyer, he entered the office of Emery A. Storrs, the nationally famed orator, where he remained until he was admitted to the bar in March, 1882. He later formed a partnership with Mr. Storrs under the firm name of Storrs & Elliott, which continued until the death of the former. In 1887 he was appointed Assistant State's Attorney of Cook County under Judge Longnecker. During the five years he held this position he conducted an average of twelve hundred prosecutions a year.

In the fall of 1892 he returned to private practice, and since then he has appeared in a large number of important criminal cases.

Mr. Elliott may be said to be a self-made man and self-educated. Although not enabled to obtain a college education, he has always been a student, and especially may this be said of him in his profession. He is gifted naturally in many ways, but his success has been the result of hard work, tenacity and perseverance in whatever he set out to do. He is an orator of recognized ability and largely sought for upon occasions requiring the services of those thus favored. He has also held the position of lecturer on Legal Ethics in the Kent College of Law, Chicago. Mr. Elliott was nominated for Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Ill., by the Republican party in 1903, but with the other candidates of the party was defeated on account of the political apathy in his party.

He married, Oct. 14, 1871, at Chicago, Alwilda Caroline, dau. of James and Salome Harris of Janesville, Wis. She was b. Mar. 12, 1851.

fiftte daye of August in the yere of our Lord God, 1604.

Modern

Anno Domini 1604

John Elliott the son of Bennett Elliott was baptized the fifth day of August in the year of our Lord God, 1604.

Note

The Entry here copied is, fortunately, one of the few in the old Registers of Kidford Parish which remains clear & distinct after the lapse of 289 years

J. J. L.

Without doubt the font at which he received baptism is still to be seen at the usual entrance of the ancient church.

1. EVENTS HAVING REFERENCE TO JOHN ELIOT, DURING HIS LIFE

Chronologically arranged—necessarily incomplete

1606-1610.

The record of the baptisms of Sarah, Phillip, John and Jacob is in the Widford Register, Jacob having been baptized Sept. 21, 1606. The record of the baptisms of the other children, Lydia, Francis and Mary, is in the Register at Nazeing, that of Lydia, in 1610. It is therefore probable that the family of Bennett Eliot removed from Widford to Nazeing between 1606 and 1610.

1618.

March 20. Entered as pensioner at Jesus College, Cambridge University.

A pensioner is defined as a student who pays his expenses. In our day they are the great body of students. John Harvard, from whom Harvard University is named, was a pensioner at Emmanuel College, one of the seventeen included in Cambridge University; Jesus College, founded in 1496, being another.

1618-1622.

Nothing has been discovered in regard to Eliot during the four years he was in college, excepting this record:

"1622. Maii die xv^o Johannes Eliott (sic) habuit licentiam sibi concessam petendi gratiam ab universitate ad respondendum quaestioni spondente M^{ro} Beale". This explanation is added: Mr. Beale was his tutor, a fellow of the college. The license is equivalent to what we call a supplicat which the college gives to quaestionists "proceeding to a B.A. degree".

A quaestionist is "a man in the fourth year of residence who had not yet taken his B.A. degree."

His degree signature is in Vol. 1, Subscription Book in the Registry's office at Cambridge University. No earlier autograph of John Eliot has been found.

1621.

Nov. 5. Date of the will of his father, Bennett Eliot, in which provision is made for the maintenance of his son, John, at Cambridge University, where he is a "scholler". (See Part I.)

1622-1631.

A portion of this interval was spent at Little Baddow, Essex, England, as a school-master with the Rev. Thomas Hooker, who, from about 1626-1628 was a lecturer at Chelmsford. In 1630, Hooker went to Holland. In 1633 he arrived at Boston. After a brief settlement at Cambridge as the first minister there, he, with his congregation, removed to Hartford, Conn., where he died in 1647.

Although John's first years were seasoned with the fear of God, the word, and prayer, while living with Mr. Hooker, he received deep religious impressions. "To this place was I called through the infinite riches of God's mercy in Christ Jesus to my poor soul; for here the Lord said unto my dead soul, Live; and, through the grace of Christ, I do live, and I shall live forever. When I came to this blessed family, I then saw, and never before, the power of godliness in its lively vigor and efficacy".

Probably about the middle of August he embarked on the ship Lion for Boston. Margaret, wife of John Winthrop, with an infant daughter who died on the passage, was a passenger; and John Eliot, the only minister on the ship, must have been called upon to offer consolation to the bereaved.

Nov. 2. "The ship Lyon, William Peirce master, arrived at Natascot. There came in her the governour's wife, his eldest son, and his wife, and others of his children, and Mr. Eliot, a minister, and other families, being in all about sixty persons, who all arrived in good health, having been ten weeks at sea."

Nov. 3. "The wind being contrary, the ship stayed at Long Island . . . and the next morning, the wind coming fair, she came to anchor before Boston."

Nov. 4. "The governour, his wife and children, went on shore, with Mr. Peirce, in his ship's boat. The ship gave them six or seven pieces. At their landing, the captains, with their companies in arms, entertained them with a guard, and divers vollies of shot, and three drakes; and divers of the assistants and most of the people, of the near plantations, came to welcome them, and brought and sent, for divers days, great stores of provisions, as fat hogs, kids, venison, poultry, geese, partridges, etc., so as the like joy and manifestation of love had never been seen in New England. It was a great marvel, that so much people and such store of provisions could be gathered together at so few hours' warning"

Nov. 11. "We kept a day of thanksgiving at Boston"

"He adjoynd to the church at Boston, and there exercised in the absence of Mr. Wilson the Pastor who was gone back to England for his wife and family" 1632.

Feb. 7. "The governour, Mr. Nowell, Mr. Eliot, and others, went over Mistick River at Medford, and going N. and by E. among the rocks about two or three miles, they came to a very great pond, having in the midst an island of about one acre, and very thick with trees of pine and beech; and the pond had divers small rocks, standing up here and there in it, which they therefore called Spot Pond. They went all about it upon the ice. From thence (towards the N. W. about half a mile,) they came to the top of a very high rock, beneath which (towards the N.) lies a goodly plain, part open land, and part woody, from whence there is a fair prospect, but it being then close and rainy, they could see but a small distance. This place they called Cheese Rock, because, when they went to eat somewhat, they had only cheese, (the governour's man forgetting, for haste, to put up some bread.)"

March 6. In the list of "The names of such as desire to be made freemen are the names, at the head, of "Mr. John Eliot" and "Jacob Eliot".

Mr. Eliot writes of himself: "Mr. John Eliot; he come to N. E. in the 9^t month. 1631. . . . the next summer M^r Wilson returned, & by y^t time the church at Boston was intended to call him to office; his friends w^r come & settled at Rocksborough, to whom he was foreingaided, y^t if he were not called to office before they came, he was to join wth them, wherevpon the church at Rocksborough called him to be Teacher, in the end of y^t suñer & soone after he was ordained to y^t office in the church".

Winthrop says: "Mr. John Eliot, a member of Boston congregation, and one whom the congregation intended presently to call to the office of teacher, was called to be a teacher to the church at Roxbury; and though Boston laboured all they could, both with the congregation of Roxbury and with Mr. Eliot himself, alleging their want of him, and the covenant between them, etc., yet he could not be diverted from accepting the call of Roxbury, November 5. So he was dismissed".

Upon the return of Mr. Wilson from England, the church at Boston, Cotton Mather says, "was intending to have made Mr. Eliot his Colleague, and their Teacher; but it was thus diverted. Mr. Eliot had engaged unto a select number of his pious and Christian Friends in England, that if they should come into these Parts before he should be in the pastoral Care of any other people, he would give himself to them, and be for Their Service. It happened that these Friends transported themselves hither the year after him; and chose their Habitation at the Town which they called Roxbury. A Church being now gathered at this place, he was in a little while Ordained unto the Teaching and Ruling of that holy Society. So, 'twas in the Orb of that Church that we had him as a Star fixed for very near Threescore years; it only remains that we now observe what was his Magnitude all this while, and how he performed his Revolution".

Sept. 16. Hannah Mountford (or Mumford) probably arrived at Boston in ship Lyon with one hundred and twenty-two other passengers.

"in the 8th month m. Hanna Mumford."

Nov. 5. Ordained as teacher at Roxbury.

1633.

Sept. 17. "Hannah the daughter of Mr. John Eliot borne".

Oct. 16. The church in Roxbury and six other churches "kept a day of thanksgiving for the mercies granted to the country".

Jan. 19. "All the ministers except Mr. Ward of Ipswich, met at Boston, being requested by the governour and assistants, to consider of these two cases: 1. What we ought to do, if a general governour should be sent out of England? 2. Whether it be lawful for us to carry the cross in our banners?—In the first case, they all agreed, if a governour were sent, we ought not to accept him, but defend our lawful possessions (if we were able;) otherwise to avoid or protract. For the matter of the cross; they were divided; and so deferred it to another meeting."

Nov. 27. The Governour and his assistants were informed "how Mr. Eliot, the teacher of the church of Roxbury, had taken occasion, in a sermon, to speak of a peace made with the Pekods, and to lay some blame upon the ministry for proceeding therein, without consent of the people, and for other failings, (as he conceived). We took order, that he should be dealt with by Mr. Cotton, Mr. Hooker, and Mr. Welde, to be brought to see his errour, and to heal it by some public explanation of his meaning; for the people began to take occasion to murmur against us for it."

"The aforsaid three ministers, upon conference with the said Mr. Eliot, brought him to acknowledge his errour in that he had mistaken the ground of his doctrine, and that he did acknowledge, that, for a peace only, (whereby the people were not to be engaged in a war,) the magistrates might conclude, plebe inconsulto, and so promised to express himself in public next Lord's day."

"Thomas Hills a man servant. he came in the yeare. 1633. he lived among us in good esteeme & Godly, & dyed about the 11^t or 12^t month. 1634 and left a good savor behind him, he was a very faithfull & prudent servant, & a good christian, he dyed in Mr. Eliots family.

1635.

Probably this year, his brother, Philip, with his family, sailed from England in the Hopewell, as he was made freeman, May 25, 1636.

• 1636.

"John his first borne son, was borne in the 31 day of the 6^t month. año. 1636"

1637.

Nov. Was present at, and took part in "The examination of Mrs. Ann Hutchinson at the Court at Newtown."

At a General Court held at Newtown, "Mr John Wilson & Mr John Eliot being put to lot w^hc should go forth wth the souldiers against the Pecoits, Mr. Wilson was chosen".

1638.

"Joseph his 2^d soñe was borne in the 20th day of the 10th month. año: 1638".

1639.

March 12. Mr. Eliot, one of a committee, to consider oppression in war, "prizes of commodities" &c.

The Puritans "beheld," in the translations of the Psalms, then in use, "so many detractions from, additions to, and variations of, not only the text, but the very sense of the psalmist, that it was an offence unto them. Resolving then upon a new translation; the chief divines in the country took each of them a portion of them to be translated; among whom was Mr. Welde and Mr. Eliot of Roxbury, and Mr. Mather of Dorchester".

1640.

The Bay Psalm Book, translated by Richard Mather, Thomas Welde and John Eliot, printed.

His name, the last of eight, signed to a "Declaration of Ministers of Massachusetts"; a document of a religious character, indorsed by Gov. Winthrop "About evidence &c."

"Tho: Weld," "Tho: Sheppard," "Jo: Wilson," and others, as wel as "Jo: Eliot," signed the document.

1641.

"Samuel his 3^d soñe. was borne the 22^d day of the 4^t month. año: 1645".

John Tye, in his will, dated Sept. 10th, leaves "Mr. Eliote Teacher of Roxbury" ten trees.

Mr. Welde, pastor, went to England, leaving Mr. Eliot in sole charge of the church at Roxbury.

Rev. John Wilson of Boston writes to "Brother Weld and Eliot" in regard to "Goodman John Compton," "laborer," one of those ordered to be disarmed in 1637, and who might "have a secret reservation in his breast to hould to Mr. Wheelwrights opinions"

"7th Day of 8th mo." Appointed one of a committee to examine Mr. Samuel Hutchinson to find out whether he was "sound in judgment so that he might dwell among them".

The case of Mr. Richard Dummers, referred to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Eliot.

1642.

"He was a participant in most of the councils held at Woburn, (Mass.), notably the first one in 1642. He came on horseback through the woods from Roxbury by a blazed path and arrived here at 8 A. M. Those were heroic days. He came also to the second council in December of that same year when Rev. Thomas Carter was ordained, and he was often a traveller through your territory on his way with his friend Gookin to the Indian settlement on the Concord river."

1643.

Feb. 18. Date of a letter from the Corporation in England, signed by Wm. Steele, President, in which mention is made of complaints by Mr. Eliot to his friends in England.

In the same letter is the following:—"Wee are far from Justifying Mr. Elliott in his Turbulent and clamorous proceedings but the best of gods servants haue their faylings and as such soe wee look vpon him".

"This spring time in the year 1653, being sundry days at Pautucket, and spending a sabbath among them, there was a woman at the meeting who had a small brass image of a man about her neck, hanging by a string fastened about the neck of the image; I observed it, but thought little of it: afterwards when I thought to have gone away, my horse had run and gone homeward, as they found by his footing, whereupon I sent some one after my horse, and proposed to have gone on foot after till they met me with my horse. Many being gathered together to take leave of me, among the rest there was that woman with an image about her neck; I asked her why she wore it there; she roundly and readily answered me, I pray unto it. Why, says I, do you account that to be your god? She as readily answered me, yes. At which I marvelled, having never seen the like before at any place I ever came to, therefore declared to her, and the company about us, the greatness of the sin of idolatry. I urged the second commandment. I shewed how much idols should be demolished. I desired her to give it to me, that I might demolish it; but she refused. I offered her half a crown for it, but she was not willing. Perceiving that it was tied with a riding knot, I slipped the knot, and slipped off the image; then she swelled with anger, and cried. I presently gave her half a crown, which she took, but was not pacified. I told the company, the first pond I came to I would cast it in. When I departed, the woman girt up her loins and ran after me; when I perceived it, I asked her whither she went; she answered, whither I went, and she would not leave me so long as I had her god about me. It began to rain, which was some discouragement to my going forward; then I considered that this act of mine, in taking away and abolishing the idol, was neither so proper nor so valid as it would be if the rulers and sachems should do it—I resolved to return, and did so, and the woman after me. When I came to the wigwam, there being four sachems present which prayed to God, I desired them all to come together. Being come, I told them that seeing the rain had driven me back, God would not have me yet to go, but somewhat else is to be done about this idol and the sin of idolatry, and because the woman is not content with what I have done I do commit the matter and the idol unto you to judge. So I laid it upon the ground before them where they sat, and went to confer with the company. When they had sat about half an hour in consultation, they desired the company to come before them, which they did. They said they had agreed upon their judgments. 1st, That the act in taking away the idol was well done. 2dly, That one man should be appointed to demolish the idol, and three others for witnesses that it was done. 3dly, They adjudged the idolatress to be a great sinner, yet as it was the first time, and that she had done it ignorantly, therefore they would spare her, yet they did all one after another reprove her very solemnly. After execution was done upon the idol, one declared that he understood there were some more idols like to that, in other houses. I requested the sachems to send for those also. The officer or constable went well guarded, and presently brought a bright brass image or seraphim with his wings spread, to the sachems, who presently passed the same judgment they had done upon the former, and it was executed accordingly. I asked, how it should come to pass that there should be such idolatry here, and in no place else that I had heard of. They rendered this reason: That being the most northerly place that I resort to, some of those Indians have commerce with the Indians that are yet more northerly, who have commerce with those whom the French teach to pray to such idols, therefore they think the idols and idolatry come from them".

In regard to his work among the Indians, he writes, "I have some thoughts, if God give life and means, to read medicine and call for such roots (for they altogether use the root and not the herb) as they have experience of, especially had I werewith to recompense any that bring in a desirable experiment.

There hath been a rare work of God this summer in a great pond at Watertown, where all the fish died, and were not willing to die in the waters, but as many as could, thrust themselves on shore, and there died; not less than twenty cart loads, by estimation lying dead, all at once, round about the pond. An eel was found alive on the sandy border of the pond and being cast into the water, she wriggled out again, as fast as she could, and died on the shore. An inhabitant of the town, living by the pond, his cattle used daily to drink there, but then for three days together, they refused there to drink, but after three days they drank of the pond as they were wont to do. When the fish began to come ashore, before they died, many were taken and eaten, both by English and Indians without any hurt and the fish were good.

Now the disease of the stone groweth frequently among the English, and beginneth among the Indians; which stirreth me to search, and I clearly find, that a crude stomach provides the matter and cold in and about the bladder and ureters is the efficient cause of the stone, especially in those, whom I have conversed with, as may be demonstrated. But I am over bold to presume to meddle so far unto your honor."

Nov. 30. Date of a letter to "worthy Mr. Ashurst," Treasurer, in regard to Indian affairs.

This year Philip's war began, waged for the purpose of exterminating the whites.

"Month 4^t 11th day Soone after the warr wth the Indians brake forth, the history w^off I cañot, I may not relate, the prophane Indians p^rve a sharp rod to the English, & the English p^rve a very sharp rod to the praying Indians"

24th of the 5th. Date of a letter to John Winthrop jr. in regard to various matters relating to the Indians.

Aug. 13. Sends "a petition to the General Court, against selling Indians for slaves".

An Indian prisoner, sold as a slave in Boston, and sent to Jamaica, was through the intercession of Mr. Eliot, brought back. The wife and two children of this prisoner, captives, were by him redeemed.

Eliot and Gookin defended at Boston a number of Christian Indians who were accused of the murder of several persons at Lancaster.

Oct. 29. Eliot met about two hundred Indians, men, women and children, at a place called The Pines, on Charles river two miles above Cambridge. They had been taken from Natick, and on the 30th of October were transported to Deer Island.

Towards the end of December, Gookin, Eliot and others visited the Indians at Deer Island several times—about five hundred having been collected there from various places.

In the autumn of 1675, Eliot and Gookin were sent to urge the sachem Wannalamcet, who had fled in fear from his residence, to return.

In Dec. Eliot, with Captain Gookin, visited a company of Indians at Concord.

Major Gookin, Major Willard, and Mr. Eliot went as a Committee appointed by "the Council at Boston" to Chelmsford and other places to encourage and quiet the Indians.

Dec. 17. Date of a letter to Robert Boyle, in which these facts, and others of great interest, are related.

Joseph Tuckapawillin, minister and pastor of the church at Hassanamesit, was visited by Eliot (his spiritual father in Christ) "and spoke divers words of comfort to him suitable to his condition".

In the will of Thomas Waterman of Roxbury, who died Jan. 22, 1675, there is a bequest to "Mrs. John Eliot." In the will of his second wife, Margaret, dated May 19, 1670, probated "27 (12) 1682," there are bequests to "the Indian Church at Nonantum", to Messrs Eliot and Danforth".

Ap. 7. While on their way to Long Island in Boston harbor, "to order matters for the Indians", the boat, in the stern of which the company were sitting, was run into by a great boat. Mr. Eliot "so sunke y^t" he "drank in salt water twice and could not help it". "some thanked God & some wished we had bene drowned. Soon after, one y^t wished we had bene drowned was himselfe drowned about the same place w^t we w^tso wonderfully delivered"

June 14. "I was at the Court, called to be there".

June 15. "I visited the p^rsoners"—probably "Captain Tom Indian and Jⁿo Oldtuck, Indian enemys who were subsequently hung"

June 21. Visited the prisoners and afterwards interceded in vain for Capt. Tom. "The Govenor did exp^resse how bad a man Tom was. I told him, y^t at the great day he should find y^t Christ was of anoth^r mind, or words to y^t purpose, so I dep^ted".

June 22. "I accompany^d him to his death".

Some of the Indians, who had been at Deer Island, settled at Nonantum, where Mr. Eliot preached to them once a fortnight. He also lectured to another company of Indians near Brush Hill in Milton.

"So soone as we condescended to impr^ve o^r praying Indians in the warr, frō y^t day forward we always p^rsp^d untill God pleased to teare the rod in peeces, p^rly by conquest, p^rly by theire sicknesse & death, & hath brought us peace, praised be his name. But no sooner was y^t rod broken, p^resently the North-eastern war broke forth".

Jan. 11. Date of a letter from John Eliot and others to the churches in Dublin, in which they acknowledge the receipt of contributions.

"month 2. The Indian war now about to finish, wherein the praying Indians had so eminent an interest in the recording whereoff I thought not my selfe so fitting. I desisted frō this work of recording p^rticular matters & knowing y^t it was comⁱted to oth^rs I declined it, but now, on 2^d thought I blame my selfe for it, Lord p^rdon my many omissions. the successe of o^r Indians was highly accepted wth the souldiers, & y^ei now welcomed where ev^r y^ei met y^m y^ei had y^m to the ordinarys, made y^m drink, & bred y^rby such an habit to love strong drink, y^t it p^rved an horrible snare unto us. y^ei learned so to love strong drink y^t y^ei would spend all y^r wages, & pawne any thing they had for rumb or any strong drink; so drunkenesse increased & quarreling & fighting were the sad effects of strong drink. Praying to God was quenched, the younger generation being debauched by it, and the good old generation of the first beginners gathered home by death. So y^t Satan imp'ved y^s op'tunity to defile, debase, & bring into contempt the whole work of praying to God. a great apostacy defiled us. And yet through grace some stood & doe stand, and the work is on foot to this day, praised be the Lord. when the Indians were hurried away to an Iland at half an hou^rs warning, pore souls in terror y^{ei} left their goods, books, bibles, only some few caryed y^r bibles, the rest were spoyled & lost. So y^t wⁿ the wares w^r finished, & y^{ei} returned to y^r places y^{ei} w^r greatly impov'ished, but y^{ei} especially bewailed y^r want of Bibles, y^s made me meditate upon a 2^d imp^rssion of o'Bible, & accordingly tooke pains to revise the first edition. I also intreated m^r John Cotton to help in y^t work, he having obtained some ability so to doe. he read over the whole bible, & whatever doubts he had, he writ them down in order, & gave y^m to me, to try y^m & file y^m over among o^r Indians. I obtained the favor to reprint the New testam^t, & psalms, but I met wth much obstruction for reprinting the old testam^t, yet by prayre to God, Patience & intreatye, I at last obtained y^t also, praised be the Lord."

In this year probably Eliot writes a letter, attesting the correctness of Gookin's "Historical account of the Doings and Sufferings of the Christian Indians in New England in the years 1675, 1676, 1677" &c.

This year, John Watson, sen. and Henry Prentiss resided among the Praying Indians at Natick "for about twelve weeks," and testified that they "behaved themselves both religiously towards God, and respectively, obediently, and faithfully to the English" &c.

Oct. 23, 1677. Date of a letter to Robert Boyle, in which he mentions, in most grateful language, the support which the Indians had received from the "Right Honorable nursing fathers" in England. He goes on to say:—"In our first war with the Indians, God pleased to show us the vanity of our military skill, in managing our arms, after the European mode. Now we are glad to learn the skulking way of war. And what God's end is, in teaching us such a way of discipline, I know not."

June 27. In the English Manuscripts at Albany, N. Y., vol. xxvii, p. 140, is a letter from Cap^t. Salisbury to Capt.

Brockholls in which is the account of the arrival at Albany of a party of Mohawks, with twenty two Natick Indians, taken near Sudbury, Mass., one of whom brought a copy of Eliot's Indian Bible.

June 21. 1683. In his letter to Robert Boyle, he is most anxious for the publication of the whole Bible. "My age makes me importunate. I shall depart joyfully, may I but leave the Bible among them; for it is the word of life; and there be some godly souls that live thereby".

July 29. "The first Ind ordeyned Minest was Daniel of Natick".

Nov. 27, 1683. Date of letter to "Right Honorable, right charitable, indefatigable, nursing father," Robert Boyle. He apologizes for the urgent haste to have the Bible printed. "I am deep in years, and sundry say, if I do not procure it printed while I live, it is not within the prospect of human reason, whether ever, or when, or how it may be accomplished".

He makes a request of Mr. Boyle to do what he could to restore to their native land some Indians at Tangier who had been sold for slaves. "If the Lord shall please to move your charitable heart herein, I shall be obliged in great thankfulness, and am persuaded, that Christ will at the great day, reckon it among your deeds of charity done unto them for his name's sake".

Ap. 22, 1684. In a letter of this date, he is most thankful for "This last gift of four hundred pounds for the reimpression of the Indian Bible". It "doth set a diadem of beauty upon all your former acts of pious charity". He then dwells at considerable length upon the work among the Indians, their manner of worship, and the localities of the Indian Praying towns.

3. PUBLICATIONS OF JOHN' ELIOT, INCLUDING TRACTS.

Roxbury Church Records. Largely, though not exclusively, the work of John Eliot. They are entitled:—"A recorde of such as adjoynd themselves vnto the fellowship of this Church of Christ at Roxborough: as also of such children as they had when they joynd, & of such as were borne vnto them vnder the holy Covenant of this Church, who are pperly the seede of this Church".

In 1850, the principal part of them was published by J. Wingate Thornton in a Roxbury, Mass., newspaper. Fifty copies thereof were issued in book-form. In 1879-1881, they were printed with notes by Wm. B. Trask in the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register of Boston.

They were printed for the third time, and to a greater extent, in "A Report of the Record Commissioners containing the Roxbury land and church records".—"City Document. No. 114". Boston: . . 1881.

These records are not restricted to religious matters, but many secular events are recorded.

"The Whole Booke of Psalmes Faithfully translated into English Metre", generally known as the "Bay Psalm Book"—the first book printed in the Anglo-American colonies, 1640.

As the Puritans were not satisfied with the version of the Psalms in use in their day, they authorized another translation, adhering more closely to the Hebrew original. To Richard Mather, Thomas Welde and John Eliot this duty was assigned. Their verses have been characterized as "hopelessly unpoetical". But, with some modifications, they were generally used in New England for more than a century, and they were extensively adopted in England and Scotland. Edition after edition, one writer says to the number of seventy, was published. Few, less than half a dozen copies of the first edition, can be found. There is one in the Lenox Library, New York City, and two copies in the Boston Public Library. Some years ago, a copy at auction in New York City fetched $1,200. An amount much larger would now be paid should a copy be offered for sale.

The Indians sang from a translation into their language, and Cotton Mather says their singing was "most ravishing".

About seventy-one copies were reprinted in New York City in 1862. Occasionally one of these is offered for sale. Price, from $30 upwards.

Catechisms and Primers in the Mass. Indian language. The first was printed in 1653-4, of which there was a second impression in 1662. In 1687 an Indian primer was printed in Cambridge, Mass., as doubtless the preceding and succeeding editions were. "It seems that Mr. Eliot translated several catechisms into the Indian language". In 1669, "The INDIAN PRIMER; or The way of training up of our Indian youth in the good knowledge of God, in the knowledge of the Scriptures and in an ability to Reade. Composed by J. E."

Besides the elementary contents usual in primers, this contains the Lord's Prayer; "the ancient creed", now known as the Apostles' Creed; the Larger and Shorter Catechisms; and other matter. The only copy is in the library of the University of Edinburgh. It was reprinted in 1877, and again in 1880. In the edition of 1880, a fac-simile of "The Indian Covenanting Confession" is prefixed—a broad-side, printed probably about 1660, in two columns, one in Indian, and the other in English. Copies of these reprints are occasionally offered for sale.

All the copies of 1653-4. of 1662, and probably of 1687, have disappeared.

Sometime between 1663 and 1675, the Assembly's shorter catechism was printed, of which a copy does not remain.

The six principles of religion by the Rev. William Perkins was translated into the Indian language, but it is not certain that it was printed.

INDIAN TESTAMENTS AND BIBLES.

In 1655, Genesis; in 1665, Matthew; in 1658, a few psalms in metre; in 1663, the psalter or book of psalms; in the same year, a "Complete translation of the metrical psalms (all the singing songs of David)" were separately printed, but there are no copies to attest the fact.

In 1661, the New Testament was printed. A copy was sent to King Charles II., as was the whole Bible when completed. Copies are accessible in the Lenox Library, New York City, and in the Boston Public Library. They have brought various prices, and the value of a perfect copy may be about $500.

In 1663, the Holy Bible, containing the Old Testament, and the New; all the singing songs of David; and the leaf of Rules for holy living, sometimes called the Catechism, was issued. This is known as the first edition. The most valuable copy is that presented by the translator to Jesus College, Cambridge University, England. On the fly-sheet at the beginning, he wrote, apparently not without one or two slips and corrections in his Latinity:—

Pro Collegio Jesu,

"Accipias mater quod alumnus humillimus offert

Filius, oro preces semper, habere tuas."

Johannes Eliot.

Which, translated freely in English may read, For Jesus College. As one of her humblest sons, he asks his Alma Mater to accept this gift which he offers, and he entreats that he may always have her prayers. John Eliot.

A copy of this edition, sent to "Dame Mary Armyne," is said to have cost its present owner about $3,000.

In 1680, a second edition of the New Testament was printed, and the Bible was completed in 1685. Copies of this are more numerous and less costly than those of the first edition.

The largest collection of Indian Bibles and Testaments, embracing every variety, is in the Lenox Library, New York City. The whole number of copies of Indian Testaments and Bibles, at present known, exceeds one hundred and twenty-five. Many of these are more or less imperfect.

Two copies of the Indian Bible are owned by descendants of John Eliot; one, a valuable copy of the first edition, by Mrs. Laura Eliot Cutter of Brooklyn, N. Y.; the other, which was owned and has the autograph of the Indian preacher who was the last to preach in the aboriginal tongue, by Ellsworth Eliot, M.D., New York City.

TRANSLATION OF OTHER WORKS.

The first edition of the translation of Richard Baxter's Call to the Unconverted was printed in 1664. No copy known. It was reprinted in 1688. Yale University has a copy of this edition, for which $135 was paid in 1879.

There are two editions of Bishop Lewis Bayly's Practice of Piety, somewhat abridged, one in 1665, and one in 1685. A copy of the first edition was bought by Yale University for $205.

The sincere convert by Thomas Shepard, "turned into Indian language" by John Eliot, "a little amended by Grindal Rawson," was printed in 1689. It was the last of Eliot's translations. Copies may be seen in the Lenox Library and in the library of Yale University.

OTHER PUBLICATIONS.

"A breife topographicall description of the Seuerall Townes in New England with the names of our magistrates and Ministers". This article is not dated, but there is reason to believe that it was written in 1650.

It is printed in "American Presbyterianism", pp. xxx-xxxv. appendix: also it has been printed separately under the editorship of Dr. Samuel A. Green.

The Christian Commonwealth: or The Civil Policy of The Rising Kingdom of Jesus Christ. Written Before the Interruption of the Government, by Mr. John Eliot, Teacher &c. at Roxbury in New-England. Probably, in 1659.

Very few copies of this book can be found, as the General Court of Massachusetts ordered that all should be "cancelled and defaced".

Reprinted in Massachusetts Historical Society's Collections. 3d Series, vol. 9, p. 127 et seq.

Communion of Churches: or, The Divine Management of Gospel-Churches by the Ordinance of Councils, Constituted in Order according to the Scriptures, . . . 1665.

"The first privately-printed American book". Two copies known to exist, one in the Lenox Library, New York City.

"The Indian Grammar begun: or, An Essay to bring the Indian Language into rules, For the Help of such as desire to Learn the same, or the furtherance of the Gospel among them. By John Eliot".

At the end of the grammar, Mr. Eliot writes:—"I have now finished what I shall do at present; And in a word or two to satisfie the prudent Enquirer how I found out these new wayes of Grammar, which no other Learned Language (so farre as I know) useth; I thus inform him: God first put into my heart a compassion over their poor Souls, and a desire to teach them to know Christ, and to bring them into his Kingdome. Then presently I found out (by God's wise providence) a pregnant witted young man, who had been a Servant in an English house, who pretty well understood our Language, better than he could speak it, and well understood his own Language, and hath a clear pronounciation: Him I made my Interpreter. By his help I translated the Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, and many Texts of Scripture; also I compiled both Exhortations and Prayers by his help. I diligently marked the difference of their Grammar from ours: When I found the way of them, I would pursue a Word, a Noun, a Verb, through all variations I could think of. And thus I came at it. We must not sit still and look for Miracles: Up and be doing, and the Lord will be with thee. Prayer and Pains, through Faith in Christ Jesus, will do any thing".

There is a copy in the Lenox Library, New York City. The book was reprinted in 1822 in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, vol. ix, with notes and observations by Dr. John Pickering: also by Peter S. DuPonceau: also by the editor. This reprint was issued separately, with small additions.

It was again reprinted in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, vol. 9 (second edition).

A brief narrative of the "Progress of the Gospel amongst the Indians of New England in the year 1670. Given in by the Reverend Mr. John Eliot, Minister of the Gospel there . . . London, 1671.

Very rare. It was reprinted in Boston in 1868; and as one of the "Old South Leaflets", Second Series, 1890, No. 3. It is one of the "Eliot Tracts".

Indian Dialogues. In English, intended for the use of native Indian teachers and ministers "for their Instruction in that great service of Christ, in calling home their Country-men to the knowledge of God, and of themselves, and of Jesus Christ", 1671. The only copy known is in the Lenox Library, New York City.

The Logick Primer. In Indian. A part has an interlinear translation. "Some Logical Notions to initiate the Indians in the Knowledge of the Rule of Reason . . . especially for the Instruction of such as are Teachers among them. Composed by J. E. for the use of the Praying Indians . . . 1672".

Only copy in the Library of the British Museum, London. A few photographic copies have been made.

The Harmony of the Gospels . . . 1678.

Copy in the Library of the Congregational Association, Boston, Mass., and also in the Library of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

"A Brief Answer To a Small Book written by John Norcot against Infant-Baptisme".

Only copy in the Lenox Library, New York City.

"Dying Speeches of Several Indians, 168—". In the Lenox Library, New York City. A small tract.

Printed (perhaps in full) in "The Sabbath at Home". Vol. 2, p. 333 et seq.

Printed (perhaps in full) in Turner's Remarkable Providences. London 1687, pp. 92-4.

Printed (perhaps in full) in "John Dunton's Letters from New England" pp. 233-241.

Cotton Mather mentions "one of the little papers which he published for" children.

In addition to the foregoing, there is a record of not less than fifty-nine letters, thirteen miscellaneous articles, and seventy petitions, and miscellaneous articles which cannot be easily enumerated. They are printed in books, historical collections, magazines, etc., etc.

ELIOT TRACTS.

A series of narratives, eleven in number, issued in quarto shape, in which are related the efforts to Christianize the Indians. They contain numerous letters from John Eliot. They have been much sought after by collectors. At present, it would be wellnigh impossible to obtain all at any price. There is a complete set in the Lenox Library, New York City.

1. New England's First Fruits in respect . . . of the Indians.
2. The Day-Breaking if not the Sun-Rising of the Gospel with the Indians in New England.
3. The Clear Sun-shine of the Gospel breaking forth upon the Indians of New England.
4. The Glorious Progress of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England
5. The Light appearing . . . or A further Discovery of the present state of the Indians.
6. Strength out of Weakness Or a Glorious Manifestation Of the further Progresse of the Gospel among the Indians in New England.
7. Tears of Repentance Or a further Narrative of the Progress of the Gospel Amongst the Indians in New England
8. A Late and further manifestation of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England.
9. A Further Accompt of the Progresse of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England.
10. A further Account of the progress of the Gospel Amongst the Indians in New England.
11. A Brief Narrative of the Progress of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England.

The last is noticed under a previous heading, "Other Publications."

All have been reprinted, excepting No. 10, by the Massachusetts Historical Society, Joseph Sabin, and others.

4. LIVES OF JOHN' ELIOT.

The Triumphs of the Reformed Religion in America. Bigelow's history of the town of Natick.

Nonantum and Natick. By Sarah S. Jacobs. This book is also printed with the title: The White Oak and its Neighbors.

Cowley's Memories of the Indians and Pioneers of the region of Lowell.

Early Bibles of America. By Rev. John Wright, D.D.

Trumbull's Origin and Early Progress of Indian Missions in New England.

In addition to the above, biographical sketches, without number, have appeared in books, magazines, pamphlets, addresses, histories, historical collections, tracts, and sermons. It is doubtful whether any emigrant from the old world has had so many to sound his praises as the "Apostle to the Indians."

5. EXTRACTS RELATING TO HANNAH MUMFORD.

"His whole Conversation with her had that sweetness and that gravity and modesty beautifying of it that everyone called them Zachary and Elizabeth.—Cotton Mather's Life, page 51.

This Wife of his youth lived with him until she became to him the staff of his Age; and she left him not until three or four years before his own Departure to those Heavenly Regions, where they now together see Light. She was a Woman very Eminent, both for Holiness and Usefulness, and she excelled most of the Daughters that have done virtuously. Her Name was Ann, and Gracious was her Nature. God made her a Rich Blessing, not only to her Family, but also to her Neighbourhood; and when at last she dyed, I heard and saw her aged Husband, who else very rarely wept, yet now with Tears over the Coffin, before the good people, a vast confluence of which were come to her Funeral, say, "Here lies my dear, faithful, pious, prudent, prayerful Wife; I shall go to her, and she not return to me." My Reader will of his own accord excuse me, from bestowing any further Epitaphs upon that gracious woman.—Cotton Mather, 6 and 7.

It was an extreme Satisfaction to him, that his Wife had attained to a considerable skill in Physick and Chirurgery, which enabled her to dispense many safe, good, and useful Medicines unto the Poor that had occasion for them; and some hundreds of sick & weak and maimed people owed praises to God, for the Benefit which therein they freely received of her. The good Gentleman, her Husband would still be casting Oyl into the Flame of that Charity, wherein she was of her own accord abundantly forward thus to be doing of good unto all; and he would urge her to be serviceable unto the worst Enemies that he had in the world. Never had any man fewer Enemies than he! But once having delivered something in his Ministry, which displeased one of his Hearers, the man did passionately abuse him for it, and this both with Specches and Writings that reviled him. Yet it happened not long after, that this man gave himself a very dangerous Wound. Mr Eliot immediately sends his Wife to cure him; who did accordingly. When the man was well he came to thank her; but she took no Rewards; and this Good man made him stay and eat with him, taking no notice of all the Calumnies with which he had loaded him; but by this Carriage he strangely mollified and conquered the Stomach of his Reviler.—C. M., pp. 38 and 39.

The skill of our ancestress, Hanna Mumford Eliot, in the healing art, is evident from her directions in regard to the treatment of "Rickitts". They were taken from a manuscript volume of Miss Esther Bernon Carpenter, deceased, of Wakefield, R. I., and they were originally copied from a manuscript volume belonging to John², son of the "Apostle."

Take an oxe gall, a like quantity of fresh butter, mingle them, and boyle them together with wormwood, rue, featherfew of each a like quantity, as much as the sd leekquor will containe, over a gentle fire, for the space of three or four hours, straine it, and keepe it for yo'r use. With this anyont the child all down the brest, and cross the short ribbs bathing well against the fire: this do every night for a month together, in the spring, as soon as the said herbs may be had, in the mean time frequently give the child water wherein a handful of currants have been boyled.

The son John^s adds:—"This is my mother's probatim est, wch she hath cured many with, and it seldom faileth"

No wonder that her body was the first to be admitted to the Tomb, built for the interment of the Roxbury Ministers, now called "The Parish Tomb"; "for the great service she had done for the town".

March 28, 1687. Judge Sewall writes in his Diary, "Went to Mrs. Eliots Funeral, which was a very great one"; She d. March 22nd.—Sewall Papers, vol. 1, p. 171.

"In y^s year [1687] my ancient dearly beloved wife dyed. I was sick to death, but the Lord was pleased to delay me, & keep in my service w^h was but pure [poor] and weak"

It could not be said of him, That he sought great things for himself; but what estate he became owner of, was from the Blessing of God upon the Husbandry and Industry of some in his Family, rather than from any endeavours of his own. Once when there stood several Kine of his own before his door, his Wife, to try him, asked him, Whose they were? and she found that he knew nothing of them. He could not endure to plunge himself into secular Designs and Affairs,—C. M., pp. 31, 32.

6. MEMORIALS OF THE APOSTLE.

1. John Eliot Memorial Prize and Scholarship Fund. It seems peculiarly appropriate that an Eliot Prize Fund to encourage the study of the Hebrew language should be offered in Jesus College, Cambridge, by the descendants of John Eliot when we consider these words of his, as reported by Cotton Mather :

"Oh that the Lord would put it (says he) into the heart of some of his Religious and Learned Servants to take such pains about the Hebrew Language as to fit it for Universal Use! Considering that above all other Languages spoken by the lips of Man it is most capable to be enlarged and fitted to express all things and notions that our human intellect is capable of in this mortal life; considering also that it is the Invention of God himself and what one is fitter to be the Universal Language than that which it pleased our Lord Jesus to make use of when he spake from Heaven unto Paul.—C. M. Life of Eliot, page 50.

The Rev. Edward Otter, formerly Fellow, gave the dividend of one year's Fellowship which increased by the College forms a Divinity and Hebrew prize of about £18, open every two years to Bachelors of Jesus College, Cambridge, England.

The Eliot Prize Fund, inaugurated by Ellsworth Eliot of New York and contributed to by a number of his descendants in the United States of America, was begun in 1898 and completed in 1904. It is open for competition in alternate years with the other prize, its value and the conditions of examination being the same.

The original circular is as follows :

The John Eliot Memorial Prize and Scholarship Funds, Jesus College, Cambridge University, England.

John Eliot, "The Apostle to the Indians," entered this College, March 20, 1618, and proceeded to the degree of A. B. in 1622.

In the will of his father, Bennet Eliot, made November 5, 1621—recorded in the Commissary Court of London, Register for 1621-1626, Folio 85, B.; and printed in "The Heraldic Journal, recording the Armorial Bearings and Genealogies of American Families, Vol. IV., Boston, 1868," pp. 182-186—is: "And first I give and bequeath all the rents and profitts of all my copy and customary lands and Tenements wth theire appertenncs lyeinge and beinge in the sevall p^{ishes} of Ware, Widford, Hunsdon and Estweeke in the County of Hartford unto my Trusty and welbeloved friends William Curtis my sonne in lawe, Nicolas Camp the younger and John Keyes all of the sayde parishe of Nasinge for the space of eight yeares from the time of my decease quarterly to pay unto my sonne John Elliott the some of eight pounds a yeare of lawfull money of England for and towards the maintenance in the univ'sity of Cambridge where he is a Scholler."

That John Eliot had a most tender regard for his Alma Mater is evident from the fact that he presented to her a copy of the first edition of his Indian Bible, now the most valuable in existence. (See page 259 for the dedication as he wrote it.)

It seems eminently proper that there should be a perpetual Memorial of "The Apostle to the Indians" in this venerable Institution of learning, where were probably laid, in a large degree, during a residence of several years, the foundations of his learning and piety.

I. It is proposed to establish, at Jesus College, Cambridge University, England, a "John Eliot Memorial Prize Fund" of £250, the interest upon which shall be used to encourage superior knowledge of the Hebrew language, for which "The Apostle to the Indians" had great reverence.

II. It is also proposed to establish in the same College a "John Eliot Memorial Scholarship Fund," the interest upon which, when sufficient, shall be used for a superior scholar in all the studies leading to the degree of A. B.

III. The Master and Fellows of Jesus College shall establish such rules and regulations as they think necessary and desirable for the proper management of these Funds, and for the award of the Prize and Scholarship.

IV. In electing a John Eliot Scholar, preference shall be given, cæteris paribus, to a native of the County of Hertford (in which John Eliot was baptized at Widford); or of Essex (in which his family lived a number of years at Nazeing); or of one of the six States of New England (where his active life was spent).

The Master and Fellows of Jesus College are prepared to allow the name of John Eliot, of whom they are justly proud, to be perpetuated in this manner.

Contributions may be sent to the Rev. James De Normandie, D.D., Roxbury, Mass., the present successor of John Eliot in the first Church there; to Frederic B Elliott, President of the Hudson River Bank, Columbus Avenue, New York, N. Y.; to Ellsworth Eliot, M.D., 48 West 36th Street, New York, N. Y.; to the Rev. John Travis Lockwood, Widford Rectory, Ware, Hertfordshire, England; and to the Rev. F. J. Foakes-Jackson, Jesus College, Cambridge University, England.

48 West 36th Street, New York, N. Y.

October 17, 1898.

2. In Canton, Mass., there is a granite Watering Trough, high enough for horses to drink from unchecked, with this inscription:—"Erected in memory of the labors of the Apostle Eliot among the Indians at Ponkapoag, 1650-1690".

3. The Parish Tomb, in the burial ground, corner of Washington and Eustis Streets, Roxbury, Mass., is about three feet high. Upon its walls of blocks of sandstone rest a white marble slab, inscribed with the names of the ministers of the first church from John Eliot, who died in 1690, to Eliphalet Porter, who died in 1833.

4. The Eliot Memorial Terrace at Newton, Mass., has this inscription:—Here at Nonantum, October 28, 1646, in Waban's wigwam, near this spot, John Eliot began to preach the Gospel to the Indians. Here was founded the first Christian community of Indians within the English Colonies.

The dates 1646 and 1879 (the year of erection) and the names, Heath, Shepard, Gookin and Waban, who are supposed to have been at the meeting, are upon the terrace.

5. There is also at Newton an "Eliot Memorial Fund," the interest upon which is used to stimulate the pupils in the public schools of Newton to study American history, especially the early history of Massachusetts.

6. At South Natick, Mass., there is a monument of New Jersey freestone, obelisk in form and about fifteen feet high, on the site of the Indian burial ground. On one of its sides is the inscription

John Eliot
Apostle to the Indians
Born 1604
Died 20 May 1690.

On another side is an open Bible, carved, and on one of its pages is

Up Biblum God
1663

7. Four tablets are affixed to the Congregational House, Boston, Mass. One of these, signifying philanthropy, is a representation of John Eliot preaching to the Indians.

8. The Chancel window in the Church of St. John Baptist, Widford, Hertfordshire, England, is a Memorial to John Eliot, the inscription being:—To the Glory of God, and in pious memory of John Eliot, A.B. Cantab, called "The Apostle to the Indians," who was baptized in this Parish, Aug. 5, 1604:

Emigrated to New England, 1631: died in Roxbury, Massachusetts, May 21, 1690. The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance. Erected by his descendants 1894.

The following circular was the beginning of this admirable memorial:

To the descendants of John Eliot, "Apostle to the Indians."

The early years of our ancestors were passed in Widford, County of Hertford; in Nazeing, County of Essex; at Little Baddow in the same county, and at Jesus College, Cambridge University.

In the Parish Register of the Church of St. John Baptist at Widford, his baptism is thus recorded: John Elliott the sonne of Bennett Elliott was baptized the fyfte daye of Auguste in the yeare of o^r Lord God, 1604.

The baptism of his sister Sarah in 1599, his brother Phillip in 1602, and his brother Jacob in 1606 are also recorded in this Parish Register.

Among the marriages is this: Bennett Eliot and Letteye Aggar were married the 30th of October, 1598.

Subsequently to 1606 and prior to 1610 the family doubtless removed to Nazeing, as in the Parish Register of the Church of All Saints in that Parish are recorded the baptisms of Lydia in 1610, of Francis in 1615, and of Mary in 1620. The Register also shows that in the churchyard there are the graves, unmarked and unknown, of Letteye Eliot, who died in 1620, and Bennet Eliot, who died in 1621—the father and mother of our apostolic ancestor.

In the library of Jesus College, Cambridge University, is a copy of the Indian Bible presented by John Eliot, as his inscription on the fly-sheet shows. This priceless volume has been but recently discovered.

Widford is about twenty-five miles north from London, and four and one-half miles east from Ware. It contains about 500 inhabitants, and probably presents about the same appearance as when our ancestor was born there. The Church of St. John Baptist is an ancient structure, built, no one can tell when and how. Parts of it are probably about 800 years old, dating from the days of the Normans. Venerable in appearance, it looks as if it had stood for ages and would continue for centuries undilapidated. Archbishop Richard Whately and our ancestor, as well, were baptized at the stately font which stands just within the entrance of the church. Charles Lamb was a frequent worshipper there, and his beautiful verses, in which he refers to the grave of his grandmother in its churchyard as have brought, and will continue to bring, many pilgrims to this delightful locality. The tower of the church, built at a later date than the main building, but still not far from 500 years old, contains a peal of six bells of exceptional sweetness and purity. Some of them are of great antiquity, to which John Eliot must have listened. Their melodious ringing on a clear Sunday morning once heard can never be forgotten.

"On the green hill-top Hard by the house of prayer, a modest roof,"

Through the kindness of the Rector, the Rev. John Traviss Lockwood, arrangements have been made to erect a stained-glass window to the memory of our ancestor. Mr. Lockwood has kindly consented that the chancel window, the most desirable one in the church, may be used for this purpose. Messrs. Burlinson & Grylls, 23 Newman Street, London, are preparing a design, a copy of which will soon be received. It will be an appropriate and beautiful memorial. The Rector of the church is thoroughly acquainted with this kind of work, and will give it his unremitting attention. The inscription will be: To the Glory of God and in Pious Remembrance of John Eliot, A.B., Cantab.,* called "The Apostle to the Indians," who was Baptized in this Church, Aug. 5, 1604; Emigrated to New England A.D. 1631; and Died in Roxbury, Massachusetts, May 21, 1690. This window was erected by his descendants A.D. 1893 (or 1894). "The Righteous shall be in Everlasting Remembrance."

The object of this circular is to ask contributions of $1 and upwards from every one who claims descent from John Eliot, and from those who have married descendants. There are a few who will pay the entire amount, if necessary. As some are unable, and others may be indifferent, large contributions must be made by others to meet the expenses, which will be about $1,000. It is suggested that contributions be made, by those who are able and willing, in the names of deceased members of the family, or in behalf of those too poor to contribute, so as to make the number of contributors, directly or indirectly, as numerous as possible.

Contributions sent to E. Eliot, 48 West 36th Street, New York, N. Y., will be promptly acknowledged.

It will give me pleasure to show a large number of maps and photographs of churches and places identified with the life of John Eliot in England to any who may desire to see them.

When the work shall have been finished there will be a dedicatory service. This may take place early next spring. Then, or at any other time, descendants of John Eliot will have a cordial welcome at the church, rectory, and village of Widford, in Hertfordshire, England.

ELLSWORTH ELIOT.

48 WEST 36TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

September 25, 1893.

9. A Memorial Window, made by the Tiffany Glass Company, New York City, from a design by F. D. Millet, was placed in Memorial Hall, Harvard College, in 1889. It is described as "a well designed and richly colored picture of Eliot presenting the Gospel to the Indians".

* Cantab., in the inscription, is the usual abbreviation of Cantabrigia, the Latin of Cambridge.

10. Memorial to John Eliot at Tucson, Arizona, by Laura Eliot Cutter. [See illustration in this volume.]

"The Pumping Plant is the property of the Indian Training School at Tucson, Arizona. It is the only means of irrigating our forty-five acre ranch, which is situated one mile west of the School. Our School is for the Pima and Papago Indians and these tribes alone are benefited by this plant. Its use so far has been confined entirely to the School lands.

Water rights, which we had from the river ditch, were partly taken away from us some years ago. Last year we would have had no crop had it not been for this pump plant, for all the water was taken away from us. The want of rains in this climate makes irrigation an absolute necessity for vegetation. The inscription for the plant is cut in native marble, taken from a mountain about twenty miles southwest of Tucson. The stone stands outside of the Well building at the southeast corner."

[A portion of a letter written by the Superintendent of the Training School.]

Churches, halls, public squares, streets, various institutions, and other Memorials without number bear the name of Eliot in recognition of his praiseworthy character.

9. THE SURNAME ELIOT, AND ITS CORRECT SPELLING.

Much has been written in regard to the origin of surnames in modern history, that of Eliot included. They were introduced to designate occupation, estate, place of residence, or some particular thing or event related to the person. One writer says Eliot is of doubtful origin. Another says it signifies the son of Elias. It has abounded in the north of England and the Scottish border from an early date. It was first brought to the new world by John Eliot and his brother Jacob. By the Apostle it was spelled Eliot, and it was so continued for three generations. The number of changes that have been made in later generations is surprising.

The following after-dinner lines, composed by Mrs. W. H. Eliot Emerson, were read at the family dinner at South Natick, and is here printed by request :

THE NAME OF ELIOT.

I have a little tale to tell—
Perhaps 'tis new to you as well;
It dates as far back as man's woes
When the tower of Babel rose!

It seems the letters got so mixed—
After that high brick wall was fixed,—
They joined themselves in pure affright
For fear they'd lose themselves outright.

Three vowels, a liquid and a t,
Clung together for company;
The i was thin, the o was round,
E had a good strong base 'twas found,

So it took the lead and liquid L
Followed the E and loved it well—
While sharp thin I and fat round O
Were followed by T, who was shy and slow.

And many have borne this curious name
Since Babel first was known to fame,
And some have tinkered, and many have tried
To make it different—more long—or wide.

They have doubled the l
 "To make it swell,"
 They have added a t
 "To be odd, you see."
 Some have put in a "y"
 In the place of i—
 But still it spells
 "E-l-i-o-t."

Now, kinsmen and kinswomen here to-day,
 I've an axe to grind and a chip to lay.
 Why not scratch out one l and banish one t
 And all spell our name E-l-i-o-t?
 And, if two good reasons I must show,
 First, our great Eliot spelt it so,
 And next—the anagram is toile,
 The greatest, grandest privilege of man.
 Whether to do great deeds or till the soil;
 Therefore I say, adopt the ancient plan.
 E-l-i-o-t—
 T-o-i-l-e.

10. PLACES IN ENGLAND

KNOWN TO BE CLOSELY ASSOCIATED WITH THE MEMORY OF JOHN ELIOT.

I. Widford in Hertfordshire, about twenty-six miles north by east from London. It contains about 500 inhabitants. Here in the Parish Register is the record of the marriage of his father and mother; and of the baptisms of their children, Sarah, Philip, John, and Jacob; and here is the Memorial window to John.

II. Nazeing in Essex, about nineteen miles north by east from London. It contains about 1,800 inhabitants. Here in the Parish Register is the record of the baptisms of the younger children, Lydia, Francis and Mary; and here is the record of the burial of the father and mother.

III. Jesus College, Cambridge University. Here in the Library of the College is a copy of the first edition of the Indian Bible, with a presentation inscription in Latin by the translator—the most valuable copy in existence.

IV. Little Baddow in Essex, about thirty-five miles north-east from London. Here between 1622, the year of his graduation from college, and 1631, when he left England for America, he was for some time a teacher in the school of the Rev. Thomas Hooker—it is not known how long.

11. TOWNS OF "PRAYING INDIANS".

From the year 1651, when Natick was founded, to King Philip's war, 1675-78, towns for the Christian Indians, one after another, were established until they numbered sixteen. Seven of them were designated as old towns "because they were first settled in civil and religious order." In the "Nipmuck country," which was in that part of Massachusetts now occupied by towns in the middle and lower part of Worcester County, there were about nine new towns. In Gookin's Historical Collections of the Indians in New England, these towns are called Natick, Pakemit or Punkapoag, Hassanamesitt, Okommakamesit, Wamesit, Nashobah, Magunkaquoog, Manchage, Chabanakongkomun, Maanexit, Quantisset, Wabquissit, Packacoog, Waeuntug, and two others, Weshakim and Quabaug, "which are coming to receive the gospel".

These towns are supposed to have contained about eleven hundred "yielding obedience to the gospel".

The results of Philip's war were most disastrous, nearly all, if not all, the new praying towns in the Nipmuck country having been annihilated.

Four, of all the Indian towns, in 1684 were Natick, Ponkipog, Wamesit, and Chachaubunkkakowok.

The spelling of the names differ in the writings of different authors.

Natick is the only one which has become permanent.

12. OTHER ELIOTS

AMONG THE EARLY SETTLERS IN NEW ENGLAND BESIDES THE "APOSTLE" AND HIS THREE BROTHERS.

I. John of Watertown, Mass., 1633. He probably removed to Stamford, Conn., in 1650. His wife, Margaret, died there Aug. 17, 1658.

II. "William Eliot, sometimes of New Sarum" (Salisbury), England, was drowned at Thacher's Island, "about two miles east of the southeast point of Cape Ann", Mass., Aug. 15, 1635.

III. Edmund of Amesbury, Mass. Arrived about 1650.

IV. Richard of New London, Conn., in 1662. (Transient.)

V. Richard of Beverly, Mass., in 1664.

VI. Joseph of New London, 1667.

VII. Henry of Stonington, 1678.

VIII. Robert of Casco, Scarborough, 1685

IX. Thomas of Boston, Mass., 1686.

X. Daniel of Sudbury or Marlborough, 1687.

XI. Andrew, from East Coker, Somersetshire, England, came to Beverly, Mass., between 1668 and 1670. He was one of the jury in the witch trials at Salem, for which he and the other jurymen asked forgiveness.

The genealogy of this family by Walter Graeme Eliot was published in 1887.

Many distinguished men, one of them Charles William Eliot, President of Harvard University, trace their ancestry to this emigrant.

Levi and Oliver Elliott, brothers, who may have been descendants of some one of the preceding, came from Maine or Vermont to Cherry Flats, Tioga Co., Pa., where they lived and died, marrying and having a large family of male children.

Mortimer F. Elliott, 26 Broadway, New York City, attorney for the Standard Oil Co., is of this line.

A. M. Elliott, 935 North Calvert street, Baltimore, Md., writes that his stock came from the Carolinas—Wilmington being the chief centre. We do not know whether he has traced to an early settler.

13. SERMON OF JOHN ELIOT,

REPORTED BY COTTON MATHER.

See pp. 21-24 of "The Life of the Renowned John Eliot . . .
Written by Cotton Mather . . . Boston . . . 1691."

Indeed I can not give a fuller Description of him than what was in a Paraphrase that I have heard himself to make upon that Scripture, our Conversation is in Heaven. I writt from him as he uttered it.

"Behold, said he, the Ancient and Excellent Character of a true Christian; 'tis that which Peter calls Holiness in all manner of Conversation; you shall not find a Christian out of the way of Godly Conversation. For, first, a seventh part of our time is all Spent in Heaven, where we are duely zealous for and zealous on, the Sabbath of God. Besides, God has written on the Head of the Sabbath Remember; which looks both Forwards and Backwards; and thus a good part of the week will be spent in Sabbatizing. Well, but for the rest of our Time! why, we shall have that spent in Heaven, ere we have done. For, Secondly, we have many days for both Fasting and Thanksgiving, in our pilgrimage; and here are so many Sabbaths more. Moreover, Thirdly, we have our Lectures every week; and pious people, won't miss them, if they can help it. Furthermore, fourthly, We have our private Meetings wherein we pray, & sing, and Repeat Sermons, and confer together about the things of God; and being now come thus far, we are in Heaven almost every day. But a little farther, Fifthly, we perform Family-Duties every day; we have our morning and evening Sacrifices, wherein having read the Scriptures to our Families, we call upon the Name of God, and ever now and then carefully Catechise those that are under our Charge. Sixthly, we shall also have our daily Devotions in our Closets; wherein unto Supplication before the Lord, we shall add some serious Meditation upon his Word; a David will be at this work no less than thrice a day. Seventhly, We have likewise many scores of Ejaculations in a day; and these we have, like Nehemiah, in whatever place we come into. Eighthly, We have our Occasional Thoughts, and our Occasional Talks, upon spiritual matters; and we have our Occasional Acts of Charity, wherein we do like the Inhabitants of Heaven every day. Ninthly, in our Callings, in our civil Callings, we keep up Heavenly Frames; we buy and sell and toyl, yea, we eat and drink, with some eye both to the Command and the Honour of God in all. Behold I have not now left an inch of time to be carnal; it is all Engrossed for Heaven. And yet, lest here should not be enough, Lastly, We have our spiritual Warfare. We are always Encountering the Enemies of our Souls, which continually raises our hearts unto our Helper and Leader in the Heavens. Let no man say, 'Tis impossible to live at this rate; for we have known some live thus; and others that have written of such a life, have but spun a Web out of their own blessed Experiences. New-England has Examples of this life; tho, alas, 'tis to be lamented, that the Distractions of the world, in too many professors do becloud the beauty of an Heavenly Conversation. In fine, our Employment lies in Heaven. In the morning, if we ask, Where am I to be to day? Our Souls must answer, In Heaven. In the evening, if we ask, Where have I been to day? Our Souls may answer, In Heaven. If thou art a Believer, thou art no stranger to Heaven while thou livest; and when thou dyest, Heaven will be no strange place to thee; no, thou hast been there a thousand times before".

Cotton Mather adds—: "In this language have I heard him express himself; and he did what he said; he was a Boniface as well as a Benedict; and he was one of those Qui faciendo docent, quae facienda docent.

It might be said of him, as that Writer characterises Origen, Quaemadmodum docuit, sic vixit, et quaemadmodum vixit, sic docuit."

14. LETTER OF JOHN ELIOT TO OLIVER CROMWELL.

"To His Excellency, the Lord General Cromwel; Grace, Mercy, and Peace be Multiplied.

Right Honorable,

Envy itself can not deny that the Lord hath raised and improved You in an Eminent manner to overthrow Antichrist, and to accomplish, in part, the prophecies and Promises of the Churches Deliverance from that Bondage: In all which Service, the Lord hath not only kept Your Honor unsteined, but also caused the Lustre of those precious Graces of Humanity, Faith, Love of Truth, and Love to the Saints, &c. with which, through His Free Grace, He hath enriched You, to shine forth abundantly beyond all exception of any that are, or have been Adversaries to Your Proceedings. Now as the design of Christ in these daies is double, namely, First; To overthrow Antichrist by the Wars of the Lamb; and Secondly, To raise up His own Kingdom in the room of all Earthly Powers which He doth cast down, and to bring all the World subject to be ruled in all things by the Word of His mouth. And as the Lord hath raised and improved You, to accomplish (so far as this Work hath proceeded) the first part of His Design, so I trust that the Lord will yet further improve You, to set upon the accomplishment of the Second part of the design of Christ; not only by endeavoring to put Government into the hands of Saints, which the Lord hath made you eminently careful to do, but also by promoting Scripture Government and Laws, that so the Word of Christ might rule all. In which great Services unto the Name of Christ, I doubt not, but it will be some Comfort to Your heart to see the Kingdom of Christ rising up in these Western Parts of the World; and some confirmation it will be, that the Lord's time is come to advance and spread His Blessed Kingdom, which shall (in His season) fill all the Earth: and some encouragement to your heart, to prosecute that part of the Design of Christ, namely, That Christ might Reign. Such Considerations, together with the Favorable Respect You have alwaies shewed to poor New-England, had imboldned me to present unto Your Hand, these first Confessions of that Grace which the Lord hath bestowed upon these poor Natives, and to publish them under the protection of Your Name, begging earnestly the continuance of Your Prayers for the further proceeding of this gracious Work: And so Committing Your Honor to the Lord, and to the Word of His Grace, and all Your weighty affairs to His Heavenly Direction, I rest

Your Honors to serve You, in the Service of Christ
JOHN ELIOT."

Tears of Repentance:
London: 1653.

15. LETTERS OF JOSEPH ELIOT.

To the Reverend his good friend M^r. Increase Mather Teacher to the 2^d. church in Boston, these.

Reverend S^r—I received before or in winter your letter and your books, for which I heartily thank you. In perusing your book of Answer of Prayers I found some things very considerable; but one thing I much wondered at, that whereas you give an account of prayers and answers as in the Masathuset, Plimouth, England, there is not one word referring to Connecticut, nor is it so much as mentioned in the whole discourse that I can remember. I suppose you will say it was for want of intelligence, and so I believe it was not any design at concealment, but yet had it not been highly expedient to have sent into these parts, and have understood what trade of prayer was here driven by the Saints, before you had printed; for want of which easy duty I know not but yours may be amiss of some things whereby X^t might have been honored; yet I am afraid to be too busy or forward in managing such pleas as not being altogether unacquainted with the deceitfulness of heart, which under pretence of X's honor we seek our own. It can not now be recalled; but I could heartily wish, that in things of publique and universal import there might be no precipitation used, but all things maturely weighed, and the best intelligence gained, lest the world have erudition instead of narratives. But I need not enlarge upon that matter. I hear you are under a sad visitation of the poxe. The Lord's anger is not turned away, but His hand is stretched out still. We may even with trembling stand and wait to see what God wil doe with poor New England. For my own part I durst not but hope in the name of the Holy One of Israel. I perceive in your book concerning Church Children you have taken up D^r. Owen's notion about baptism. I think it would solve many difficulties if it could be set clear. I am perswaded the Doctor hath more to say about it than yet he hath spoken, being but as it were . . . and what he hath said, laying one thing with another, to the best of my apprehension, is not far from contradictory. I would be very glad if you or any body would stir him up to elucidate and elaborate his notions on that subject. I hope it would be of great use to the Church of God. I hear God hath made a great breach among you by taking away Mr. Sheapard. I know not whither he had any thing provided for the presse. I hope his friends will not be wanting to search, that so if there be, right may be done both to him and the world. There was a man telling of me within these few days that it was strang to observe what a black run of things had followed the Colledge businesse in reference to the doctor. We have in these parts some fears of new trouble from the Indians, & how it is with you and at the eastward, I have not particularly heard. I would thank you if you would communicate to me not only your own but your European newes when it comes to hand. I shal not further inlarg at present but with dear remembrance to your self and yours, remain

Yours in our Savior

JOSEPH ELIOT.

Guil: 3 May. 78.

Note by I. Mather. "Received May 18, 78, brought to me by M^r Johnston who found it in the street".

For the Reverend M^r. Mather, Teacher to the 2^d. Church in Boston, these d^r.

Guil: July 17, 78.

Reverend S^r,—I received your late letter safely delivered to me, and not dropped in the street as mine was. As to that first businesse my scope was to intimate that before such kind of treatises are put forth as contain aliquid commune, the affairs I mean, or concerns of a people, it is requisite that there should be such a collection of materials as may in some measure reach in the extent of the whole, without which both persons and things are liable to suffer injury; and as that was my scope so it is still my apprehension, according to which level I think both your discourse of prayer and of the late warre were put forth with too much precipitation, and that your book of the former troubles of the country is farre more elaborate and comprehensive; yet in all these I have not the least thought of disparaging the usefulness of the truths and . . . so farre as they goe, but could have wished that the readers might have been advantaged with the rest, that by no great expense of pains might have been superadded haec oportet facere et illa non omittere. I perceive you have come in the way of sundry pieces of the Virtuosi. I say per se they doe elaborate more and greater things than those you mention; yet concerning longitude memory fails me, if I have not read something of that kind on foot these sundry years (?) I would earnestly entreat you, out of pity to a famished man, to send me such treatises historical or philosophical as you have by you, especially that concerning the designes of a French government in England. I shall carefully return you. And as a pledge of my care, at last I now send you your Hudson. I have kept it long, not so much for the sake of the book as for the learned annotations in the margine, which I am perswaded wil prove an antispleenetick medicine, beyond most that you have tryed, especiall in conjunction with the letter at the end pinned on by your brother and carefully preserved ever since by me. I suppose also after a view of it you will not easily be perswaded to part with it. Now there is one thing in my mind that I would propound to you. I did some years agoe see papers of weekly edition after the manner of the Gazets, under the name of Philosophical Observations by John (Henry) Oldenburgh, Fellow of the Society. Those of them that I saw contained relations and passages exceeding worthy the knowledge. Now if you could see it in your way to send for the whole of these Collections, though I know not whither they are still continued, not having seen any these 6 or 7 years, I am perswaded you would not repent of your cost, especially if so much goodnesse might accompany your injoyment as to be helpful to your poorer sort of neighbors that will be glad to sit down at the reversion of your table. I do not remember that you returned any word whether you had met with the story of the late brave Turkish Vizier. If it be to be had I am stil very desirous of it. If you have Gorsius (?) works by you, doe so much as send out a discourse which is as I remember about a greater or 3 part of the book in containing Exhortations to young people, and think if it may not deserve translation, at least the substance of it. I know not but it might operate the more to consider that such lively passages are fetched as it were out of the dark bowels of Popish times. I have seen a small treatise in verse, such as it is, not over Heliconian, yet honest, printed at Boston, against the Quakers, by one B. K. whose name I can not unriddle. The continuance of the poxe, winter and Summer upon you is a very sad and something unusual dispensation. As to fears of a new warre from the enemy, we see not much cause of it. By any thing appearing to our view that murther at New London we can not discern to have any root of danger, but a mere private act of malice; yet I desire we may not be secure especially while the blow upon the Natique Indians is aparent and carries a hazardous look in it. The blast upon the wheat is more prevalent this year in these parts than it hath been for sundry years past. It is or may be a sharp scourge. yet it is better to fal into the hand of the Lord than into the hand of man. I hope we shal not into both: thus when I begin I scarce know how to make an end. Were I with you, a little time would not satisfie me to inquire about the posture of the ministry and people at Boston, which seems somewhat odde, but such things are not so fit for writing. When your engine comes from London to advance speech so incredibly is come, if it wil promote anything toward our confabulation at this distance, or if it were much nearer than that you mention in your letter, I should think the better of Squire Morland as long as I had occasion to think of such things. But I shal grow tedious. With, therefore the remembrance of choicest respects to yourself and wife, and desire that our hearts may be stirred up in mutual prayer for each other, that we may be prepared for our charges and inabled for our duties through grace and strength from X^t Jesus I remain

Yours ever in him, Joseph Eliot.

For the reverend Mr Increase Mather teacher to the 2^d church in Boston, these.

Reverend Sr.—I received your letter in winter, with an almanack and some verses, for all which I thank you. My letter contained 2 objections, and in hopes you will not refer me to the mercy of the schoolmaster, I wil tel you my further thoughts about them. To that that was the 2^d, as I placed them, you give sundry answers, which I readily own have a fair look of satisfaction, viz: that it is no more strange that Gog and Magog should rise against the heavenly Jerusalem, than that the angels should rise against God himself, &c, yet I must say that such answers reach not so fully as I could wish, for there is none of them a full proportion to the case in hand, though the instance of the angels comes nearest: but I am willing to make most of any thing that looks Scripturally rational (?). Then for the other objection concerning the burning of the world, and the impossibility of an unmiraculous continuance of the wicked, in case of a general conflagration, I did not observe any thing in your letter . . . towards an answer. I would therefore be glad to have your thoughts upon it. 2 things I can see sayable upon it; 1 that the world may be supposed to suffer combustion but in part, as wel as the dead to receive a resurrection but in part, were there any countenance for it in scripture: a 2^d thing is that it may be taken for a metaphorical combustion which that Allin you mention insists upon, but truly if the Chiliasm are proved (?), and if no better answers I shal stil remain in my hesitation; furthermore I do not see into the reason of your so much insisting in your letter vpon the distinction of the personal appearance of X^t and the personal raigne, allowing the state of that Jerusalem to be perfect heaven, I reach not what is gained by the distinction, or lost for want of it; a new heaven and earth I can freely graunt, but a sinlesse heaven is not so clear to me: as for Medes coniectures of Gog and Magog, I have not seen that peece. If it be by it selfe in a volume, I should be very glad to obtain a sight of it, if you would send any by the bearer of this letter, one of my neighbors, Stephen Bishop, I should return it safe in about a years time, though I have of myself read . . . of Mede, as his comment upon the revelations, apostacy of the latter times, chappel exercises. I sent for all his works, but these were all I . . . I prefer him before any I have seen for the solid satis . . . understanding. I am glad your book gives so much content ahead(y) . . . ring of the Church of God is the great thing we should aim at in our . . . is. your sons verses are well spirited, but in my thoughts he wil never win the laurel for his poesy. I am usually afraid when I see young men . . . be drawn out by a few partial admirers to their own disadvantage: the state of the country stands very ticklish. I should be glad to hear there were a spirit of . . . or courage amongst you and of a sound mind. The Lord help us all, that we may prepare for what looks out upon us, and yet look up to the God of our salvation. This is all at present.

I am yours in the gospel, Joseph Eliot.

LETTER OF JOSEPH ELIOT TO JOHN WINTHROP, JR.

Honorable Sr.—I have bene wont to be before hand wth others in the gazets: y^s year I have been disappointed of y^m. My intrcatty y^rfore is unto yourself, y^t you would do me the favor to lend me such as are gainable y^r, and I shal carefully return y^m: it is one addition to the advantage of reading y^m y^t in y^s our calamitous times we can the better sympathize wth the European stories of the sad effects of y^{es} warrs: as also if any thing from the Royal Society be come to hand I desire the same favor. Y^r is one thing more, I left my wife ill in the Bay, and have not gained a word of intelligence from her, or about her, since I came away, and hard it is to gain any, in y^s sad interruption of passage: if y^r be the least intimation to be gathered up by the travellers y^t came last y^{nc}, I suppose it may have reached your ear, and it would be no small favor to let me hear it. No further at present, but only being glad for the sake of the publique of your having laid aside your thoughts of England for the present, I hope I shal have the oftener the opportunity to present the affectionate service of 17. PUBLICATIONS OF REV. JOHN ELIOT (No. 96).

"A selected, pronouncing and accented Dictionary, Comprising a Selection of the Choicest Words found in the best English Authors, Being an Abridgement of the most useful Dictionaries now extant; together with the addition of a number of words now in vogue not found in any Dictionary.

In which the definitions are concisely given, the words so divided as to lead to the present mode of pronunciation, and by a typographical character, the sound of the vowels and accented syllables are distinctly pointed out; and the parts of speech noted & explained.

The whole made easy and familiar to children or youth and designed for the use of schools in America.

By John Elliott,
Pastor of the Church in East-Guilford.
And Samuel Johnson, junr.
Author of the "School Dictionary".

In addition to the above, the work contains some general observation on the derivation of words, and an explanation of the inseparable prepositions, together with a table correcting common errors in spelling and pronunciation.

18. MISCELLANEOUS.

NATICK DICTIONARY.

In 1903 the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution published a work by James Hammond Trumbull, with an introduction by Edward Everett Hale, being, in short, a dictionary of the Algonquin languages—the same ones in which Eliot's Bible was written. We quote from the introduction :

"Dr. Trumbull's vocabularies constitute the most important contribution to the scientific study of Eliot's Indian Bible which has been made since that wonderful book was published."

"Such careful study as Dr. Trumbull and Duponceau and Pickering and Heckewelder have given to the Algonquin languages shows beyond a doubt that John Eliot was one of the great philologists of the world. His study of the remarkable grammatic construction of the Indian languages proves to be scientific and correct."

"All study of these languages through the century which has just passed has proved that the elaborate system of grammar was correctly described by Eliot, and, to the surprise of European philologists, that it is fairly uniform.

"A Corporation for the Promoting and Propagating of the Gospel of Jesus Christ in New England", established July 27, 1649. With the restoration of Charles II., it became defunct, but it was revived under the name of "The Company for the Propagation of the Gospel in New England and the parts adjacent in America". Nowadays it is known as the New England Company. Its work is now carried on in British America.

This Society, the oldest Protestant Missionary Society in the world, owes its origin to reports from New England in regard to the promising labors to convert the Indians to Christianity. Large collections were made throughout England and Wales, and legacies were bequeathed, whereby the expense of printing the Bible and translations of several books in the Indian language, and the payment of the salaries of missionaries and school teachers, was defrayed.

In the appendix to the Life of John Eliot by the Rev. Nehemiah Adams, p. 311, it is stated that in 1800, the funds of the Society amounted to $20,000. In 1847 they were about twice that sum. At present they are so large that no additions are called for.

In 1899, the President wrote:—"The business of the Company is carried on justly and ungrudgingly by its members as it has been for two and a half centuries without fee or reward of any kind other than that of a good conscience and doing their duty."

Propositions aboute appiel and fashions to declare wt is sinful and offensive. Written by John Eliot in 1658.

1 For the meaner sort of men or women to aime to goe in their app'iel for matter or for manner, according to the cheaper or wealthier is justly offensive because it is above theire ranke, ability

2 for any to weare yt app'il here yt for matter or manner did not beseme them or those of the same ranke they now are in Old England, is also justly offensive.

3 notwithstanding this fall of many estates here, we doe not think it offensive to ware out such app'el as they brought with them provided it was not above their ranke in England

4 if such provide new, it is offensive to provide it according to their Estate yt was in England if above wt it is here.

5 Constancy in a fashion is commendable especial in Christians and therefore such levity of spirit, as to follow new fashions so soon as they be in use among the vain youth in our country, or among strangers, it is a matter particly offensive.

6. all garish or wanton fashions are justly offensive, as to goe with brests or wrists naked to an immoderate height.

7 locks and long haire (now in England cal'd rattle heads and opposite to Christians who weare short haire, all of a length and therefore cal'd round heads) is an offence to many godly Christians and therefore be it known to such they walk offensively.

Taken from a scrap-book in the Library of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society. They were printed in the "Norfolk County Journal", Roxbury, Mass., from the Book of Records of the Church in Roxbury, Mass., in the handwriting of John Eliot, "Apostle to the Indians". The context shows that they were written on, or before "24th of 8th m 1658."

A SINGULAR WAY TO MAKE INK.

The spring time is best to make it. the proportions of a quart: Take a quart of white wine, worte or raine watr 4 ounces of galls quartered, not powdered 2 ounces of coppas: (or lese) one ounce & halfe of gumme arabik put these together cold & stir ym often, especially at first—after 10 weeks straine it throu a cleane harde (hair) cloth. And the same materials will make as much inke over and over againe, if you put first vinegar, or old beer strong beer—wirt or water will mould in the top, wine or old stale beer will not.

The handwriting of the original is not readily deciphered. The above reading is that of J. Wingate Thornton, deceased, as found in a Scrap-book in the Library of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, Boston, Mass.

PARISH TOMB AT ROXBURY.

(See illustration.)

Near the centre of the burial ground, corner of Eustis and Washington Streets, Roxbury, is "The Parish Tomb". Its sides, about three feet high, made of sandstone, are covered by a marble slab, which is thus inscribed:

Here lie the Remains

A SHEAF OF SONG.

In Memory of Ethel Lynn Beers.

BY JOSEPHINE POLLARD.

The world is full of singers, and they throng
 By various ways to reach a common goal,
 Each giving to the air such meed of song
 As he can best control.

Some wear the golden rose of melody, replete
 With fragrance that a subtle charm imparts;
 While others, crowned with violets, warble sweet
 To a few friendly hearts.

Some wander to the mountain top sublime,
 A loftier inspiration to inhale,
 And smile at those who ne'er essay to climb
 Above the lowly vale.

And she who with a graceful movement swept
 The chords of song to tender melodies,
 Assured the world that 'twas a woman kept
 Her fingers on the keys.

When all forgotten is the lofty strain
 Whose rhymes are woven with ingenious art,
 Her words of simple pathos will remain
 Engraven on the heart.

And when she strove to bind the sheaf of song
 That sweetly blossomed 'neath a kindly sun,
 The Master called her from the busy throng;
 Her work on earth was done.

While cities turned the leaves she fell asleep,
 Nor praise nor blame her quiet slumbers break,
 And those who loved her best her songs will keep,
 And treasure for her sake.

MONTHLY ADVICE PUBLISHED IN BECKWITH'S ALMANAC.

1851

BY CHARLES WYLLYS ELLIOTT.

JANUARY.

Now take care of your cattle—remember that a good man is good to his beast. Now instruct your children—see that your wife does not become a drudge. Now see to the getting of good seed and guard it from rats and mice. Look over your fruit bins—send some that is good to the poor and the sick. Take some to the clergyman, help him to search for the truth. Spend a dollar or two in books—don't be afraid of good ones. See that idleness does not open the door to the devil.

FEBRUARY.

Now is the time to get all ready for spring—the sap of the tree will tend toward the branches—begin to stir. Warm your blood with work and not with rum. Sharpen your plows, your hoes, mend your tools, see to your rake teeth, your own, your childrens, especially. Now get together all sorts of rubbish for manure—lay it out from the barn-yard in heaps in your fields when convenient. Now is the time to open your books, encourage your wife, see what your children are about; an ounce of encouragement is worth a pound of fault-finding. Keep your body clean, and wrench from your mind prejudice and meanness—preach the truth and practice it.

MARCH.

Now straighten all out for spring—look over tools, seeds, &c., get fences mended, gates made. Get grafts of good fruits, cuttings of quinces, currants, &c.—Think seriously about selling our your remaining produce—remember that you cannot always get the highest price. Let your wife see what a miserable place the city is—bring her some clean salt for butter—look in upon improved tools, a hint is sometimes as good as a kick. Now get out your manure, and keep ahead of your work. Prune your grape vines, trees, &c.—Tie up your raspberries. Read, even though it is not Sunday, if you can contrive no other work.

APRIL.

Now begin in earnest—plow well; and plow deep—six inches is not often too deep, and men have gone eight inches with good results. Plow worn-out fields well, and put in clover or rye, to be turned under for manure. Keep your land up, in good heart. Now plant all your trees, and examine the roots of peach trees for grubs—begin in the garden with peas and potatoes. Now prepare for 'lection, and vote for a man who will do justly, rather than for a party slave. Remember that the truth alone can make you free.

MAY.

Now work, for it is diligence which maketh rich; know to-day what you will do to-morrow; so the morning, the cream of the day, may be saved. Remember that this month is the great month for the farmer; having prepared for it thoroughly, do it intelligently. Now see to the garden, get in a good supply of peas, beans, tomatoes, cabbages, (possibly celery) &c., &c. You will find pleasure and profit will result. Look out well for caterpillars and insects, and let none escape you; Now, after planting, take two days for recreation—go to the seaside, if you can.

JUNE.

Now hoe—hoe well. Pay as you go—but don't pay too dear for experience. Now put in some patches of carrots for winter feed for cows. You should not be behind with your work, but should have some leisure to think of what you have done, what you ought to do, and if you have done wrong, to repent. Now beware of anger, or you may fall into the hands of lawyers, a class of most unfortunate, if not worthy men.

JULY.

Now you should begin to lay by for the winter—a full harvest makes a glad hearth. Remember that to him to whom much is given, much will be required. Let us have no more grumbling at God's weather—farmers never starve—a drought is not the greatest evil, neither blight nor mildew.

Now bud your trees; grub up briars and thorns. Be careful not to overwork yourself nor your hands; drink water, but do not drink to excess. Remember the account of the woman who spent her fortune upon physicians, but instead of growing better rather grew worse.

AUGUST.

Now bethink yourself of hospitality—that much neglected virtue, see that your poor city cousins get a breath of fresh air. Now be not ashamed of your oak floors, and your boiled pork upon such glad occasions. Now is the time to plow in weeds, to put in turnip crops, to bud peach trees and to see that no grubs are in the roots and make strawberry beds. Use what leisure you have well, and think not altogether of your own pleasure.

SEPTEMBER.

Now clear up all brambles and weeds—save all rubbish in your manure heap. Ditch your marshy ground before the autumn rains. Now see that your garden is clear from weeds—let everything be done decently and in order, Don't be afraid when you have leisure to look for Truth—it may be found in a stable, as often perhaps as in a palace—our of your party or church as often as in it.

OCTOBER.

Now you should store up your crops—what do you suppose the winter is for? One design of it is that you may prepare for it. Now top your corn stalks for fodder—select your seed corn and put it by where it will not heat—make your potatoes into three lots, one to feed the cows, one to sell and and one to give away. When the Indian summer comes go up to the mountains with your wife and praise God.

NOVEMBER.

Now remember how inconvenient it is to make a fire on a cold morning with a green wood covered with snow, and try to avoid this dreadful necessity. Provide simple and good clothes for yourself and your household, and secure the same sort of manners. Look out around you for the poor and the good-for-nothing; do not let drunkards make drunkards and paupers out of their children; every man is responsible for his own children, and, in some degree, for those of the incompetent—every pauper is money out of your pocket. Give thanks not only by eating well, but by doing well.

DECEMBER.

Now keep warm and keep well—let every one resolve to live so that colds and rheumatism will not enter his household. See that your children have good books, and do not be afraid to pay for a good teacher—but remember always that the best education is that which is got at home.

Now see that cattle, sheep, hens, etc., have good sheds and houses—see that they do not go hungry and dry as well as cold. There is never time to be idle—work, read, think! One great purpose of existence is work—to work in well-doing. Remember that in this month Christ was born—try to see with your own eyes what his life and death teach; and be certain of this, that a Christmas day spent in stuffing one's body and torturing live turkeys with a gun is a desecration.

THE LAST OF ELIOT'S INDIANS.

A correspondent from Boston writes of the "last of John Eliot's Indians" in the New York Sun of March 30, 1902. Mrs. Patience Fidelia Clifton, a widow, seventy-two years old, resides on Brigham's Hill, Grafton, Mass., the Indian name of which was Hassanamesitt. She is not purely Indian, as she has a strain of Negro blood. The Massachusetts Legislature grants her an annuity of $200, payable through the selectmen of the town.

POSITIVE PEDIGREE AND AUTHORIZED ARMS.

In a number of the New England Genealogical and Historical Register descendants of the following are mentioned as the only American families having the right to use English crests and coats-of-arms. Since then a few others have been added:

Joseph Alsop
 Samuel Appleton.
 Thomas Broughton
 Obadiah Bruce
 Rev. Peter Bulkley.
 Rev. Chas. Chauncey.
 Leonard Chester.

Rev. John Davenport.
 Humphrey Davie.
 John Drake.
 Edmund Fawkener.
 George Fenwick.
 W^m Gayer.
 W^m Hanbury.

Roger Harlakenden.	Samuel Penhallow.
John Hunlock.	David Phippen.
W ^m Jeffrey.	Sir Richard Saltonstall
W ^m Leete.	W ^m Snelling.
Percival Lowle.	Samuel Symonds.
Edward Palms.	John Thorndyke.
Herbert Pelham.	George Wyllys.

John Winthrop.

As it has never been proved that John Eliot was descended from the St. Germans branch of the family, the family has no right to use the crest and coat-of-arms published in the title-page of the old Eliot genealogy.

EXTRACTS FROM EDWARD EVERETT HALE'S ESTIMATE OF ELIOT.

"It would seem that we owe to Eliot the establishment of the first proper Sunday School in America and perhaps one may say in the English Realm".

[See Part III, "Events in the Life of John Eliot", for the extract taken from the Roxbury Church records in regard to the religious instruction of the youth.]

Dr. DeNormandie, pastor of the Eliot Church at Roxbury, ascribes to Eliot the general establishment of "grammar schools" among the institutions of Massachusetts. He says: "One day all the neighboring churches were gathered in Boston to 'consider how the miscarriages which were among us might be prevented'. Eliot exclaimed with great fervor 'Lord for our schools everywhere among us! That our schools may flourish! That every member of this assembly may go home and procure a good school to be encouraged in the town where he lives! That before we die we may be so happy as to see a good school encouraged in every plantation in the country.'"

Cotton Mather adds:

"God so pleased his endeavors that Roxbury could not live quietly without a free school in the town". "And the issue of it has been one thing which has almost made me put the title of "Schola Illustrus" upon that little nursery; that is that Roxbury has afforded more scholars, first for the college and then for the publick, than any town of its bigness—or if I mistake not, of twice its bigness, in all New-England."

INDICES

INSTRUCTIONS

TO FIND YOUR RECORD IN PART II.

The numbers in small-sized type run along consecutively through the book, being interrupted by the numbers in large type only where a male Eliot appears as head of a family.

If you are an Eliot, look up your name in the Eliot index and from your birth date find your number. Turn to the corresponding number in small type and find your record. If you are a female Eliot, your record is in one place only. If you are a male Eliot and there is a + sign before your name in the small type, this signifies a continuation and you must look forward to your number in large type to find your record as head of a family.

If your name is other than Eliot look it up in Index II., where you will find opposite to your name not only the number of the Eliot who was your ancestor, but also a page reference.
